MADRID MOBS FIRE CHURCHES; NUNS IN FLIGHT

Anti-Religion Riots Spread in Spain.

BULLETIN.

SEVILLE, Spain, May 12.—(Tuesday.)—(AP)—Five Roman Catholic convents and churches were burned by riotous mobs in Seville early today. Occupants of the convents fled to houses of relatives and friends for shelter. Martial law was declared in the city.

BULLETIN.

CADIZ, Spain, May 12.—(Tuesday.)—(AP)—Four Roman Catholic convents were burned during the night by mobs which, taking up an anti-church cry heard earlier, in Madrid, dominated parts of the city for hours before being brought under control. One Jesuit priest was seriously injured by the mob, which stoned him.

MADRID, May 11. — Madrid this evening night is heavy with the smoke [illegible] churches [illegible] today on the altar of the young republic. With [illegible] grotesque, ape [illegible] Spain's capital [illegible] burned them in revenge for yesterday's monarchist escapade, and all of its resultant bloodshed, the first violence the republic has known.

The pillars of smoke rose into the blue sky and shots were fired. There was panic in the homes of the nobility. Two of those who were wounded yesterday died, but nobody has seriously hurt today, when millions of peseta went up in smoke to purge the republic. Anti-religious riots also raged in other important cities, including Seville, Saragossa, Bilbao, Cadiz, and Bilboa.

The provisional government sat through the day in the palace of the prime minister at the Castellana end of the city, and at nightfall moved to the ministry of war. . . . . .

Berenguer Back in Prison.

The first move was to send back to prison Gen. Damaso Berenguer, former premier and dictator, on a new charge. He had been recently freed. Its next move was a concession to the mob—the dissolution of the supreme tribunal of the army and navy, which quashed, charges against him last week, and, incidentally, some seven weeks ago let these same ministers off lightly when they conspired against the crown.

The doors of the bank of Spain were ordered closed, and all stock exchange dealings were suspended.

At 1:30 o'clock this afternoon the military spoke of a sinister movement against the republic, alleging that monarchists and communists were at the bottom of the plot.

"We will proceed vigorously to defend this regime, for which the nation declared itself," the note said. "The conspirators might as well know that the throne, undermined by its own rottenness, has gone forever and attacks from other quarters will not be allowed further."

Troops Appear in Streets.

At 3 o'clock martial law was declared. A regiment of infantry, headed by a band, paraded through the principal streets to announce it, and placards were slapped up everywhere. Later in the afternoon tanks rattled through the streets, with soldiers demonstrating how handily the machine gun turrets could be turned.

All day long self-appointed commissars spied on the harried government. When the government doors were closed to a throng of workmen, Gen. Valdes, Maj. Ramon Franco's companion on his Atlantic flight, stepped forward and cried:

"If the government closes the doors we will open them."

The first headed a group of six, who entered demand that the civil [illegible]

GOLDEN GLOVES CHAMPIONS BOX FRENCH TONIGHT

Hold 14 Fights at Soldiers' Field.

Win or lose tonight, America's Golden Gloves boxers will be sportsmen through and through. Their captain, Fred Caserio, spoke to them on the eve of battle.

"These fellows have come 4,000 miles to fight us," he said. "They'll be meeting us before strangers who don't even speak their language. But they're going to get the squarest deal any boxing team ever got anywhere. Not one of us is going to take unfair advantage even if he gets a chance. We want to win these matches, but we want to win them on the up-and-up or not at all. Victory's mighty important, but there's something more important—and that's sportsmanship."

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.

The composite Golden Gloves team of Chicago and New York fighters, survivors of a competition that drew approximately 5,600 entrants, will fight the amateur champions of France tonight in the closing scene of the greatest boxing program ever produced.

The bouts will be held in the vast amphitheater of Soldiers' field on the lake front where 145,000 saw the historic second fight between Gene Tunney and Jack Dempsey. A crowd that may approach 100,000 will watch the bouts, which will start at 8 o'clock.

The 21,000 who subscribed for the reserved seats will be entitled to the rows close to the ring. All the other seats in the open air arena have been placed on sale at 50 cents, and business has been brisk at temporary ticket booths on Michigan avenue and at THE TRIBUNE'S public service offices. These seats will be unreserved and the gates will be thrown open at 4 o'clock this afternoon to permit those who arrive first to take the best positions. Ticket booths at Soldiers' field will be opened at 4 o'clock.

Fireworks Start Show.

The fighters will take the ring amid the warlike glow and rumble of a patriotic display of fireworks, each team escorted to the ring by a band and a guard of ex-soldiers in uniform. The French war veterans of Chicago will march down the aisle attending the overseas boxers and the American Legion will usher the Golden Gloves fighters to the scene of battle. There, as the national anthems ascend from the bowl, the Stars and Stripes and the Tricolor of France will be run up, picked out by searchlight beams, and after the introductions, the fights will be on.

There will be eight championship bouts between the American Golden Gloves team, composed of six Chicagoans and two New York boys, and the French champions, who, with one exception, are national champions of France. That exception is Jacques Delahayes, the welterweight, who was selected by Dr. Charles Sebenq, vice president of the French Boxing federation, to replace the welterweight champion, Andre Turquet, a Paris gendarme, who became ill shortly before the team sailed. Delahayes is the champion of the Paris district.

Six Introductory Bouts.

In addition there will be six three round introductory fights between sub-

Cleaners Defy Capone Offer; War on Gangs

An attempt by Al Capone to seize control of the cleaning and dyeing industry, with promises of "police and price protection," was divulged yesterday by the Cleaners and Dyers' institute. This followed a meeting of 86 of the 96 members of the institute, held at the Knickerbocker hotel, at which the master cleaners voted unanimously to defy Capone.

"I am pleased to learn that this organization has the backbone to tell Capone his gang will not be allowed to muscle into a legitimate business," said State's Attorney Swanson.

"The cleaners and dyers asked me whether I would back them up in defying the gangster and I told them I certainly would, to the limit."

Sees Reverses for Gang.

Capone's efforts to take over the cleaning and dyeing industry were regarded by Assistant State's Attorney Charles J. Mueller, in charge of racketeer prosecutions, as an indication of the reverses suffered by the gang in recent months.

"There is no question that Capone's mob has been hard hit, and that he needs money," said Prosecutor Mueller. "His gambling racket has felt the force of raids by the police and the state's attorney's office, in connection with the special grand jury, and some of his biggest breweries have been raided by the federal agents. The prosecution of the big shots in the gang by the federal government, and the high bonds required, have no doubt caused Capone to look around for new ways of raising money."

Capone "Put on Spot."

Capone himself was "put on the spot" in connection with his scheme to seize the cleaning and dyeing industry, a committee representing organized labor and the institute having called upon him at the Lexington hotel, according to Dr. Benjamin M. Squires, chairman of the institute.

"About a month ago certain individuals who claimed to represent Capone approached members of our organization," said Dr. Squires. "They said he would take charge for 75 per cent of our annual receipts from members. In return, Capone would keep prices up, police the industry and take care of any recalcitrant cleaners who needed to be whipped into line.

Committee Sees Capone.

"Then at Capone's invitation, a committee was sent to him at the Lexington hotel, where he repeated his offer. Capone said that if we didn't accept his offer he would take over the industry anyway. He had come down in his price to 50 per cent of our annual income. The committee told him that we were running a legitimate business, and that no gangster associations would be tolerated."

Dr. Squires, who became arbiter for the Master Cleaners and Dyers and the Cleaners and Dyers' union more than two years ago, said that the annual revenue of the cleaners' institute is about $250,000. Each member pays 2 per cent of his gross receipts, which goes into an advertising fund.

Long Field for Racketeers.

For years the cleaning and dyeing industry has been known as a lucrative field for racketeers. Price cutting wars and price increases, slugings, and killings have been ascribed to the gangster influence. Capone first appeared in the picture in May of 1928, when he became the partner of Morris Becker in the Sanitary Cleaning Shops, Inc., for a reported consideration of $35,000. Jack Guzik, Philip D'Andrea and Frank Rio, Capone henchmen, were enrolled as "protectors" of the business.

Under the racketeer influence,

BY JAMES O'DONNELL BENNETT.

Last evening's parade, the first of the open air spectacles of the Chicago Jubilee, was just what the official proclamations said it would be—a big, handsome, colorful, exhilarating, and often highly instructive demonstration of what the real Chicago means.

Here, moving down Michigan avenue from Chicago avenue to Roosevelt road, was a dazzling epitome of the Chicago of colossal industries, of genuine artistic feeling, and of nearly a century of the most amazing civic growth in the annals of the world's commercial capitals.

Throngs Watch Spectacle.

There was not a tawdry nor a tasteless tableau in the spectacle.

For more than two miles people standing in lines twenty deep on the sidewalk beheld the pageantry, and in Grant park the lines were a hundred deep.

There were thrills and there was unflagging gayety in the unfolding of this picture of the trials and triumphs and high adventures of our city, and as an achievement in the swift, precise moving of huge masses of mounted and dismounted men, and of floats that sometimes were as big as railroad cars, it set a new model in the maneuvering of parades.

It started on time to the second—7:30 o'clock—and it never halted.

It lasted just long enough to keep the hundreds of thousands of spectators in pleasant excitement, and without tiring them.

Military Results Shown.

There was a bit of military technique in the working out of this agreeable celerity. The parade's duration in time was not so long as many another parade the town has turned out to see, but for numbers in line and for elaborateness it far surpassed most of them.

The secret was that troops and the civic bodies moved last evening largely in "lines of squad columns," instead of in "columns of platoons on the platoon front," as most parades do. The difference is one that military men will comprehend. For the spectators the advantage was that this parade was four times as compact as is the ordinary one, and hence it did not tire the people.

The weather was crisp and clear, holding true to the old saw of "rain before seven, clear before eleven." Yesterday morning there were drenching rains before 7, but by 11 there was bright sunshine, and, save for an hour of fog toward the end of the afternoon, it was gala weather.

Crowds Surge Loopward.

At 6 o'clock the usual tide of traffic was reversed. They were not homegoing throngs that filled the streets, but throngs bound downtown. And in an hour and a quarter the scene in the avenue brought back memories of the outpourings for the Eucharistic pageantry of five years ago.

At 7:25 came the jubilant clamor of church bells and factory whistles, and five minutes later the swift release of an avalanche of music and color beneath the old water tower at Chicago avenue.

Marchers Fill Avenue.

Marching men swung down Michigan avenue in columns reaching from curb to curb. There was block after block of floats moving in double lines. There were so many bands and drum and bugle corps that the deep-cadenced

WIDOW OF CAR LINE EXECUTIVE FALLS TO DEATH

Mrs. William Vaughan Jacobs, 60 years old, widow of the first president of the Calumet Electric Street Railway company, was killed last night in a fall from a window of her apartment on the ninth floor of the Mozart hotel, 102 East Chestnut street. She was alone in the apartment at the time and the police were unable to determine whether she jumped or fell by accident.

In her fall Mrs. Jacobs struck an automobile and plunged through it. She was alive when attaches of the hotel picked her up, but died soon afterward as she was being taken to the Henrotin hospital.

At the hotel it was said that she had apparently tried to kill herself by inhaling gas several weeks ago, but was prevented by a bellboy who smelled the gas. She had been in poor health and had expressed the opinion that she was losing her sight.

Her husband, Col. Jacobs, died eight years ago. He was lieutenant colonel of the old 1st Illinois regiment of the National Guard. He built fifty miles of street railway lines on the south side and was later a real estate operator in Glencoe. Mrs. Jacobs is survived by two sons, Maj. J. E. Jacobs and Whipple Jacobs, and a daughter, Mrs. Thomas E. Hough of Winnetka.

B. A. Eckhart, Civic Leader, Is Dead at 79

Bernard Albert Eckhart, president of the B. A. Eckhart Milling company and for sixty years one of Chicago's leading business and civic leaders, died last night at his home at 1530 Lake Shore drive.

Death was directly due to heart disease, but Mr. Eckhart, who was 79 years old, had been in poor health for many months and had been confined to his home. He underwent an operation in the summer of 1929 and was reported quite ill last August, but he rallied then.

A native of Alsace, Mr. Eckhart was brought to the United States in infancy. He lived as a boy on a farm in Vernon county, Wis., and attended school in Milwaukee. In 1870 he came to Chicago as representative of the Eagle Milling company of Milwaukee.

Organizer of Milling Companies.

He was one of the organizers of the Eckhart & Swan Co., later the Eckhart & Swan Milling Co., and of the milling company bearing his name, of which he was president from the time of its organization. From 1888 to 1891 he was a director of the Chicago Board of Trade. In 1902, when the Millers National federation was formed, he was made its first president. He served as president of the Illinois Manufacturers association in 1903.

Mr. Eckhart's public career included terms as member of the Illinois senate in 1887 and 1889. He was a trustee of the sanitary district of Chicago during the last nine years of the 19th century and president of the board for four years. From 1905 to 1908 he was president of the west park board.

He was one of the organizers and officers of the First regiment, Illinois National Guard. During the world war he was chairman of the Illinois and Wisconsin milling division of the government's food administration and a member of the citizens' war board of Chicago.

Director in Large Banks.

Extensive financial interests outside the milling field were acquired by Mr. Eckhart during his long career. He was a director of the Continental and Commercial National bank, now the Continental Illinois, the Northwestern Trust and Savings bank, Harris Trust and Savings bank, the Chicago Title and Trust company, the Erie railroad, Montgomery Ward & Co., and Armour & Co.

He was a trustee of Lewis Institute, a governing member of the Chicago Art Institute, and at one time a member of the state warehouse commission. He was a member of the Chicago, Union league, Onwentsia, Old Elm, Shore Acres, Commercial, Bankers and Art clubs.

Mr. Eckhart is survived by his widow, Mrs. Kate Johnston Eckhart, to whom he was married in 1874; two sons, Percy B. Eckhart and Carlos K. Eckhart of Chicago, and two daughters, Mrs. P. W. Brophy Jr. of Chicago and Mrs. E. Reginald Williams of Milwaukee.

EUGENE YSAYE, NOTED VIOLINIST, DIES AT 73; ILL ABOUT 2 YEARS

BRUSSELS, Belgium, May 12 [Tuesday].—(AP)—Eugene Ysaye, famous violinist, died at 4:30 a. m. today.

The noted musician, who once was director of the Cincinnati Symphony orchestra, was 73 years old and had been in failing health for several years. Recently his right leg was amputated, but this did not prevent him attending the premiere of his opera, "Peter the Miner," in Brussels on April 25.

Ysaye was born in Liege and was married twice. His first wife, Mme. Louise Ysaye, died suddenly at Brussels Feb. 13, 1924. His second wife was Miss Annette Dincin, 44 years his junior and daughter of Dr. Herman Dincin of Brooklyn. They were married July 9, 1927, at Le Zoute, a Belgian seaside resort.

Miss Dincin met Ysaye in 1920 while he was conductor of the Cincinnati orchestra. After hearing her play her aptitude for the violin was so evident to him that he invited her to become one of his pupils. Miss Dincin continued her studies in the United States for two years and then went to Brussels.

The rise of Ysaye to a place of eminence among the masters of the violin began with his leadership in 1880 of Bilse's orchestra in Berlin. The success of the orchestra added to his reputation, and after a year he appeared in concert until 1886. Then he became professor of violin at the Brussels conservatory and remained in that position ten years.

Ysaye made his first trip to the United States in 1894.

In the early days of the world war the famous violinist was among the Belgians who fled their country when it was invaded by the German armies. With hundreds of his fellow countrymen he made his way to London on a fishing boat.

THE TALK OF THE TOWN!

Yesterday's biggest sensation was the amazing array of values offered by Chicago stores. They're talking about it in scores of thousands of homes this morning.

"Bargains? Nothing like them in years!" This was the unanimous opinion of thousands of shrewd purchasers. If you didn't take advantage of the Jubilee offerings yesterday, don't let today go by without making an investigation for yourself. Visit the stores, inspect the new merchandise, the new styles, the new values. Then look at the price tags. Find out why the Jubilee offerings are the talk of the town!

There were hosts of pretty girls on floats.

There were Indian scenes pictured on floats that swayed majestically forward over precisely the ground whereon the pictured events took place more than two centuries ago. There were gorgeous glimpses of pagodas and canopies and banners borne by the merchants of Chinatown.

Industry Is Represented.

The essential trades and industries of Chicago, from bread making and glass making to airplane building, were illustrated with such feeling for the drama inherent in them and with such lavishness of decoration that they became bits of romance drifting through the night.

There was the skirling music of bagpipes and, when the Black Horse Troop rode by, there was the throb of kettle drums.

Everything symbolized and celebrated something essential in the toil and the achievement of the town, and the marvel was that all the effects had been prepared during the two weeks since Mayor Cermak issued the proclamation calling upon "commercial, industrial, and financial institutions, and the citizenship generally," to make ready "a civic celebration designed to demonstrate to the world Chicago's great market facilities, its many educational and cultural advantages, its beauty, and its unsurpassed opportunities for wholesome recreation."

A Loyal Response.

The response to the call was loyal and lavish and the demonstration was decisive.

To recount the splendors of the evening in detail would be to make this narrative a tedious catalog, and tedium of all things touched no aspect of the superb show. Its spirit was the finest part of it—the spirit of a proud city that can do things to be proud of.

R. O. T. C. Is Impressive.

Nothing more tellingly illustrated that spirit than the outpouring of the trained youth of the R. O. T. C.'s of the high schools. Twenty-six schools were represented and the precision, the ardor, and the dignity of the corps gave the elders looking on new heart for the future of the oncoming generation.

Closely marshaled formations of Boy Scouts marched by under acres of national and troops flags. Sea Scouts rode along in boats mounted on trucks and manned by natty crews of oarsmen.

In all there were 2,000 scouts representing the 350 troops which constitute the Chicago Council of Boy Scouts.

Applause Greets Units.

There was incessant variety in the pageantry and a steady patter of applause and roar of cheers for its units.

Volleys of applause greeted the marching women of the Maywood drill team of the American Legion auxiliary garbed in blue and white. Thunderous reception, too, for the Salvation Army advancing to the strains of "Rock of Ages" in march time and bearing forty-five blood red flags representing its forty-five years of devoted service in this community.

Naval militia, white gaitered and white capped, swung into view in the gathering twilight. Huge bands of the Federation of Musicians thundered by, some of them escorting floats that were waving bouquets of pink roses against white tissue.

Showers of Confetti.

The thousands of onlookers in windows far aloft showered the marchers with confetti. Gigantic anti-aircraft searchlights, which led the parade, reversed their glowing shafts of light and threw them back on the advancing columns.

A stage manager maneuvering a few score of performers on a stage could not have attained these precise and brilliant effects of light, color, and movement with more skill than Maj. Gen. Frank Parker, the grand marshal, and his aids displayed in their maneuvering of thousands.

At 8:15 o'clock darkness had descended and the street lamps were flashed on to make a lane of light for the floats. Loyola university's tableau of the saintly Marquette in his black robe and surrounded by his Indian followers led this section of the pageant.

Fort Dearborn in miniature was trundled by. Models of the engines of the pioneer days of railroading puffed along, emitting streams of sparks. That was the North Western railway's contribution to the show, and the Illinois Central was represented by a working model of the modern equipment in freight traffic.

The story of transportation was told from the ox team, the Indian pony, the stage coach, and the high wheeled bicycle of the sedate eighties to the autos made in 1903—and they seemed not less quaint than the stage coach—to the autos made in 1931.

All that—and it was a genuinely instructive as well as entertaining sight—was the contribution of the Chicago Automobile Trade association and the Ford Motor company.

Newspaper Progress.

Chicago newspapers illustrated their progress from the days of hand set type to the linotype machine. THE TRIBUNE displayed a model of its first plant—hardly more than a shack—on one float and on a third its far flung cable service that girdles the globe.

There were floats picturing the change of fashions during Chicago's first century, and the charm of the tableaux which thus unfolded social history was that it gave opportunity to deck the floats with beautiful girls. Over some they seemed to hover like birds, so deft was the arrangement of the mechanism which bore them forward and so ingenious the lighting of the pictures.

Departments Roll By.

Fire departments and police patrols old and new rolled by. The ponderous horses of Packingtown's caravans—horses that bore themselves like monarchs of transportation—moved majestically through the swirling confetti. Furniture makers, dry goods houses, bakers, confectioners, fruiterers, a business college, glass makers all told the story of their achievements not with a brazen clutch for the advertising possibilities of the occasion but with many a touch of poetry and prettiness.

The delightful evening showed that the northern limit of carnival pageantry in the United States is not St. Louis with its Veiled Prophet fiesta, but that here in Chicago we can, when we bend with joy to the working out of joyous programs, do things that are worth Chicagoland's coming to see.

NOTES OF THE JUBILEE PARADE

Men and boys and giggling girls were perched throughout the parade and for a couple of hours preceding it on the outside ledges of windows in the public library; they clung on the pylons marking the entrance to Grant park at Van Buren street and hung out of windows and over balconies. But perhaps one of the most perilous perches was that of persons who sat on the tails of the two lions at the Art institute.

There was only one piece of statuary in Grant park that was not a spot of refuge—the lady pouring water from a shell on the south side of the Art institute.

Just before the parade started, police let through the lines a car driven by a liveried chauffeur. It drew up beside the packed sidewalk, and a man's head emerged, his hand waved to some one in an office building and he shouted: "Come on, Fred!" At which a woman's voice in the crowd spoke up: "Just let Fred try to push his way through here!" Fred didn't. He walked the length of the block and around.

"Ain't that pretty? It looks so real," a woman sighed with satisfaction as a float of Indians about a tepee passed. Just then a boy in the crowd, spotting a friend, called, "Hi there, Giovanni!" And one of the Indians grinned and shouted back, "Au, g'wan!"

In addition to the peanut venders, the man who sold "official 'I will' badges," and the program salesmen, a few aged men did a lively business in selling old wooden crates, small barrels, battered buckets and home made camp seats.

Exclamations followed in the wake of the beauties in pink, blue, green and yellow who represented certain makes of automobiles on one float; of the pretty girls on another float who wrapped their diaphanous Grecian robes around them shiveringly the while they smiled, and of the brides who posed on still another. But no group of girls inspired more sighs of admiration than the Chinese girls who resembled the cherry blossoms they carried. They proved themselves the real thing, too, when one of them spoke to another in a flood of Chinese.

Policemen Joe Bialek and Walter Skolny of the Twenty-third district managed to keep small boys and large off the projecting roof over the entrance of the Illinois Central tunnel at Van Buren street until the crowds got too large. Suddenly it was covered with boys, and the crowds had pushed out into the street. The policemen yelled from the street, "Come on down from there!" The boys yelled back, "Come and get us!" The boys stayed.

As the Great Lakes Naval Training station band finished a flourishing air and halted directly in front of a group of pretty girls in the crowd, there was applause and the girls yelled, "Yea, navy!" But each handsome gob stared severely at the head of the gob in front of him. "The navy's that way," one girl said.

Mounted Policeman Edward Smith of the traffic division, on his horse, Tony, whom he has riden for 2½ years, was directing traffic under the Roosevelt road viaduct at State street last night as the Jubilee parade was proceeding down Michigan avenue. Startled by a truck, the horse started suddenly and was struck by the vehicle. It was necessary to shoot the animal.

Quainter than the Chinese maidens, however, was the Chinese band which, amid the sound and fury of the parade, calmly piped away its perplexing native airs.

Speculation was rife as to whether that glorious flowing red mustache of the rotund fireman who drove the horses attached to the fire engine in use here in 1895 was real. At any rate, it was said that a photograph of Division Fire Marshal Joseph Mackey of the loop, taken when his mustache was considered eloquent, was used as a model.

THE REVIEWING STAND

Among those who viewed last night's grand jubilee parade from the reviewing stand near 8th street were

LAKE VIEW BAND AWARDED CUP IN PARADE CONTEST

Senn High Is Second and Lane Tech Third.

The Lake View High school band was declared winner of THE TRIBUNE silver loving cup for the best boys' band in last night's Chicago Jubilee parade. Sixteen other school bands competed for the trophy.

Judges of the contest were James C. Petrillo, president of the Chicago Federation of Musicians; Victor Grabel, director of the 1930 Chicagoland Music festival, and Glenn Bainum, band director at Northwestern university. Their decision was unanimous.

"Three principal bases were considered, along with other details, in deciding which band should receive THE TRIBUNE cup," said Mr. Petrillo. "The Lake View band met the qualifications. It played best, paraded best, and had the best intonation."

The bands were graded on a scale of 100. Lake View received 95 points, Senn High school 92 points, and Lane Technical 85 points.

Presentation of THE TRIBUNE trophy will be made between 4:30 and 5 o'clock today in Mr. Petrillo's office at 175 West Washington street.

JOHN A. CORBOY IS REPORTED SECRETLY WED

John A. Corboy, wealthy president of the M. J. Corboy Plumbing company, and Gertrude Good were secretly married in Waukegan last Saturday night, according to reports yesterday.

Mr. Corboy was divorced last Thursday by Mrs. Florence Fitzgerald Corboy of Los Angeles, in the court of Superior Judge Rudolph Desort. The charge was desertion. It was reported that a cash settlement of $100,000 was made, with Mrs. Corboy being given custody of three children.

Mr. Corboy obtained a marriage license in Waukegan on Saturday night. The license, issued by Mrs. Lew A. Hendee, wife of the Lake county clerk, gave his age as 44 and his prospective bride's as 31. Chicago was given as their address. The couple were married the same night by a justice of the peace, the reports stated. All Lake county justices but one denied performing the ceremony. The one justice, Harry Hoyt, said he did not recall having married the couple, but doubted that he had.

6 DAY RAIN ENDS; FREAK GIVES CITY EXTRA DOWNPOUR

Today will be rainless but cloudy and moderately cool, according to the forecast issued last night by W. P. Day, government meteorologist. A total of 2.25 inches of rain had fallen up to yesterday in six successive twenty-four hour periods in which precipitation was recorded. This brought the May excess to date to .94 of an inch and pulled down the deficiency since Jan. 1 to 2.05 inches below normal.

The rainfall was general over the middle west and extended over large sections of the east. The unusual prolongation of showers in the Chicago district was due to a freak "loop the loop" done by the low pressure area's center, according to C. A. Donnel, principal meteorologist.

IMMIGRATION TO UNITED STATES IS LOWEST SINCE 1862

New York, May 11.—[Special.]—Immigration to the United States this year will be the lowest since 1862—lower even than the bottom mark established in the war year of 1918, it was learned today. Officials of the immigration bureau said that according to the present steep decline of alien immigrants entering this country, fewer than 100,000 will be admitted during the year, or ten thousand less than were admitted in the lowest war year.

CHURCH LEADER SEES JUBILEE BUILDING IDEAL

New Consciousness Is Developed.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

In Chicago's Jubilee Prof. Arthur E. Holt of Chicago Theological seminary, sees an evidence of a great sociological revolution now getting under way. He spoke before the ninety-sixth session of the Chicago Baptist association on its Chicago Baptist week program last night at the Second Baptist church, Jackson boulevard and Lincoln street.

The movement now under way, Dr. Holt declared, points to development of community consciousness which will tend to supplant the individualism thus far characteristic of the nation. This change, he said, has religious meanings and "issues a challenge to revive an ideal deep in the tradition of Jewish, Catholic, and Protestant faith—the vision of the City of God."

Proclaimed by the Prophets.

Dr. Holt explained that this supercommunity ideal has been proclaimed by Hebrew prophets, the writer of the Revelation, St. Augustine, and John Calvin. Cotton Mather tries to prove in his "Magnalia" that Boston was the capital of a new commonwealth of God to be established on the western hemisphere.

This community consciousness and conscience which these earlier religious leaders believed would be established "was lost in the Mississippi valley," Dr. Holt declared. Taking its place, he said, was the human unit, and "the great social ideal disappeared for reasons that are more social than religious."

"Western ethics have been worked out in the presence of a rapidly expanding frontier," said Dr. Holt. "It was a very limited world in which the Catholic church worked out the good society. With Protestantism came all the scientific skills which sent the sea trader to the seven seas, and the setting up of the good society was different than on the shores of the Mediterranean.

Betterment in Migration.

"Social betterment came to be synonymous with migration. 'Going west, going to heaven and salvation by escape,' had its career in western thinking. Evangelism of the frontier offered the supreme state of happiness beyond the last frontier and all of it was instinct with a philosophy of escape."

Dr. Holt cited higher education as the second cause for the loss of the social ideal of the "City of God." Education and intelligence he said was put to the disposal of those who wanted "to get out of communities. We educated riotously and a society wide open at the top took care of the product."

The third cause for the lost ideal, Dr. Holt explained, was in the western method of land settlement. East of the Alleghanies, he said, new land first was taken up by communities. In the west it was taken by individuals "and the idea of a planned society was lost on western plains. Society is now sick with an overdose of individualism."

Dr. Holt then urged Catholic, Jewish, and Protestant bodies to renew the ideal of "the City of God." The frontier, he said, is no longer receding. The new door of hope is through the reconstruction of old communities.

AIR ARMY GETTING READY TO TAKE PART IN CHICAGO JUBILEE

Washington, D. C., May 11.—[Special.]—The 1931 air corps maneuvers which will supply the closing spectacle of Chicago's jubilee, and which are designed to bring together the greatest number of military airplanes in the history of aviation, will officially get under way here tomorrow morning, when Brig. Gen. Benjamin D. Foulois, assistant chief of the air corps, heads west for Dayton to organize the preparations.

Seventeen planes will leave Bolling field in the first contingent tomorrow. General Foulois will fly his own staff plane, accompanied only by a mechanic. Younger officers will pilot other ships.

Pursuit, bombardment and observations units from the west coast were under way and other groups from various fields are prepared to start within the next three days, the war department announces. The entire division of 672 planes is expected to be at Dayton before Friday night. On Tuesday the division will fly to Chicago to stage the first of the demonstrations.

JUBILEE SHOWS REAL CHICAGO TO VISITING THRONG

Carnival Spirit Rules in Downtown Section.

Thousands of visitors from all sections of the country and many from foreign lands saw the real Chicago yesterday.

They came by train, by automobile, and also by airplane to attend the Chicago Jubilee. They thronged the downtown district. They crowded the stores. They helped jam Michigan avenue to watch the parade. And many of them revised their opinions of Chicago.

How many out of town visitors are now in the city cannot be gauged, but a survey of hotels, railroads, and motor clubs, principal barometers of travel, indicated an unusually large number. Sight seeing buses reported a continuous business, another sign of an unusual number of out of town visitors.

Streets of Loop Crowded.

The loop yesterday was packed. At 8 o'clock State street and intersecting thoroughfares were heavily crowded. The carnival spirit reigned. Department stores reported active buying. Restaurants had a rushing trade. Taxicabs also reported increased patronage. In brief, the first day of the Jubilee accomplished one of the celebration's many purposes, a revived commercial spirit.

Numerous luncheons and other festivities marked the Jubilee program yesterday. Jubilee luncheons were held by the Advertising Men's post of the American Legion and the Junior Association of Commerce at the Hotel Sherman. Another was given by the South End Kiwanis club. In the evening twenty-six teams took part in the South End Church Athletic carnival in Palmer park.

Speakers before the Advertising post were George W. Rossetter, first vice president of the Chicago Association of Commerce; Homer J. Buckley, an official of the Century of Progress exposition, and Frederick J. Ashley, chairman of the Jubilee coördinating committee.

Tells City's Advantages.

"It is time to rejuvenate ourselves and give the outside world a better opinion of Chicago," said Mr. Rossetter. He cited figures on Chicago's retail and wholesale business, its manufacturing production, and its wage and salary scales. All in the average are higher than elsewhere, he said. Mr. Buckley and Mr. Ashley discussed the Jubilee.

Bernard J. Mullaney, vice president of the Peoples Gas Light and Coke company, addressed the Junior Association of Commerce luncheon. He hailed Jubilee week as the beginning of a new era of community betterment.

School children joined in the Jubilee celebration yesterday by starting a series of studies that will continue through the week. This was done at the suggestion of William J. Bogan, superintendent of schools. Yesterday the students studied Chicago's early history. Today they will take up the city's development, tomorrow, its industry, Thursday, the 1933 fair, and Friday, the city's future.

Field museum was open until 10 o'clock last night for sightseers, and the Art institute will be open on Thursday evening.

Golden Gloves Bouts Tonight.

Major events of the Chicago Jubilee will be held tonight and tomorrow night. Tonight's big feature is the American-French International Golden Gloves tournament at Soldiers' field. Other features today will be in luncheons and parades. The largest parade will be on the north side, in the uptown, Edgewater, Lake View, and Rogers Park districts.

Principal features for tomorrow's Jubilee festivities are the noon luncheon at the Palmer house to be attended by representatives of nearly thirty foreign nations and the spectacular State street carnival to be staged in State street between Lake and Van Buren streets. Tomorrow evening there will be a series of dances by 600 school girls depicting the spirit of spring at Buckingham fountain in Grant park. The dances, in charge of Victor Brown, were postponed from Sunday night because of rain.

For Foreign Visitors.

The Palmer house luncheon is being given by the Chicago Association of Commerce to delegates to the recent International Chamber of Commerce congress at Washington. Silas H. Strawn, who invited the Europeans, will be a principal speaker. He is president of the United States Chamber of Commerce.

Among the guests will be M. George Theunis of Belgium and Mme. Theunis. M. Theunis is a former premier of Belgium and head of the International Chamber of Commerce. They will arrive today. Delegates from Denmark, Great Britain, Holland, Norway, Sweden, Czecho-Slovakia, and Japan will arrive by tomorrow. French and Italian representatives came Sunday and German delegates arrived yesterday.

Mayor and Mrs. John C. Porter of Los Angeles will reach Chicago at 10:30 o'clock this morning. Col. Robert Isham Randolph, president of the Association of Commerce, and a committee will welcome them at the La Salle street station.

Expect Crowd of 250,000.

The State street carnival tomorrow night is expected to attract a crowd of 250,000, according to Leon Mandel II., chairman of the celebration committee of the State street council. There will be six large stages, each containing a prominent dance orchestra, and well known stage, screen and radio artists, who will entertain the throngs. Public dancing in the street will a part of the festivity.

Half a dozen radio stations, among them W-G-N, THE TRIBUNE station, will participate. Quin Ryan, manager of W-G-N, will direct the station's show and will also broadcast the carnival.

Wed at Midnight

Kennedyville, Md., May 11.—[Special.]—In a midnight marriage here, Hazel Fordesvoux—known as Hazel Forbes, glorified Ziegfeld blond—became the bride of Paul O. Richmond, hair pomade millionaire and widower.

With the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. M. Fordesvoux, they are honeymooning today aboard the bridegroom's yacht Pobona, tied up outside Wilmington, Del.

The couple obtained a license from the clerk of the Circuit court at Chestertown, seat of Kent county, and motored here Saturday night. At midnight they aroused the Rev. J. McLain Browne, pastor of the Kennedyville Methodist Protestant church.

The bride's parents, natives of Alsace Lorraine, witnessed the ceremony. Mr. Richmond said he is 47. Last March Miss Forbes was granted a final decree of divorce from her first husband, with whom she lived only three months.

LAW INSTRUCTOR AT HARVARD IS TARGET FOR POISON PENMAN

Cambridge, Mass., May 11.—(AP)—At least sixteen persons have received "poison pen" letters attacking Prof. Timothy A. Taracuzio, Harvard law school instructor and former captain in the Russian imperial army, District Attorney Warren L. Bishop said today.

Those receiving the letters included twelve members of the faculty and several young society women. Alienists and typographical experts were today examining reams of manuscript and other typewritten material and numerous typewriters within the confines of Harvard in an effort to establish the identity of the writer.

The authorities also had in their hands a letter, copies of which were received by several newspapers, which stated the "poison pen" letters attacking the Russian professor had covered a period of about a year. The letter, which was typewritten and unsigned, said Taracuzio knew the identity of his attacker.

LINCOLN PARK LETS CONTRACT JUBILEE EVENT

The Lincoln park board yesterday let a $3,082,000 contract to the Construction Materials corporation for placing sand fill along the lake shore between Montrose and Foster avenues. This work is preliminary to the extension of the outer drive northward from Montrose avenue.

President Wright requested the company to start the work within a week so that the project may be inaugurated during Jubilee week. He secured the assurance of the company officials that dredges will be at work on the job in a few days.

The contract let yesterday also covers the construction of a beach extending in a semicircle from Foster avenue to Wilson avenue. The new land to be built between Montrose and Foster will be approximately one mile long and a quarter of a mile wide. It will provide a wide beach, area for the outer drive and a service drive, and additional space for parkways. The whole project will be completed within a year.

GERMAN LEADERS VISIT JUBILEE; PRAISE CHICAGO

Economic Chiefs Tell of World Crisis.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

Twelve German delegates to the recent congress of the International Chamber of Commerce in Washington came to Chicago yesterday to participate in the Jubilee, visit the great industrial plants of the city and see the progress at the World's Fair grounds.

They were led by Dr. Edward Hamm, former director of economic affairs in Berlin; Dr. Ferdinand Haerecke, legal adviser to the German section of the international chamber; Oswald Roesler, director of the Deutschen bank, and Geheimer Justizrat, chief of the German delegation of the mixed arbitration courts.

They toured the city in automobiles during the afternoon and watched the Jubilee parade in the evening. Today they will visit the stockyards, the Sears-Roebuck and other plants, and the Century of Progress buildings. Several of them have been so impressed that they are planning to return in 1933 or before.

Find No Political Barriers.

Their visit to the United States has been so hasty and so crowded that they have had no time to formulate serious impressions of ecomonic affairs, Dr. Haerecke, their spokesman, explained. They see one distinction, however, between the economic situation in Europe and that presented by the United States. That is the uniform economic area in which the United States business men operate freely, as opposed to the artificial political barriers set up in Europe. As business men they look forward to the time when economic development can go on in Europe without political interference.

The German delegates are pleased at the election of a German as president of the international chamber for the next two years. The address which this new president, Franz von Mendelssohn, delivered last Saturday over international telephone and radio, was heard distinctly by them in Washington, and the credo which he set forth is accepted by the delegates as representative of the best economic thought in Germany today.

World Wide Economic Crisis.

This portion of his address is emphasized:

"The economic interdependence of the world is more strongly expressed in the universality of the world economic crisis than in the exchange of our wares, the movement of our ships, or the means used in disseminating news; more strongly even than in the picture presented by a highly developed technical economic system.

"We must do everything to prevent this world economic crisis from becoming a crisis in the sensible international economic convictions of mankind.

"We believe that business men, answerable with their persons and fortunes, conduct business more in accord with the needs of mankind than is done by the state, whether its will be determined by a majority or a minority.

"We believe that, according to international laws of economics, and with a sensible grasp of the responsibility of the individual, such individual economic leadership still best unites to form a larger organism, and we believe that out of these possibilities and necessities a new type of business man is developing whose influence and conscious activity are service to the community.

"Business is in extraordinary straits, such as it has hardly ever been before. But equally extraordinary are the possibilities given to leaders of business to release it from these straits, to convert scientific progress into wall being, and to convert the riches of the earth, which this progress has rendered available, but which, owing to present overproduction, seems almost to be a curse, into real riches and blessings for mankind."

THRONG GREETS ROYAL COUPLE FROM JAPAN

Reception Committee Lost in Crowd.

Events came rapidly in the reception Chicago gave their imperial highnesses, Prince and Princess Takamatsu, on their arrival last night. More formal attire and less formality marked the brief scene at the Park Row station.

Silk toppers and white bow ties bobbed through the crowd waiting on the runways for the train from Detroit, with a sprinkling of navy blue uniforms, gold braided. The Japan-American society sent a delegation to extend the greetings of the organization that will be host tonight at a large dinner at the Palmer House. The new Japanese consul, Yoshio Muto, in gala garb, had his own group of countrymen to help him welcome the brother of his emporer and his bride. The state department at Washington provided the uniformed contingent.

Swallowed by Crowd.

Promptly at 10:30 o'clock, daylight savings time, the royal guests' train steamed into the station. Almost before the committes could sprint down to the proper car, the prince and princess were in their midst.

The prince and princess stood alone for a moment before they were swallowed up in a crowd that milled through the toppers, the bow ties and the boutonnieres. Those in uniforms struggled valiantly, and the committee members finally surrounded the two who stood and waited.

Mme. Yoshio Muto, the lone representative of her sex in the official party, relieved the moment of awkwardness by presenting to Princess Kikuko a sheaf of white and red carnations.

Police Struggle with Crowd.

Secret service men and patrolmen struggled to segregate the visiting royalty from the milling onlookers, but without success. The prince wore a business suit and overcoat and a felt hat with the brim partially shading his eyes.

1,000 WOMEN ALREADY TAKE RESERVATIONS FOR JUBILEE DINNER

More than 1,000 paid reservations have already been made for the women's Jubilee luncheon to be held next Monday at the Hotel Sherman, it was announced yesterday from the Association of Commerce offices of the committee headed by Mrs. Henry W. Hardy. Various organizations are reserving several tables, each seating ten, for their members, some of which will be subscribed in honor of famous women of the city. Tickets at $1.50 each are assigned only on receipt of the checks to cover.

At the Women's City club yesterday Mrs. Kellogg Fairbank impressed upon guests and members attending the tea and open house that additional memberships should be sold to promote the growth and influence of the club as a civic factor. Mrs. Murry Nelson, presiding, announced that the club is launching a membership drive as a part of the Jubilee week program.

"Never at any time for years past has so great an opportunity presented itself to Chicago women to make themselves felt in our municipal affairs," Mrs. Fairbank stated. "We ought to take advantage of that opportunity. And the most effective way of exerting an influence for the good of the city is to extend our membership until it constitutes in itself a force to be reckoned with, then to keep on working for Chicago."

CALL PETERSON, 8 OTHERS FOR QUIZ IN CITY SHORTAGE

Jury Hears Kearns and August Singer.

Charles S. Peterson, former city treasurer, and eight other political leaders under the old city hall régime were named in subpoenas issued yesterday by the special grand jury, which started an investigation into the alleged city treasury shortage. It has been charged that in the latter part of March there was a shortage of $169,000 in the city's cash and then eight political friends contributed $40,000 to deposit in the treasury so that there was a shortage of $69,351 on April 10 when James A. Kearns took over the office.

The jury voted to call in for questioning the former political leaders after they had heard the testimony of Mr. Kearns and of August Singer, who succeeded Peterson as city treasurer.

Jury Gets Documents.

The jury was given some documentary data by Mr. Kearns, which was sent over in the custody of two of the jury's policemen, Sergts. John Walsh and Leo Anderson. The jurors refused to say what these documents contained, but it is reported that they are the thousands of I. O. U. slips on which salary loans were advanced, and a copy of the recently completed audit.

Those named in the subpoena issued yesterday in addition to Peterson are:

Attorney Samuel Ettelson, former corporation counsel.

Michael J. Faherty, former president of the board of local improvements.

Lawis Myers, president of the school board.

Louis Golan, insurance agent for the former administration.

Earl G. Bingham, chief cashier in the treasurer's office, and against whom $36,020 worth of the paper given as security for the city's cash is charged.

Corporation Counsel Francis X. Busch is also asked to appear before the jury today. It is reported, however, that he is wanted by the jurors to be asked for advice on the legal status of the shortage.

Singer Before Jury.

When Singer was taken before the jury Assistant State's Attorneys Charles J. Mueller and Charles Lounsbury asked that he be required to sign an immunity waiver. He refused to do so, saying that he is not a lawyer and did not want to sign any documents, although he would answer any questions the jurors asked. The jurors voted to hear Singer's testimony without an immunity waiver. He testified throughout the afternoon session and will reappear as a witness again today.

Most of the men named in the subpoenas yesterday are the ones who Richard Wolfe, former commissioner of public works, told the jurors some six weeks ago were solicited to contribute $5,000 each to the $40,000 fund to make up the treasury deficit. The payments were made at a midnight meeting at the Congress hotel called by Ettelson, according to Wolfe's story.

Look Up Law on Shortage.

In view of the fact that the jury has decided to go to the bottom of the treasury situation, lawyers were at work yesterday looking up the law on the subject, particularly in view of the fact that both Singer and Peterson have put back money into the treasury.

Section 215 of the criminal code is also coming in for consideration by the attorneys. This section is entitled "Public officer in loaning or using public funds" and provides that any official "who shall use, by way of investment or loan for his own use, except as authorized by law, with or without interest any money or security intrusted to him," shall be fined not to exceed $200 if the sum involved is not more than $100, or sentenced to the county jail for three months. If the sum involved is over $100 he shall be fined in double the amount involved or confined in the county jail not to exceed one year.

STATE'S ATTORNEY AWARDED PROPERTY IN TWO BAIL CASES

The state's attorney's office yesterday secured title to property valued at $25,000 which had been scheduled on bonds for criminals which were forfeited. Municipal Judge John F. Haas issued the order permitting the state to seize the real estate.

Assistant State's Attorney Edgar B. Elder declared that the court order set a precedent which will allow the state to collect many thousands of dollars on forfeited bonds.

Prosecutor Elder filed seven suits six weeks a . to dispossess tenants of seven pieces of property. One suit was settled out of court. Patrick F. Sullivan, 1657 Walnut street, preferred to pay over $5,000 in cash rather than to permit his property to be seised.

The suits up for hearing yesterday were those involving the property of Mrs. Mae Volin, 11713 Michigan avenue, and David Feinerman, 1850 South Lawndale avenue. Mrs. Volin had scheduled a $5,000 bond on her property worth $12,000 and Feinerman scheduled a $15,000 bond on his property worth $23,000.

Judge Haas ruled that the owners of the property had forfeited their rights to ownership. His order permitted Prosecutor Elder to serve notice upon the tenants to vacate the premises within five days.

The state will then have the right to rent, lease, or sell the property to make good the forfeited bonds.

Three other suits were continued to May 20.

SPRING NEEDS FOR THE HOME SELL FOR LESS

Lower Prices Appear in Many Lines.

The man who has been waiting until spring to buy a new automobile, to repair the back fence, to build that sleeping porch he promised "the missus," to paint and remodel the family residence or buy a new set of garden tools will worry less about costs this spring than he did a year ago.

Prices are down. The automobile that sold last year for $1,000 can be had for $800 this year, and it's a fancier car, with more ornaments and sportier lines than its predecessor. General prices in building materials, paint, tools, and hardware have fallen off so that those plans for odd jobs around the home can be carried out this spring and summer with less strain on the pocketbook.

Automobile values are the greatest in many years, according to the Chicago Automobile Trade association, which estimates that the average cost of an automobile in 1930 was $1,883, as compared with an average cost of $1,515 in 1931, an average reduction of $368. In addition, the association points out, new values have been added. Some four cylinder cars now have six cylinders and others have been raised from six to eight cylinders.

Following is a list of automobiles in ten price ranges together with the reductions effected since last year and a comparison with 1930 prices:

| May, 1931. | May, 1930. | Reduction. |
|---|---|---|
| $ 600 | $ 600 | $ 30 |
| 635 | 675 | 40 |
| 945 | 1,145 | 200 |
| 995 | 1,295 | 300 |
| 1,295 | 1,445 | 150 |
| 1,355 | 1,545 | 190 |
| 1,245 | 1,595 | 350 |
| 1,565 | 1,795 | 230 |
| 2,795 | 3,695 | 900 |
| 3,795 | 4,985 | 1,190 |

Upkeep, too, is cheaper. Servicing and washing charges are down and the price of gasoline has fallen off in the price war which is still raging among the oil companies.

Prices of tires are said to be the lowest in the last ten years. A popular grade which last year sold at $10.20 is now priced at $8.55, a reduction of approximately 16 per cent and similar reductions are noted in other grades.

In building materials, such items as cement, sand, gravel and brick are selling for the same or slightly higher prices than in 1930, but other materials in construction and repairing have experienced substantial reductions.

The Illinois Society of Architects has issued price comparisons which show that lumber is the lowest in price since 1918. To find other building material prices equal in economy to present prices you would have to go back to years listed as follows:

| Material— | Year. |
|---|---|
| Flooring | 1925 |
| Plumbing | 1917 |
| Heating | 1921 |
| Glass | 1916 |
| Hardware | 1914 |
| Furniture | 1918 |
| Paint | 1917 |
| Millwork | 1918 |

Unemployment has resulted in higher labor efficiency, according to E. M. Craig, executive secretary of the Building Construction Employers' Association of Chicago, who points out that home building and repair at this time can be accomplished with assurance of the best of workmanship.

Hardware has come down in price about 10 per cent, according to Chicago wholesale and retail hardware merchants. Garden hose, for instance, is far down on the price scale because of the low rubber market. Wire fencing has been cut 10 to 15 per cent. Lawn mowers that sold last year for $12 can be purchased for $10 this year and they are better lawn mowers with bigger wheels and ball bearings.

Pauline Starke's Story Beats Jack White's in Court

Hollywood, Cal., May 11.—[Special.]—Pauline Starke, screen actress, and her husband, Jack White, producer, both told hard luck stories in court today, but Miss Starke made the greater impression. She asked $750 a month alimony, and, despite White's tale of pauperism, Judge David Valentine ordered him to pay $400 a month pending trial of the divorce suit.

Police Asked to Hunt for Missing Merchant

The police have been asked to search for Manuel Brooks, 28 years old, 1606 South Komensky avenue, who has been missing from his home since April 30. Friends said that Brooks, who is a commission merchant with offices at 19 South Water street, had been unbalanced mentally and was being taken to consult a psychiatrist when he broke away from two companions and fled.

YALE ABANDONS 'MUST' COURSES IN LATIN, GREEK

Drops Requirements of Classic Tongues.

New Haven, Conn., May 11.—[Special.]—The old fashioned ideal of a classical education built upon the study of Latin and Greek suffered another body blow today when Yale university announced a change in its plan of study which, in effect, will eliminate the requirement of either of the classic languages for any undergraduate degree.

Provost Charles Seymour announced that beginning with the class of 1932 the degree of bachelor of philosophy will be abolished and all students in Yale college, the academic department of the university, will be candidates for the degree of bachelor of arts. This action was taken last Saturday by President James Rowland Angell and the fellows of the university in accordance with a recommendation by Dean Clarence Mendell and the general faculty of Yale college.

Change Entrance Requirements.

Prof. Robert Nelson Corwin, chairman of the board of admissions, explained that this step will carry with it a change in the entrance requirements which will permit all those entering the college to offer an equivalent amount of French, German, Italian, or Spanish instead of either Latin or Greek.

Heretofore candidates for the degree of bachelor of arts must have offered four years of Latin or three years of Greek for admission, and must have continued the study of one of those subjects for at least one year in college. This requirement will be abandoned and the wider range of choice previously available only to candidates for the Ph. B. degree will be substituted.

At present candidates for the Ph. B. degree may substitute a course in classical civilization for the course in Latin or Greek, which has been required of their B. A. fellow-students. With the abolition of the Ph. B. degree this substitution will be permissible for all undergraduates in the college.

Coming as it does only a few months after the abandonment by Princeton university last June of the requirement of compulsory Latin for the bachelor of arts degree, Yale's action was viewed tonight as likely to result in a marked falling off in the study of Latin in the preparatory schools which furnish most of the students entering the "Big Three."

TEACHERS TO GET PART OF OVERDUE PAY THIS WEEK

State Distributive Fund to Be Available.

Chicago's 14,000 public school teachers, who have gone without salaries since April 2, will probably receive a large portion of the money due them some time this week, Lewis E. Myers, president of the board of education, announced yesterday. The pay day which the trustees were forced to pass because of a lack of funds fell on May 1.

President Myers made the announcement following a private meeting of trustees and department heads to discuss school financial affairs. Mr. Myers explained that Oscar Nelson, state auditor, had informed him that $2,240,000, or 70 per cent of Chicago's share of the state distributive school fund, had been collected in taxes and would shortly be available for application on teachers' salaries.

See Delay of Suit Plans.

Since the amount of the overdue payroll is $3,775,000, the total cannot be paid from the state fund, but all the money available will be pro rated among the teachers, Mr. Myers said. Members of the board expressed the belief that a partial payment would cause the teachers to delay plans to file suits for salaries.

The state distributive school fund is an annual appropriation of $10,000,000 by the legislature. It is distributed among the school districts according to the average daily school attendance in each county. The toual due the Chicago schools is $3,200,000, Mr. Myers said.

The fund before 1929 was $8,000,000 yearly, but was raised $2,000,000 when it was found that school attendance had increased. The fund is dependent upon the collection of 1929 taxes. Auditor Nelson reports that nearly 70 per cent of the amount has been collected and his vouchers for this amount have been submitted to the state treasurer, Mr. Myers said.

Myers Is Optimistic.

Mr. Myers also pointed out that approximately $400,000 is due the state for payment of excess costs incurred through special instruction of deaf, dumb, blind and delinquent pupils. He also expressed optimism at the prospects of collecting city taxes and said that when this revenue starts to come in, the credit of the board may be redeemed by the liquidating of tax warrants now held by the banks.

Four hundred employes in the county highway department will receive their overdue pay checks today, President Whealan of the board announced yesterday. Payment of the salaries was made possible through the sale of $200,000 worth of 1930 highway tax anticipation warrants to the Foreman-State corporation. The pay roll, amounting to about $55,000, was due last Friday. At least two more pay rolls can be met from the available funds, Michael J. O'Connor, assistant deputy comptroller, said.

ITALY, HUNGARY AND AUSTRIA SIGN TRADE TREATIES

ROME, May 11.—(AP)—Commercial treaties among Italy, Austria and Hungary, announced unexpectedly today, were being regarded in political circles tonight as filled with great importance because of their possible bearing on the future of European trade. No details of the accords were announced, but it was officially stated their importance was purely commercial.

All other nations were invited to join the three-cornered agreement, which led some observers to draw a parallel between these treaties and the Austro-German proposal. Government circles, however disclaimed any intention to organize a substitute move for the latter accord.

It was believed the Italo-Russian trade agreement, recently renewed, probably served as a basis for the trinational agreements. Under the Russian treaty the Italian government agreed to guarantee the credits on a large part of the goods sold by Italians to Russia. Under the treaties announced today, however, it was said all countries would participate in the credits, probably by each caring for its own nationals. No attempt was made to touch tariff schedules.

LONG OUT OF JOB, WIFE DESTITUTE, HE KILLS HIMSELF

Walter P. Martin, 34 years old, 4524 North Damen avenue, a salesman who has been out of work for five months, drove his wife, Florence, and their 3-year-old daughter, June Rose, from their basement flat early this morning, then ended his life with a bullet through his heart.

Martin was in Port Huron, Mich., looking for work when he received a letter from his wife telling him that their lights had been cut off, that there was no money for food, and that she and the little girl were suffering. He returned home at once and after talking the situation over with his wife, ordered her and the child to go to the home of her sister, Mrs. John Broderick of 1236 Carmen avenue. He declared he intended to end his life. As soon as she left the house Mrs. Martin notified the police, but when they reached the home Martin was dead.

A note in which he referred to himself as "Jack H. Walters, alias Walter P. Martin" directed that his body be buried in the Potters' field to save his wife worry over funeral costs.

FEDERAL COURT DECREES SALE OF SURFACE LINES

Action Is a Step Toward Consolidation.

Three decrees of foreclosure were entered yesterday by Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson in the receivership case of the Chicago Surface Lines. Under the terms of the decrees the properties will be sold if the company's debts are not paid within ten days.

The entry of the decrees is regarded as a formal step toward the settlement of the transit problem, including a consolidation of the surface and elevated lines, providing the traction ordinance, which was approved at a referendum last July, is held legal by the state Supreme court.

Special Master Named.

Thomas J. Peden was appointed by Judge Wilkerson as special master in chancery to set the date and hold the sale if the debts are not paid. Bidders must deposit $1,000,000 in cash or certified check, or $1,500,000 in bonds as guarantee, and must also show a corporate charter power to acquire the properties, issue securities and carry out the transit consolidation agreement as provided in the traction ordinance. Bidders must show that they have made arrangements to acquire the elevated lines and the Southern Street Railway company.

The amounts of the debts, listed in the decree, to be paid by the component companies of the Chicago Surface Lines to forestall the sale are:

CHICAGO RAILWAYS COMPANY: To the Harris Trust and Savings company, $47,206,780; to the Continental Illinois Bank and Trust company, $36,600,166; to the Central Trust company, $2,379,136; to the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company, $57,013.

CHICAGO CITY RAILWAYS COMPANY: To the First Union Trust and Savings bank, $29,270,700.

CALUMET & SOUTH CHICAGO RAILWAY: To the First Union Trust and Savings bank, $4,614,300.

The Chicago Local Transportation company, which is named in the new transit ordinance as the operator of the consolidated surface and elevated lines, is expected to be the only bidder for the properties under the provisions of the decree.

Test Suit Pending.

Legal actions affecting the traction settlement which are pending in the courts include the quo warranto proceeding brought by Attorney General Carlstrom and State's Attorney Swanson as the speediest way to test the legality and constitutionality of the traction ordinance and the enabling legislation on which the ordinance is based. This action is pending before Circuit Judge Stanley Klarkowski.

Superior Judge William J. Lindsay has under advisement the injunction petition brought by Mrs. George Bass and Augustus Olson, taxpayers, seeking to restrain the city from spending any portion of the city's funds in carrying out the provisions of the ordinance. They charged that the ordinance is illegal.

Hearings will be held on the State street widening case before Superior Judge Ross C. Hall on May 18 and hearings will be started again on objections to the subway proceedings on May 26 before Superior Judge E. M. Mangan.

ROB CIGAR STORE CLERK.

Three young gunmen, dressed in yellow slickers, held up Charles Chamberlain, clerk in a United Cigar Store at 50 West Randolph street yesterday morning and robbed him of $25.

CLEANERS DEFY CAPONE; WILL WAR ON GANGS

Spurn Proposal of the Hoodlum Chief.

prices for cleaning and pressing men's suits in Chicago rose to as high as $2 and for women's suits, $2.50. When the Cleaners' and Dyers' institute resolved to purge the industry of racketeering, the price for men's suits was reduced to $1, which was subsequently deemed too low, and on Feb. 28, 1931, the price was increased to $1.25.

Wanted Raise in Price.

Capone intimated to the committee, it was reported, that this price was too low, and the master cleaners expressed the opinion that his ambition was to restore the old $1.75 or $2 prices. The fact that Capone was interviewed and his plot discovered by competent witnesses, in the opinion of Prof. Squires, may provide sufficient evidence for his prosecution on a charge of attempted extortion, but the cleaners and dyers will leave that matter to the state's attorney's office.

Tells History of Strife.

"The cleaning and dyeing industry has been attempting to rid itself of gangsters and hoodlums and conduct its business in an open and legitimate way," added Mr. Squires. "The members of the Cleaners and Dyers' institute organized it for the purpose of stabilizing the industry and for fair dealing with the public, labor, and each other.

"A great deal has been accomplished in this direction in the last six months, only to find recently that gangsters are again trying to 'muscle' their way into the industry. It has also been discovered that certain plant owners have sought the assistance of this gangster element for the purpose of breaking down labor conditions and demoralizing the industry.

"The Cleaners and Dyers' institute hereby goes on record publicly as being opposed to gangster influence, control, or affiliation, and asks the support of the public in ridding the industry of this influence.

"The institute is assured by the United States district attorney, the state's attorney of Cook county, the Chicago Association of Commerce, the police commissioner, and the Chicago Federation of Labor, that they will give us their full support in fighting this and other attempts of gangsters hoodlums, and racketeers to 'muscle in' on this or any other legitimate business.

"The mayor of Chicago also has assured us he will back his law enforcing agencies to the limit."

...An American Tradition and Ideal

THAT FIGHTING FRIGATE of 44 guns, the U. S. S. Constitution, has a glorious memory—on her decks men fought, bled and died for the honor and existence of these United States.

In 1929, by the gifts of the school children of America, she was rebuilt and restored to her former beauty.

In the rebuilding some of her precious timbers were removed and may now become a part in and an enrichment of your home.

Do you see the EAGLE on the front of this table—it is carved from timbers removed from the Orlop deck of this old fighting frigate and modeled after the stern design of an old Clipper ship.

The table itself is of solid maple styled in accord with the period in which the Constitution sailed and fought. It is enriched with an antique, mellowed, hand rubbed finish and altogether is a creation which combines beauty, historic value and practical daily use in your home.

Berkey and Gay built these tables to retail at $40.50. In the liquidation of their stock we purchased a number of them and are pleased to offer them at a Jubilee Week price of $17.50

The top measures 18 by 30 inches and it is 29¼ inches high. As Miss Weigle suggests in last Sunday's Tribune, the table may be used as a window table, a lamp table or a console in a hall. The quaint little convex mirror shown above is a copy of an antique, $10.

(For those youngsters who would like an "Old Ironsides Table" for a desk, it may be had with the deep scroll of the apron removed. And inside the drawer you will find a folder with a picture of Old Ironsides and her story. And a brass plate to prove all this.)

M'GOORTY GRANTS KILLER JORDAN CHANGE OF VENUE

Robber Pleads Not Guilty to Policeman's Murder.

Frank B. Jordan, bank robber, who shot and fatally wounded Policeman Anthony Ruthy and Patrick Durkin at Michigan boulevard and Randolph street on April 30, won a change of venue yesterday morning before Chief Justice John P. McGoorty of the Criminal court. The case was assigned to Judge Prystalski, who set the trial for May 21.

FRANK JORDAN.

Attorneys Daniel A. Wolf and Michael Brodkin, representing Jordan, demanded the change of venue as the case was called before Judge McGoorty. The chief justice promptly assigned the case to Judge Prystalski, in whose court Jordan twice pleaded not guilty to the murder of Policeman Ruthy. He has not been arraigned for the killing of Policeman Durkin, who died several days after the shooting.

Swanson Opposes Delay.

The defense attorneys demanded a thirty day continuance to prepare their case. They argued that it is necessary for them to visit several towns to get witnesses for the defense. State's Attorney Swanson opposed the motion.

"I object to the delay," Mr. Swanson said. "Public interest demands an immediate trial. The defense attorneys cite nothing specific in their affidavit setting forth a request for more time. They have made no attempt to get ready for trial to date."

Judge Prystalski said he did not wish to have any verdict reversed and pointed out that the law provided that a reasonable time be allowed. He gave the defense ten days, holding that period to be sufficient.

The defense attorneys presented a motion to quash the indictment on the ground it contains clerical errors. Jordan's plea of not guilty was temporarily withdrawn so that the motion might be heard.

Argument by Swanson.

"The entire case is covered in the second count, which is properly drawn," said State's Attorney Swanson. "If there be errors they are in the first count and are of no bearing on the case."

Judge Prystalski ruled with the state's attorney and denied the motion. Jordan then entered his plea of not guilty for the second time. Jordan was not called upon to speak during the hearing. He grinned throughout the proceedings.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
LONDON, May 11.—The duchess of Manchester, the former Helen Zimmermann of Cincinnati, was granted a divorce today from the duke of Manchester. The suit was not defended.

The duchess, who gave her address as Quai D'Orsay, Paris, complained that the duke stayed in a London hotel with a woman last September. The judge, before granting the decree, read from the record evidence that the duke signed the hotel register as "Duke of Manchester and Lady." The evidence was given by employes of the hotel.

The couple was married in 1900. They have four children.

Frank McErlane Vagrancy Case Is Continued Again

The vagrancy case against Frank McErlane, south side gang leader, was continued for a second time yesterday in the felony court by Judge Matthew D. Hartigan. The trial was set for May 26 when Assistant State's Attorney Frank Mast requested more time for the state to prepare its case. McErlane was arrested at Halsted and 67th street last week by Policeman Roy Van Herick on a warrant issued by Judge John H. Lyle.

BATTLE OVER WIDOW DEWEY'S 3 WILLS OPENS

Stepson vs. Nephew vs. E. B. McLean.

Washington, D. C., May 11.—(AP)—The historic trophies of Admiral George Dewey and the riches left by his widow were subjects of two caveats filed today in the Dewey will case.

The caveats, in behalf of the executors, claimed the will of May 2, 1925, giving two-thirds of the property to Frederick McLean Bugher, Mrs. Dewey's grand nephew, revoked the will of Oct. 25, 1923, designating the bulk of the estate for George Goodwin Dewey of Chicago, her stepson, and also the will of April 22, 1925, under which Edward B. McLean, her nephew, would get half.

Four wills, and the copy of a fifth, were found in Mrs. Dewey's effects following her death in February. Three have been offered for probate.

Long Fight Ahead.

Considering a long court struggle certain, attorneys have agreed the case can hardly come to trial before October.

Meanwhile, the mansion where Admiral Dewey died, guarded day and night by former United States marines, must continue its rôle of a picturesque page from the past.

Nothing was changed there by Mrs. Dewey in the fourteen years of her widowhood. Much remained as it had been during a half century in which she had been a leader in the national capital's social life.

The court appraiser, going through this home, where the prince of Wales was one of the last honored guests, valued household effects at $63,540; jewelry at $35,502; books at $1,216.

Two carriages of the former proud estate and two automobiles of 1917 and 1919 make were appraised at $60. Executors valued the residence at $127,650, the garage at $10,148.

The first will filed was the one favoring young Bugher, but also giving one-third the property to McLean, a Washington publisher.

Claiming incompetence, Dewey countered with an earlier will, in which the Bugher family was pronounced "amply provided for." Frederick McLean Bugher was given only $2,000 and Edward McLean was termed "extremely rich" and given only "the buck horn drinking service he presented to my deceased husband, Admiral George Dewey."

McLean then filed the will of April 22, 1925, distributing the property in accordance with the statutes of the District of Columbia, which would give half to McLean, half to Bugher.

Relics in Dispute.

Dewey also entered claim to the relics in the home, a large collection including a jeweled sword given the admiral by congress and a gigantic silver loving cup resulting from dime subscriptions of admirers.

Quality Clothing, Preferred!

This Spring, as never before, lots of clothes are going to be made to sell rather than to wear.

That's because some clothiers went into the wool market at its high and, in order to unload high-cost materials at low prices, quality in making had to be sacrificed.

Rogers Peet stayed away from the wool market 'til it came to them, so they can afford to keep their hand-tailored quality as fine as ever, while they lower their clothing prices generally.

A little over a year ago the starting price for our Rogers Peet sack suits was $45, and a very fair price it was.

But a fairer starting price right now would be $35, so $35 it is.

ATTACK RAILWAY STAND AGAINST ELECTRIFICATION

Legislators Hear Facts on Smoke Violations.

The attitude of the railroads entering Chicago against electrification of their terminals and lines within the city became the target of new criticism yesterday at the opening hearing of Representative William G. Thon's legislative subcommittee at the county building.

While their locomotives continue to belch soot and cinders over Chicago the railroads are spending millions on electrified equipment in New York, Cleveland and other eastern cities, according to city officials who appeared before the legislators as witnesses. Each of them advised the committee that electrification offers the only practical and complete solution of the railroad smoke abatement problem.

Bill Asks Electrification.

The Thon committee, composed of members of the house public utilities committee, has under consideration a bill by Representative Harris R. Gaines [Rep., Chicago] to compel the railroads to electrify their lines within the city limits before Jan. 1, 1935.

"We ought to have electrification in Chicago without legislation," Representative Gaines told the committee. "The railroads should have started years ago, but since they have done nothing it is the duty of the legislature to compel them to act so that Chicago may receive some of the benefits which seem to have been confined largely to the eastern cities.

"The railroads plead lack of money. My observation is that when the railroads have to do something they find a way. They howled about track elevations. They put up the same plea in New York, but when the New York legislature acted they found a way. If electrification is practical in the east it is practical here."

Witnesses at Hearing.

Witnesses at the hearing were Frank A. Chambers, head of the city department of smoke abatement; Ald. Oscar F. Nelson [46th], chairman of the city council railway terminals committee, and Edward J. Noonan, engineer for the committee. Dr. Frederick Tonney, director of laboratories and research of the health department, will be heard at another hearing next Monday. At later hearings railroad officials will be invited to present their side of the case.

Mr. Chambers presented statistics showing the contribution of the railroads to the smoke pall and the status of abatement efforts. He said that while violations of the city's anti-smoke ordinance fell from 6,957 in 1929 to 4,974 in 1930, a reduction of 28 per cent, the percentage of railroad violations jumped up from 33.5 per cent to 35.9 per cent.

"Comparatively more progress toward smoke abatement is being made by stationary plants than by the railroads," he explained.

Another set of figures produced by Mr. Chambers showed that during the eight year period, 1923 to 1930 inclusive, 6,655 smoke ordinance violations by steam locomotives were reported to the railroad smoke abatement board connected with his department. Of these, he said, 5,285 were "unavoidable" violations in the sense that they could not be prevented without replacement of the steam locomotive by smokeless locomotives.

Mr. Chambers said that the railroads have coöperated with his department through the smoke abatement board in improving their equipment. He pointed out that 10 roundhouses have installed more or less effective smoke suppressing apparatus and that 24 electric and oil-electric locomotives are in operation.

"But," he concluded, "I believe that electrification offers the only final solution to the railroad smoke problem. Our progress in abating the smoke from other sources convinces me that eventually we will eliminate all of it, but we will never have an entirely clean city until the railroads electrify."

Urges Rail Electrification.

Ald. Nelson stressed the viewpoint of the council railway terminals committee that consolidation of the Chicago passenger terminals and electrification must go hand in hand. Air rights development in a new south side terminal area, he said, should help pay for electrification just as air rights of the Illinois Central east of Michigan avenue are expected to pay the bill for electrification of the Illinois Central suburban lines.

"Our committee is going to hit hard on the new terminal problem," Ald. Nelson promises. "We now have under consideration the opening of Franklin street through the river straightening area. We expect soon to go before the interstate commerce commission in Washington for help. From this angle we are approaching the the same end which your committee seeks—namely: railroad electrification."

Engineer Noonan made a similar statement, stressing the necessity for coördination of the railway terminal problem solution with electrification. He also commented on the value of air rights as a strong argument for electrification.

Members of Committee.

Members of the committee listening to the testimony were Chairman Thon, and Representatives John Lee, Frank Ryan, and Edward Overland, all of Chicago, and Gordon M. Childers of Normal. Representative Gaines is not a member of the committee.

The Gaines bill, should it be adopted, would be the most drastic legislation ever enacted toward railroad modernization in Chicago. It provides that any railroad not electrified before 1935 should be fined $1,000 a day thereafter unless granted a stay of not to exceed five years by the Illinois commerce commission.

Two years ago the same bill, sponsored by Representative Gaines, resulted in passage by the lower house at Springfield of a resolution calling for the appointment of a commission to study the electrification problem. The resolution, however, was defeated in the senate in the closing days of the session.

Chairman Thon said yesterday that, although he did not foresee the adoption of the Gaines bill in its present form he believed it would be the basis of some sort of legislation at the present session.

Two developments yesterday marked Mayor Cermak's campaign to abolish the present zoning board of appeals in favor of a nonsalaried board to be selected from his cabinet.

MRS. HAMILTON.

Three members of the board were formally accused of abuse of official discretion in permitting variations from the building code in the construction of buildings.

Announcement of the filing of the petition by Corporation Counsel Busch was followed by a statement from Henry Sonnenschein, secretary to the mayor, that James A. Creighton and Lawrence A. Cuneo, two of the members named in the petition, had presented resignations dated April 9. The third member named in the petition is Mrs. Eva Holland Hamilton, chairwoman. She defied the request of Mayor Cermak for her resignation when the mayor issued his general call immediately following the election. Creighton and Cuneo had previously refused to resign.

One Previously Out.

Leroy Milliner, another member of the board, had previously resigned, and John McKoene, who has served only a few months, was not a member at the time of the alleged variations.

The petition, which also charges the three members with failure to "faithfully discharge the duties of their offices," will be heard before Mayor Cermak next Monday. The mayor has power to remove for cause after a public hearing.

Charges in Petition.

Variations were allowed, Mr. Busch said, in some instances on the plea that the buildings were to be financed from a bond issue, and unless the variations were allowed the owners would be unable to make a profit.

The petition cites the case of a 54 flat building at 2112 Humboldt boulevard as one of seven where a variation was granted despite the vigorous protests of adjoining property owners. The granting of the request, the petition states, was "subversive of the public interest and contrary to the intent of the law."

Minneapolis Mayor Runs Poor 3d for Renomination

Minneapolis, Minn., May 11.—[Special.]—Incomplete returns from today's nonpartisan mayoralty primary showed Mayor William F. Kunze, whose administration has been under grand jury investigation, running far behind William A. Anderson, Labor candidate, and former Mayor George E. Leach. The two high candidates will engage in a run-off election on June 2. The vote from 191 of the city's 353 precincts gave Anderson, 18,973; Leach, 15,297; Kunze, 9,746. Minneapolis newspapers predicted Anderson's and Leach's nominations.

EINSTEIN REVEALED VICTIM OF IMPOSTER WHILE IN CALIFORNIA

New York, May 11.—(AP)—The Jewish telegraphic agency in a dispatch from Berlin says Mrs. Albert Einstein, wife of Prof. Albert Einstein, today revealed that her distinguished husband had been the victim of a woman imposter while he was in California last winter.

On the strength of false letters, a Mrs. Bela, Moszkowski, for some time a resident of San Diego and who claimed to be the daughter of the late composer, Moritz Moszkowski, had interested the Einsteins in a proposed music school. She had even prevailed upon the Einsteins to be photographed with her.

It was only upon their return to Berlin that the Einsteins learned that they had been victimized. After some investigation, Mrs. Einstein learned from the Moszkowski family that the composer never had a daughter, indicating that the California woman is misusing the Moszkowski name.

The woman also showed the Einsteins a letter, now proven to be false, from the late Max Nordau, to the late Dr. August von Wassermann, famous biologist.

SIX DESPERADOES FACE CROWD AT POLICE SHOWUP

Gangsters Identified in 3 Bank Robberies.

Six dapper men faced crowds of men and women yesterday in the detective bureau. The fact the six were handcuffed in pairs indicated the police opinion of them, an opinion expressed by Chief Investigator Pat Roche in these words:

They were the men seized last Friday night at East St. Louis by a group of Roche's police and state officers led by Detective Roy Steffen, and in a short time yesterday they were identified as participants in three bank robberies, one of them—the bank at Lincoln, Neb. — netting them $1,400,000 in securities and $50,000 in cash. They are suspected of kidnapings and various other crimes, but for the one outstanding crime of which they were supposed to be guilty, the Valentine day massacre of 1929 in which seven members of the Bugs Moran gang were mowed down with machine gun fire, the first three witnesses to view them were unable to identify them.

Questioned All Night.

Assistant State's Attorneys Harry J. Dickburne and Walker Butler were questioning them all night, one at a time, comparing their statements, admittedly the men were "hard boiled" and told little, but confessions were not needed for the bank robberies.

Fourteen witnesses in the Nebraska robbery were on hand yesterday to view the prisoners and nine identifications were announced. John Printup, formerly a Chicago newspaperman, was one of the witnesses. He said he was just in going into the bank at the time of the robbery.

"The man whose name was given as Thomas F. Connors was the man who put a gun to me and told me to go in the bank and lie down on the floor," Printup said. "I recognized two of the men I saw in the bank, Howard Lee, the man who took the money and who acted as leader, and Jack Britt, who walked out with the loot. Others from Nebraska identified Edvard O'Hara as one of the robbers."

Named in Piano Robbery.

The other prisoners not identified by the Nebraska witnesses are Thomas Hayes and William McQuillan. Hayes was identified, however, with others as one of the Piano, Ill., bank robbers. They are survivors of the Shelton gang which terrorized southern Illinois for many years, and later were associates of Fred Burke, the bank robber now serving a life sentence in Michigan for the murder of a policeman at St. Joseph, Mich., two years ago.

Attorney Louis Piquett filed writs of habeas corpus for the six prisoners yesterday afternoon and Chief Justice John P. McGoorty set the hearing for 2 p. m. today. In the event of such procedure being necessary, the government authorized the police department to inform Judge McGoorty the prisoners are "held for the government."

U. S. Can Place Charges.

Assistant District Attorney Edward Fisher said the federal authorities would be able to place several charges against the six prisoners. The question was raised of which state and city would be given the opportunity of putting the men on trial, inasmuch as they are charged with crimes in several states. Nebraska said it will be possible to sentence them to as much as 50 years imprisonment there for a robbery accompanied by violence, and it appeared likely the six would be taken to Lincoln.

Meanwhile they are to be viewed as suspects in the recent kidnapings of Fred J. Blumer, brewer of Monroe, Wis.; Dr. Isaac Kelley, specialist of St. Louis, Mo.; and James Hackett, Blue Island gambler.

STEALS 3 RINGS WORTH $2,500 IN RAID ON HOME

A bandit held up Mrs. Sarah Warshawsky, wife of Abraham Warshawsky, automobile accessory dealer, her two children and a colored maid yesterday in the family home at 708 South Central Park avenue. He escaped with three diamond rings valued at $2,500. Wearing a trench coat, the bandit entered the apartment as Mrs. Warshawsky was leaving on a shopping tour. He ordered her back into the flat and waved the children, Albin, 14 years old, and Adeline, 15 years old, and the maid, Violet Martin, into a bedroom. Turning to Mrs. Warshawsky, he said, "Kindly remove those rings and hand them to me." When she did so he left the apartment.

What Must a Man Spend Today for the kind of clothes he wants to wear?

The lowering of commodity prices has brought much confusion. The actual savings made possible are obscured by the impression gathered from some advertising that a few left-over suits, reduced as much as 50% for clearance, are really new suits; or that inferior suits are suits of better quality. We suggest that a survey of reputable men's clothing establishments will reveal the actual reductions in men's spring clothing of the first class to be about 20 to 33⅓%.

MADRID MOBS BURN CHURCHES; NUNS IN FLIGHT

Anti-Religious Riots Are Spreading in Spain.

guards be disarmed, that a revolutionary tribunal be constituted immediately, and that all homes and convents be searched for arms. He saved the day, however, because, when he came out, the crowd took his word that the government would do something.

Soon afterwards Provisional President Alcala Zamora came forth on the balcony and harangued the mob.

"The civil guard will not be disarmed," he said with great vigor. "It was the first of the armed forces to put itself at the disposal of the republic. It is a legal body and we will use it properly."

First Torch Applied.

The torch, which did so much damage today, was first applied at 10 o'clock in the morning to the principal residence of the Jesuits. A crowd first began to shout insults. They were answered with "Long live the clergy!" and "Long live the king!" from the windows by the student priests. Shots were fired. The enraged mob, now 15,000 strong, achieved the idea of burning the place.

Wood and rags soaked with gasoline and lard were used to set the older buildings afire. The flames rose. The crowd screamed with delight. The Jesuits streamed forth in civilian clothes unmolested. The police risked their lives to save the nuns from their flaming residence in an adjoining building.

The police saved a barrel of wine, which was rolled from a dormitory. The mob laughed. Firemen arrived and the mob shouted threats. The firemen motioned that they would have nothing to do with the conflagration and were cheered.

Civil guards slouched on their horses and watched. The idea of smoking out the friars caught on.

The next to burn was an enormous school of arts and crafts run by Jesuits. Firemen came, looked the situation over, and withdrew. The civil guards enjoyed the show, until a crowd of about 3,000 persons began throwing bricks at them. They charged with their sabers. Then they fired a volley of 30 shots. None was hit, but many were trampled. An infantry battalion arrived on the run and relieved the civil guards in time to prevent a massacre. They and a detachment of hussars, lately of the king, were cheered.

The imposing new Carmelite convent on the Plaza de Espana was then set on fire. Firemen inspected the size of the crowd and went away. A Jesuit college in the suburb of Chamartin was destroyed as was the monastery of Las Maravillas and the monastery of Santa Teresa de Jesus.

Gen. Blanco, director of security, at 2 o'clock declared that measures had been taken to protect church property. The cavalry arrived at the Convent Maria Immaculata just as the crowd was preparing to set it on fire.

The nuns donned street dress and were trying to get the girl students out when the mob arrived. Scared out of their wits, some of the girls ran back into the convent. The sisters, still within, had barred the gates.

The crowd, some carrying torches, stood about wondering what to do when the cavalry trotted up and dispersed the rioters. Convents and monasteries throughout Madrid are evacuated tonight and the sisters and children have taken refuge in private homes. At some places the nuns have put up signs on their gates, "Orphans within!"

Anti-Religious Riots Spread.

MADRID, May 12 [Tuesday].—(AP)—Anti-religious rioting spread today to half a dozen other important cities throughout Spain, according to dispatches received here early this morning.

A mob of 300 persons burned a Jesuit convent at Malaga shortly after midnight. The same mob entered the archbishop's palace, destroyed the interior furnishings and set the building afire.

Vatican Expresses Alarm.

VATICAN CITY, May 11.—(AP)—Officials at the Vatican tonight expressed confidence the provisional government in Spain possessed "the strength and the will to restore order." They said, however, the Vatican regretted the "seeming degeneration of the Republican movement into one of anti-clerical violence."

The general tendency here was to regard the situation as one of scattered and disconnected acts. It was admitted, nevertheless, that "grave alarm" was raised by the news of the burning of churches.

Find Woman Unconscious in Street; Blame Medicine

A well dressed woman about 25 years old was found unconscious early yesterday on the sidewalk at Broadway and Grace street. She was first taken to the Marigold hotel, 3750 Broadway, where a physician said she probably was suffering from an overdose of sleeping medicine, and then to the county hospital. Papers in her purse indicated that she is Miss Flora Myers of the Y. W. C. A. hotel, 830 South Michigan avenue.

WIFE, 68 HELPS HUSBAND FIGHT OFF 5 BANDITS

A 68 year old woman and her 70 year old husband yesterday afternoon fought off five robbers who invaded their soft drink parlor at 3524 Green Bay avenue in quest of $5,000 kept on hand to cash the checks of steel mill employés.

Mrs. Francis Gorney, her husband, Michael, and their two daughters, Frances, 30, and Victoria, 28, were in the place when five men strode in and drew revolvers. Mrs. Gorney ran to a caged enclosure where the money was kept and slammed the door behind her. The robbers battered the door down.

Mrs. Gorney seized a stick and began belaboring the robbers. Her husband grappled with one of the men. The two daughters also aided in the battle. One robber succeeded in taking about $200 from a cash drawer and he and his companions then fled. Victoria, one of the daughters, was struck on the head with a revolver by one of the bandits but the others were uninjured.

Two Offices Robbed by Burglars; Loot Is $4,550

Burglars forced entrance into two offices in a building at 345 South Wabash avenue early yesterday and escaped with $4,500 in negotiable securities and $50. The bonds were taken from the desk of Laurent E. Clody, secretary of the Allied Florists' Association of Illinois in room 604 of the building and the cash from the office of Dr. F. W. Mohlman in room 500, the laboratories of the sanitary district. Entrance was gained by forcing the doors of both offices.

BRIAND CHOOSES TO RUN; SEEKS TO BE PRESIDENT

French Election Will Be Held Tomorrow.

BY EGBERT SWENSON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, May 11.—That the next president of France will be Aristide Briand and that Europe and the league of nations will lose its premier diplomat became almost a certainty tonight. The foreign minister publicly announced his candidacy after hearing the persuasive oratory of 45 senators and deputies who called at the Quai D'Orsay this evening to urge him to accept the nomination.

PAUL DOUMER. [Acme Photo.]

M. Briand's decision to run is practically tantamount to his election by the combined chamber of deputies and senate at Versailles Wednesday, political observers agree. There are two other candidates — Paul Doumer, president of the senate, and Deputy Jean Hennessy, wealthy distiller.

Appeal to His Patriotism.

The delegation which persuaded M. Briand to seek the presidency appealed to his patriotism. Haston Thomson, dean of the chamber of deputies, told the veteran statesman they had come not as representatives of their particular parties or groups, but as Frenchmen convinced that for France it was essential that M. Briand should make this last sacrifice of all personal considerations and should continue from the Elysée palace to work for peace as he had done as foreign minister.

Election to the presidency will remove M. Briand immediately and effectively from the field of domestic and international political controversy, except for the moral influence possessed by the president, which the astute and persuasive foreign minister is expected to employ to the utmost.

Goes to Geneva This Week.

It is predicted that although he is elected two days hence and compelled to assume office within 30 days, Briand will nevertheless go to Geneva at the end of this week, not as foreign minister, but as special interim delegate, in order to exert occult guidance on the proceedings of the Pan-European commission, which will work out the details of his brain child—a United States of Europe. Premier Laval is expected to assume the duties of foreign minister for the time being at Geneva.

The question is being asked tonight why Briand chooses to quit the foreign ministry with so many of his pet projects hanging fire, including the United States of Europe, the economic union to offset the proposed Austro-German customs union, Franco-Italian naval negotiations, and the coming disarmament conference.

Right wing elements say he realizes that his pacifist policy is bankrupt and that he is getting out from under it. Other sources blame his health.

GAS TANK EXPLODES; 2 DEAD.

Stuart, Fla., May 11.—(AP)—Three persons are dead today and another lies in a serious condition as a consequence of a gas tank exploding in a restaurant here yesterday.

UNDER KNIFE

JOHN DREW COLT.

John Drew Colt, 17 year old son of Ethel Barrymore, was resting easily last night at St. Luke's hospital after an operation on one knee. A loose piece of cartilage was removed from the knee as a result of an accident some months ago while he was playing football. Young Colt came to Chicago from his home in the east, and entered the hospital on Sunday night. He probably will be a patient there for the next two weeks, his physicians said.

Six Merchants Are Fined on Short Weight Charges

Six merchants were fined a total of $260 yesterday by Municipal Judge John F. O'Connell on charges of giving short weight which were lodged against them by City Sealer Grein. Those fined were Harry Gerstein, 335 East Pershing road, $10; Edward Razowski, 3129 South Morgan street, $50; Ben Zissock, 224 East 35th street, $50; Izzy Potosky, 1347 South Kedvale avenue, $25; Isador Cohn, 3105 Cottage Grove avenue, $25; Nick Raft, 2901 Cottage Grove avenue, $10. Proprietors of the Kempo Service station at 3253 Wentworth avenue, were fined $2 for non-payment of inspection fees.

60 PCT. OF U. S. PRISONERS HERE DUE TO DRY LAW

Jail Crowding Shown by Prosecutor's Reports.

More than 58 per cent of all convictions in the federal courts of Chicago are obtained under the national prohibition laws, and 60 per cent of all federal prisoners from the Chicago district quartered in county jails are dry law offenders.

SANFORD BATES.
[Acme Photo.]

A recent report of Sanford Bates, director of the federal bureau of prisons, to President Hoover, stated that there is a "very bad overcrowding," made worse by the "more vigorous enforcement of law." The percentages of convictions and sentences to jail, which are based on the reports of United States Attorney George E. Q. Johnson, indicate that the prohibition law itself, so far as the Chicago district is concerned, is a major factor in the crowding of prisons.

This is borne out not only by the reports of the United States attorney's office but by Mr. Johnson himself, who, in response to a question by Senator Blaine [Rep., Wis.] in a recent senate hearing, said that 60 per cent of his criminal cases were based on violations of the prohibition laws.

The report for the year ended June 30, 1930, showed that 1,670 convictions were obtained in the Chicago federal courts. Of these, 1,012 were obtained under the national prohibition law. Since the last report, the monthly convictions, exclusive of April's, which have not been compiled, follow:

| Month. | Total. | Dry Law. |
|---|---|---|
| July | 65 | 40 |
| August | [Vacations] | .. |
| September | 197 | 31 |
| October | 339 | 69 |
| November | 317 | 53 |
| December | 213 | 163 |
| January | 61 | 46 |
| February | 63 | 17 |
| March | 186 | 107 |

The last report showed that 973 defendants were sentenced to jail during the year, of which 554 were convicted under the prohibition law. All federal prisoners receiving jail terms in the Chicago district must be quartered in the jails of the various counties in the northeastern part of the state, at the government's expense, for there are no federal prisons here.

MOUSE IN BLOUSE PROVES TICKLISH JOB FOR N. Y. COP

It's but One Zoological Event in Busy Day.

BY TOM PETTEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 11.—[Special.]—This city suffered from animal trouble today. There also was considerable insect trouble, but it was not so acute. Dogs, goats, mice, ants, ant eaters, and bees contrived to add to the complexities of life in a town where taxi drivers seldom miss and existence is a matter of luck any way you take it.

To begin with a young woman got something more than a wrong number in a department store telephone booth and brought Patrolman Francis Garvey both embarrassment and a major problem in police ethics.

The animal invasion first became evident when the young woman ran screaming into the street and announced between shrieks and violent shimmies that she was being attacked by a mouse.

"What! Where?" said Garvey, drawing his revolver.

Makes His Own Rules.

Garvey consulted his police blue book on regulations and finding no rules regarding mice in blice or mouses in blouses, escorted the girl to a nearby doctor's office. There matters began to reach a climax.

The doctor was removing somebody's tonsils or something and couldn't operate on the mouse at the moment. Patrolman Garvey, a man of resource and quick action, did what he dared not do in the street. He reached and grabbed a bulge which proved to be the mouse. It was soon throttled and the young woman removed the body without assistance other than a sniff of smelling salts.

Before early afternoon animal trouble became epidemic. Goats began to cause the health department considerable annoyance. It was not live goats, either, that brought up the problem—it was "cairetto arrosto," or roast young goat. Dr. Max Danziger said the department was acting to check the illegal sale and slaughter of goats on the east side. An awful row followed, for the folks down there like their goats—roasted.

Has Enough White Elephants.

While the goat problem was causing board meetings, Rex Cole, the local refrigerator man, was having Norwegian elkhound trouble. Cole has ordered practically a whole boatload of elkhounds from Oslo. They all are brothers and sisters of the elkhound presented to President Hoover, and Cole intends giving them to prominent men. The king of Siam led the list, but a representative of the king advised Cole that elkhounds did not thrive in the climate of Siam and generally gave the impression that there could be no royal Siamese elkhound.

Up at the zoo a hurry call went out on the air to the Dyott expedition in Brazil to bring back a certain animal hanging comfortably by his tail from some branch in the Brazilian jungle in order to save the said zoo from destruction by red ants. Mr. Ant Eater was the gentleman sought.

Meanwhile over in Brooklyn the Flatbush section was in the throes of bee trouble. The matter—not the bees—got into court. Miss Anna von Lehn appeared to defend a swarm of pet bees she has been mothering for her sister. Several of the neighbors complained that the honey gatherers were stinging bees and announced they had been stung in various localities.

"The Old Order Changeth, yielding place to new"

There's as much difference between Electrolux and other automatic refrigerators as there is between modern automobiles and the first horseless carriage.

COSTS LESS TO OPERATE
Electrolux is the world's most economical refrigerator. It operates for only a few cents a day—less than the cost of any other method of refrigeration.

Electrolux automatically makes ice cubes and constant cold—without any machinery or moving parts at all

WHEN you come to investigate automatic refrigerators, as sooner or later you will, you'll find that the weight of evidence all points in one direction.

Electrolux—the finest, most modern of all automatic refrigerators—is fast becoming standard equipment in the best homes and apartments everywhere. Over 140,000 are already installed, chosen solely on merit by architects, builders and individual owners.

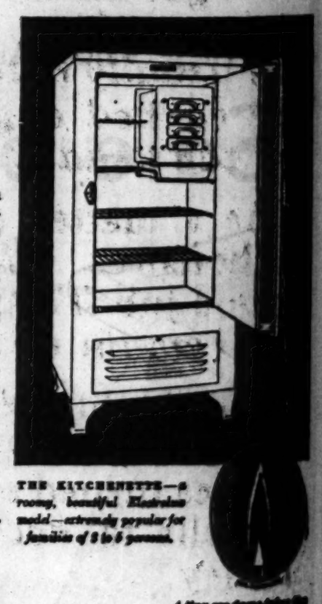
And no wonder! Electrolux has no machinery or moving parts. Consequently there is no friction, vibration or wear—no alternate stopping and starting. The cold stays remarkably even, varying scarcely at all from the ideal temperature. And with no moving parts, Electrolux can never make the slightest noise. It is forever silent.

In this magically simple box, a tiny gas flame and a tiny flow of water are the whole "works." They act on a liquid refrigerant which is hermetically sealed in rigid steel. The refrigerant is ordinary ammonia, little stronger than household ammonia. The tiny gas flame is completely protected by an automatic shutoff.

"Fine!" you say. "But what about cost?" Only a few cents a day covers everything.

Installation, too, is a simple matter. Connections for gas and water, through flexible copper tubing, are quickly and easily made for you by your gas company. And should you ever need service on Electrolux, you get the prompt, efficient kind of service for which your gas company is famous.

Despite its many advantages, Electrolux prices are no higher. There are 10 household models, ranging from 3 cu. ft. to 20 cu. ft. capacity. See display at your local gas company's showrooms. For complete illustrated information by mail, write us today or phone Wabash 6000.



THE KITCHENETTE—a roomy, beautiful Electrolux model—extremely popular for families of 3 to 5 persons.

Essay on a Man's Top-Hat Rolling in the Mud

What happened to top-hats has a very great bearing upon this aftermath of 1929.

G. K. Chesterton, the famous English writer, once wrote a very interesting essay on a man running after his top-hat.

Chesterton was not dealing with business. He was merely humorously pointing out the humiliation of running after one's silk hat. Whereas this article is attempting to point out the indignity, and the serious consequence of that indignity, of the same silk hat getting rolled in the mud.

The thing that really happened in 1929, viewed impersonally, is exceedingly interesting. Somewhere along in October a strong wind blew up out of the market-place (the stock market-place) and a lot of top-hats, including innumerable derbies, went rolling in the mud.

Which really meant that most of the heads that lost those hats had lost more or less of their dignity which is—their money. Some of those heads, having lost their hats, also lost their wits. And tragedies occurred.

But for those of us who were not so badly wounded the situation was, and is, by no means beyond recovery, and in most cases not even serious.

All that we really lost was money. And while money, to men of money, constitutes the essence of dignity, still most of us can lose our dignity, which is our money, and regain it again with a fair degree of assurance.

To get rid of the metaphor and get down to plain speaking, the man who has made millions can usually make more millions. The man who has earned a good salary in a high-pressure job can usually continue to do so.

As a matter of fact, most millionaires are still millionaires. And most high-pressure men still have a good job. The top silk hats and the derbies usually remain on the same heads.

But the interesting phase of this whole situation is the way in which both the top silk hats and the derbies turned almost unanimously to the caps and overalls to recover their dignity, which is their money.

The whole hue and cry of the nation was, "Keep up the wage-earner's wages. He must be our new market. His buying must recover our losses. He is the one who will run after our top-hat and get it out of the mud."

All of which was very sound. It did help the man in the cap and overalls. It did keep business rolling eighty-five per cent of normal. It did, in turn, help you.

And True Story Magazine profited enormously. Its pages are running over with your advertising. It has become thick between the covers. Every wage-earner in a job is buying lavishly. You probably are getting more for your advertising dollar in True Story than you ever got in your lives before.

* * * *

But now it is high time for a new phase of this top-hat and derby debacle to make its appearance.

It would not be a bad idea if you again began your buying on the same comparative scale to which you have urged the wage-earner to continue his.

There isn't a top silk hat in America that cannot very easily go out and buy a new car, a new radio (even if you throw the old one in the alley), new rugs for your floors, even if they are only the American Orientals that are now being made so attractive, new silverware for your distant young female relative who is about to be married, even if you have never liked her very well anyhow.

And as for you derbies still in good jobs, it is more than high time that you eliminated your fear of losing those jobs and returned to your carefree, normal expenditures once more.

Of course, none of this will sufficiently affect the volume output of America's mass production. But it will make a most material difference in the buying morale of the American wage-earner upon whom your volume of mass production does depend. While you have been doing most of the moaning, he has been doing most of the spending.

He now wants to see you roll up to the factory or to your downtown offices in a shiny, new car. He wants to see you getting all excited about refurnishing your home or rebuilding your estate, or making a fuss over the comings and goings of delivery wagons which are always the best barometers of active trade.

Please take this in all the kindliness with which it is intended.

True Story Magazine has over two million of your active wage-earning Americans who are giving us their impressions and reactions in tens of thousands of letters and manuscripts and commentaries every month. And we are giving you these impressions at first hand.

So wipe off your top-hats and derbies and go into the market-place.

Whatever you buy, of course, will have a commensurate effect upon mass volume. But it will have a tremendous effect upon the morale of the wage-earner whom you are now depending upon to carry the load.

CHICAGO'S SHARE OF THE ROAD FUNDS.

The proposal to use a small part of Chicago's contribution to the state's highway funds for the construction of elevated highways in the city has encountered the opposition of Gov. Emmerson. It is to be hoped that the governor will find it possible to modify his position. To do so would serve his own interest as well as that of the city and the state.

In the next two years Chicago alone will contribute no less than 44 million dollars to the state's highway fund. In return, under the administration's bill, as it stands, Chicago may receive as much as three million dollars in direct benefits within the city. Within the city is the greatest density of automobiles and the greatest need for new roads, and from the city is derived nearly half of the state's fund for highway building. All these considerations have been overlooked in the administration's program.

With some exceptions the state's primary road system outside the metropolitan area and the cities is today fairly adequate. At no point is there a need for improvement equal to the need within a few miles of the central business district of Chicago. The only way of meeting that need permanently and satisfactorily is by the construction of elevated roads, free of cross traffic as the outer drives are free of it. Some day these roads will be built, four or five of them, radiating fanwise from the western end of the central business district.

The governor has called attention to the fact that in his administration the state has already set aside 19 million dollars for highway projects within the metropolitan area. He overlooks the facts that all of that money is being spent outside the city where it is needed most; that the amount spent in the Chicago region is merely a small part of the amount received from the area; and that over many years Chicago's contribution has been spent almost exclusively in other sections of the state. The expenditure of 19 millions in the northeastern corner of the state is merely a partial, an incomplete, and an inadequate rectification of an old abuse for which previous administrations are responsible. It is to the credit of the present administration that it has lessened the injustice, but it cannot be maintained that the injustice has been ended.

The elevated highway is bound to come, precisely as the elevated train came in its day to obviate the delays inevitable in surface transportation. Some administration, whether of state, city, or park board, is going to get the credit for contributing the solution of the problem of motor transportation through Chicago. The opportunity to earn the gratitude of countless motorists is Gov. Emmerson's to seize if he values it.

The president of the Chicago Motor club, Mr. Charles M. Hayes, has offered a suggestion which, if it comes far from meeting the most extreme demands of some of the Chicago members of the legislature, nevertheless should prove acceptable to Chicago motorists generally. Mr. Hayes has counseled the appropriation of five million dollars for the starting of construction of an elevated highway, in addition to the seven million dollars set aside in the administration bill for the improvement of state highways through cities.

Mr. Hayes' proposal can hardly be regarded as an unreasonable one. At most it can mean that Chicago motorists will receive only eight million dollars in construction in return for the forty-four millions contributed to the state's highway fund.

The value of the elevated highway in Chicago for motorists is plain. It will also prove of great benefit to other elements in the population. It will provide work for the unemployed, particularly for skilled labor, for which there is relatively little demand in ordinary road construction. The improvement of transportation cannot fail to result in a revival of the real estate market and to create a demand for homes and shops within the area benefited.

The consequences of the refusal of the state administration to give fair consideration to Chicago's needs are not difficult to foreshadow. On the one hand, there will be a stiffening of political self-consciousness in Chicago and a growing determination to safeguard the interests of the urban majority through control of the governorship. In this stand, too, the metropolitan area has found allies in other cities throughout the state. Virtually all of them are in favor of a redistribution of the gasoline tax to give one cent to the state, one cent to the cities and one cent to the counties, instead of two cents to the state and one cent to the counties, as at present. The 1-1-1 division has the indorsement of the Illinois Municipal league, speaking for the cities, large and small, throughout the state. The Municipal league's bill may go down in defeat, but it is difficult to believe that the defeat will not rankle or that it will not have important political repercussions, especially if Mr. Hayes' compromise proposal is also voted down.

Needless to say, it is not yet too late to correct the injustice. The governor still has time to reconsider. Only pride of opinion stands in his way.

WALTER A. STRONG.

The death of Walter A. Strong removes from American journalism one of the most virile and promising of its younger representatives. Taken on what was but the threshold of his career, the loss of Mr. Strong to his profession, to his community and to the country will be felt deeply. After years of practical training, he came to the editorship of the Chicago Daily News with respect for its honorable traditions and with enthusiasm for its possibilities of continued service. He became a force in the counsels of American newspaperdom as well as in the public affairs of Chicago. To this city he was a devoted son and he gave it the best that was in him. For his paper he cherished high and honorable ambitions and in public affairs he wrought for righteousness as he saw it.

THE TRIBUNE shares the profound regret of the newspaper fraternity and the community for the untimely ending of a career of honorable accomplishment and promise.

ELECTION LAW CHANGES.

The governor's commission on election reform submitted with its report twenty-two bills for amendments to the election laws. One group makes election hours uniform. Another redefines the status of political parties and gives the ballot greater protection from irresponsible candidacies. A third deals with the assistance permitted illiterate and incapacitated voters and endeavors to guard against fraud, and others increase the discipline to which election officials are subject, propose methods of dealing with ballot tampering, clear up unnecessary perplexities or difficulties which may meet the voter, etc.

The commission consists of Judge Edmund K. Jarecki of the Cook County court, Gen. Milton J. Foreman, and Judge James S. Baldwin of Decatur. Its authority was derived from an act of 1929 and expires with this session of the legislature. It is desirable to continue the examination of election law and practice and that will require an extension from the legislature. This proposition and the bills introduced carrying the commission's recommendation are being considered this week at Springfield. Experience emphasizes the need for intelligent revision from time to time of election procedure. The required changes may not be fundamental, but they will smooth out difficulties, check against fraud, and ease the use of the ballot as a real instrument of government.

TAXES ON TOBACCO.

The people of Illinois awoke one morning a few days ago to learn that the state legislature is considering taking an additional 20 million dollars a year from them through a tobacco tax. If there was any preliminary discussion of the measure it was conducted in a whisper.

Oddly enough, almost all the discussion of the bill thus far has turned on the question whether tobacco can or cannot stand any more taxation. It seems to be taken for granted that if the tax will bring in the money the bill is a good one.

Perhaps it is time that some one inquired what the state wants an additional twenty millions a year for. Are the twenty millions intended to replace, in part, the state's property levy? If so, it would be a good idea to repeal the property levy first. Does the state need more money because of excessive appropriations by the legislature? If so, a more direct remedy would seem to be to reduce the appropriations.

The business of threatening to impose a tax for which there is no proven need is curious, to say the least. It would be instructive to know who fathered the bill and whence comes its principal support. And why.

A BIGGER WHEAT CROP.

The government forecasts a winter wheat yield this year of 652 million bushels, approximately 50 million bushels more than were harvested last year and 105 million more than the average crop for ten years.

The figures throw light on the theory which the farm board has been following in its so-called stabilization campaign. The maintenance of an artificially high price for wheat was intended to serve as a temporary expedient to give the farm board time to spread the gospel of reduced acreage and smaller surpluses.

A slight decrease in acreage planted was achieved, though whether the result was brought about by propaganda from Washington or by a gloomy outlook for wheat prices is a question which can never be answered satisfactorily. Favorable weather has much more than counterbalanced the slightly smaller number of acres planted. Less of the crop has been abandoned than is usual. The consequence is that the government forecasters anticipate the harvesting of nearly four million more acres of winter wheat than were harvested a year ago.

The conclusion cannot be escaped that the taxpayers have spent and are still spending several hundred million dollars in a mistaken effort to induce the farmers to reduce their acreage to the requirements of the domestic market. The farmers gave little, if any, support to the movement, and what little they have done toward crop reduction has been more than balanced by favorable natural conditions. The taxpayers have paid a high price for the experience, but if the lesson has been learned, the price is not excessive.

Editorial of the Day

ROOSEVELT SLOWS DOWN.

[The Des Moines Register.]

The reaction of politicians with their ears to the ground is that Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt's whitewashing of Mayor James J. Walker of New York, without investigating the truth of the charges made against him, has slowed down Roosevelt's race for the Democratic nomination for the presidency. While he is still the leading Democratic aspirant, the demand for him has cooled down perceptibly.

Whether his rejection of the charges was justified or not, his action has the appearance of covering the Tammany organization with a protecting wing. It identifies Roosevelt with Tammany to a degree that he had not been identified with it before. And doing this it weakens him with the rest of the country.

Roosevelt's big gain in strength outside New York has been in the Democratic south. He has gained in the south by giving the impression that he was ready to hedge on prohibition. But the south, more than any part of the country, hates the Tammany organization and doesn't want to vote for a Tammany candidate.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

NIAGARA FALLS, FLOOD LIGHTS, AND HOT DOGS.

Ceremoniously we remove the chapeau this morning and bow respectfully to the Prince and Princess Takamatsu, our royal visitors from Japan, because they expressed themselves as thinking the flood lighting of Niagara Falls at night somewhat gaudy. Nothing is so hopelessly emblematic of this jazz, machine age, Babbitt culture now on view among us as the flood lighting of Niagara Falls. "It is gilding the lily," said the Japanese visitors politely. It is worse than that—il est très lousy!

Why do we do such things? Heaven only knows. For fifteen thousand years nature has been performing that breath-taking miracle at Niagara Falls. It was old when the eyes of the first red men beheld it, and in their awe they humbly knelt and believed themselves in the presence of the spirits. Mighty, thundering Niagara, sweeping gorgeously, tremendously onward to the sea.

Then came the white man, and at first he, too, was awed into silence by the awful spectacle. But he soon recovered in the interest and excitement of stealing all the land thereabouts from the Indians. Civilization encompassed the great falls, and our modern culture, anxious to improve on mighty nature, has added hot dog stands, auto filling stations, ice cream cone venders, and flood lights at night. And we'll never be satisfied until the harnessing of Niagara into water power is complete.

But the flood lights are the worst! Quelle horreur, quelle horreur!

THE FIRMAMENT.

(FOR DAVID ADLER.)

I stand on some far summit, and the Night
Smiles all about me—the soft Night,
That bathes me in the odors of an Orient
That is not East—nor West;
Folding his dark, gemmed cloak
About my soul.

Zenith and Nadir meet in me,
I am abroad amongst the stars—
A mote in transit. Sagittarius sends
Eight beacons from afar, and Leda, shy and small,
Hides in a misty nebula.
Twice-girdled Saturn swings aloft,
And mighty Betelguese unbends;
And Cassiopeia rises from her chair
To make obeisance to an old wanderer—
Tired of flesh and folly, seeking once again
The comradeship of stars
And milling unseen orbs that whirl
Onward—onward.

Whence came these worlds? There are no voids;
Where is the North—the South? The Up and Down
Is lost in Oneness. Hurtling, naked suns—
Towering, gloating, despots, flame,
And trailing asteroids
Grow faint, and fall like glowing tears, to die
Within the cradling breasts of yearning worlds.
Restless galaxies speed on,
Leaving their silt behind—the incandescent ash
Of stellar passions,
To drop like burning dews—to falter, or to die;
Or trembling yet, to bloom again
In pallid points of light
On spreading seas of ether, there to sublimate
Into the drift of ages.
Charted myriads fling
The dust of stars into shortsighted eyes;
Wheeling, reeling to uncharted goals
The universes roll; deeper, wider still,
The needless spiral scroll
Unfurls its secrets to the wondering soul.
And muted symphonies, sidereal—vast,
Led by some tangent meteor, slip,
And pause awhile upon an earth-bound lip
That cannot sing.

"$2,000,000 WORTH of Old Masters Vanish in Russia."—The Trib. What difference does that make? If this is called to the attention of Comrade Stalin he can immediately amend the five year plan to include the turning out of five million dollars' worth of old masters. And if Comrade Stalin gets real mad he'll dump old masters all over the world and capture the market.

"FOREIGNERS ARE ANXIOUS," said Cal Coolidge in his column yesterday, "to sell us merchandise." Gosh, Cal just finds out everything!

STUDIES ON NOISE.

ARE you made unhappy by loud speakers assailing your ears as you walk along the street? If so, don't be downhearted. There is hope. New York City has amended the sanitary code so as to prevent this nuisance. The radio stores are obeying the law. They are grateful that competition does not force them to do something they did not want to do. It is hoped this type of legislation will spread like an epidemic. Possibly loud speakers will not be used, hereafter in political contests.

The movement to control noise is spreading. In Los Angeles they put up structural steel buildings without using the noisy riveter. Other cities on both coasts are following suit. In New York City they commenced installing noiseless turnstiles after accurate measurements showed that turnstiles make a tiger's snarl sound like a zephyr.

These drives to control noise are not wild outbursts of senseless emotion. They are thought out plans based on scientific investigation and accumulated facts. Colgate university is studying the effect of noise on the efficiency of workers and they report progress from time to time. Columbia university is studying the effect of noise on metabolism. Bellevue hospital is studying the effect of noise on blood and brain pressure and heart rhythm. A New York group is studying the effect on hearing. McGill university is studying the same question.

The investigation of facts is being done with scientific precision. An apparatus for measuring noise is being used. It is compared with the yardstick, the pound weight, and the pint measure. This apparatus, mounted in an automobile body, travels from place to place, making measurements of street noises at different hours and in different circumstances.

It is carried to places where different noisy manufacturing methods are used and it compares the noise of each. The records show the noise of riveting, in comparison with locomotive whistling, pile driving, and lion roaring. In England, somewhat similar studies are being made.

All these studies are being used as a basis for what is being done. Incidentally, any official of any city or town, or any manufacturer interested in local conditions, can get one of these new fangled yardsticks, and use it to determine how noisy his place is and use it to change conditions.

HE'S FOR SQUARE CHINS.

C. writes:

I was interested in your remarks about prize fighters and pointed chins. The newspaper article which carried thirty pictures of heads of amateur prize fighters I did not see, but I question the accuracy of a generalization concerning chins, jaws, and long faces of a group so notoriously lacking in average decent blood. I have seen many prize fights, and the only generalization I have been able to come to is the general physical inferiority of prize fighters in comparison with those engaged in any other sport. The back immediately below the shoulders in some was so curved as to suggest deformity. Ninety per cent of the amateur prize fighters I have seen suggest that they are the dregs of humanity, physically. There are exceptions, and they climb to the top.

Has Dempsey a narrow face? Or Tunney? Or Sharkey? Or Loughran? Or Stribling? All narrow faced people are narrow headed as well, and they are all servers of one kind or another, never masters. Amateur prize fights are pathetic. Club members, many of whom are go-getting boasters and cowards, sit around and hoot and cat call at a pair of poor alley rats, half deformed and undernourished, because they will not maim each other for life for a few, very few, dollars of prize money.

But I began with the intention of saying something about chins. Has any one ever seen Tilden, the tennis champion, and been able to forget his chin? Could any one ignore the chin of Tunney? Or of George Gipp, the idol of Notre Dame? Those are chins as are chins; not pointed, but square or at least broad, long and heavy. Do you remember how Tunney came back at Dempsey and cut him to ribbons? Tilden was champion of the world in tennis at 37.

HOW TO ROUT LICE.

Mrs. J. °C, D. writes:

I think it would be selfish if I did not tell you how wonderful oil of sassafras is for head lice.

Dip the finger tips in the oil and rub in the hair. The lice drop right away. If one does this a few times a week the lice will all be gone.

RABBITS IN CITY.

Chicago, April 17.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I would like to know if it is legal to raise rabbits on a city lot I own. F. K.

There is no general prohibition but, of course, it would not be permitted in closely built up neighborhood where it would be a nuisance.

DIVORCE AFTER TWO YEARS.

Chicago, April 28.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Can a husband sue his wife for desertion or divorce if she leaves the United States without his consent? He is an American born and I am British born, American by marriage. B. B.

Yes, after two years.

TOO LATE FOR ADJUSTMENT.

Chicago, April 20.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Can you advise me where to go in the city hall to try and get an adjustment on an excessive tax bill? E. O. J.

It is too late to get an adjustment as to the assessment figures on which your 1929 real estate tax is based, if that is what you have in mind.

APPROPRIATION PASSED.

Chicago, April 24.—[Friend of the People.]—Kindly advise when payments will be made to property owners whose property was condemned for the widening of Lincoln avenue. O. F. M.

In the condemnation proceedings for the widening of Lincoln avenue an amount of $245,000 was assessed against the city as a public benefit in the condemnation proceedings; this being the proportionate share to be paid into the warrant from city funds. An appropriation was passed by the council this year, which appropriation is payable from the city corporate fund. When funds are available to pay into the warrant this amount of money we will be able to proceed with the payment of awards to owners whose property has been condemned. We cannot at this time specify a definite date.
GEORGE I. KEEFE,
Supervisor of Condemnation Awards.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

MAY 12, 1915.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The United States will demand that Germany make full atonement for the killing of the Americans on the Lusitania and other vessels and give acceptable assurances there will be no repetition of such outrages. Unless Germany complies immediately with these demands the United States will sever diplomatic relations with the Berlin government. President Wilson is drafting a note to Germany which will carry no threat of the consequences of the rejection of the demands of the United States, but it will go to Berlin with the understanding on both sides that if its terms are rejected the United States will waste no time in breaking off diplomatic relations.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Germany notified the United States through Ambassador Gerard that submarine commanders have been specifically instructed not to harm neutral vessels not engaged in hostile acts and that Germany will pay damages without prize court proceedings and express regret if neutral ships are accidentally damaged. Previously Germany has disclaimed responsibility for any harm that might befall neutral vessels venturing into the war zone.

LONDON.—The Express prints a cartoon of President Wilson wrapped in an American flag and standing in a tub. The tub is inscribed "Pride." Wilson is saying to the kaiser, who is depicted as dragging a drowned woman by the hair through the surf: "Next time you do that I shall be really angry." The cartoon is inspired by Mr. Wilson's utterance about a nation being too proud to fight.

LONDON.—A correspondent at the front wires from France: "The greatest—the very greatest battle of the war on either front is now in progress." On the 70 mile front extending from Dunesa-Lombaertzyde to the plains of Arras, he says, the fighting is hot everywhere and the allies have driven the enemy back on the whole line.

30 YEARS AGO TODAY

CHICAGO.—Dr. D. K. Pearsons, the philanthropist, returned from a western trip and announced that he would give no more money to institutions located east of this city. The $1,000,000 or $2,000,000 he intends to dispose of in the next year is all for Chicago and the west.

CHICAGO.—Fifteen or more women and children, engaged in gathering firewood, pulled down a two story frame building on themselves at 62 Larrabee street. One boy was killed and six other children were injured. The structure had long been considered dangerous.

CHICAGO.—Chief of Police O'Neill issued an order forbidding policemen to attend the races except on duty. The order was issued "for the good of the department." The chief said that many policemen have been losing too much money and that after the races come the loan sharks and after the loan sharks comes trouble.

CHICAGO.—County Hospital Warden James H. Graham is to be dismissed as a result of the special hospital investigating committee's report, and 235 employés must take an honest civil service examination or quit. The appointment of a successor to Graham is demanded on the ground that "those twin evils, partisan politics and personal favoritism," must be stamped out.

50 YEARS AGO TODAY

MAY 12, 1881.

LONDON.—The bill to permit clergymen of the Church of England and of the Roman Catholic church to become members of parliament failed of a second reading in the house of commons. Clergymen of the Presbyterian, Methodist, and other "dissenting" churches under the present law can become members of parliament and it is somewhat difficult to understand why the same privilege should not be conferred on the Episcopal and Catholic clergymen.

CHICAGO.—Fifteen hundred spectators saw the baseball game between Chicago and Troy teams and witnessed another furious batting streak by the home club. The score was 11 to 3 in favor of Chicago. Corcoran did the hurling for Chicago and Welsh was in the box for Troy. Anson, first base; Williamson, third base, and Corcoran each made two runs.

EDITORIAL.—There is a bill before the legislature to compel the county commissioners to buy up and pay for out of the Cook county treasury all the charters of the fifteen or twenty swindling toll roads in this county at whatever price packed juries may award. Toll gates on roads entering large cities are at this time a nuisance and a reproach to our civilization. All these roads should be made free. If the companies will not sell at a fair price the property should be condemned, provided a fair and reasonable compensation is awarded.

THE AMERICAN HERITAGE.

Chicago, May 8.—In the rostrum stands a high priest, speaking in degrading terms of everything American, although he himself belongs to that tribe. He assures his audience that his vacations are spent in dear old Europe, grooming himself for his final sojourn to that haven of kultur and noble purposes. Why wonder that an Englishman should say ugly things about us. The high priest's ancestors were sturdy pioneers with a real purpose in life. They left the old sod, daring the wilderness and the unknown to seek freedom and opportunity in the new world. They have hewn the trails. They have built villages and towns—some of them with much beauty and purpose—dignified houses of good proportions in fine settings, free from the cheap dilettante work of our day—and this all the way from Maine to the great plains.

I still remember farmsteads and villages in the valleys of central New York, crowned in the autumn gold of sugar maples planted there by the strong arms of pioneer mothers, and I know of no finer rural picture anywhere. These are accomplishments worthy of a great people. These towns still show the real feeling of freedom; the hand of friendship and hospitality is still in evidence. There are no forbidding walls to part neighbors. Youth may still develop in an atmosphere that is not being stifled by sophistication, nor dwarfed mentally, as is too often the case in our large cities and their satellites. With all the faults of the small town as we think we see it—and is it really after all a fault?—those towns still express the freedom of pioneer days—the freedom that is foreign to most European cities—streets overarched by elm or maple, with houses set well back on a continuous green, like one family. Keep this freedom a sacred heritage and the future will take care of itself.

Peter Barr, a celebrated horticulturist in his time, of London, England, once said to me, "Your well kept lawns are the foundation and the beginning for something better and something finer." We are in the morning of a great day!
JENS JENSEN.

HALSTED STREET.

Chicago, May 7.—The article in today's paper about Halsted street by Philip Kinsley was interesting to any one familiar with this famous street, more for what was omitted than for what was said.

The street is now a pallid ghost of what it was twelve years ago, when it was in the heyday of its glory. It is safe to say that 20 per cent of its buildings are now vacant. Most of these were formerly saloons with the owner's family living upstairs and the remainder were stores and business houses. These deserted, dingy buildings, with the dirt and grime of years on their patched and broken windows, are a fitting memorial to the thrifty prosperity which was thoroughly rooted out and destroyed by the blight of prohibition.

It has always seemed strange to me that the Chicago Real Estate board did not take some positive action to get rid of this canker sore which is eating into the vitals of the city. E. C. BROWN.

DRINKING IN THE PARK.

Chicago, May 8.—I wonder if all the parks in Chicago are like Sherman park. One can't walk through the park without seeing groups of men drinking to their heart's content.

I probably would not pay any attention to these men if I did not have two of my own boys over there drinking. And they drink for nothing, as they are out of work and haven't a cent to spend on liquor. It seems as though all of these other men are drinking on their bonus money and don't care who drinks with them. DISGUSTED.

EGGS.

Sugar Bush, Wis., May 7.—Fresh eggs can be purchased here at 12 or 14 cents per dozen. Express charges to Chicago are about 4 cents per dozen. The cost of mailing the crate back is about 1 cent per dozen. A. A. EISENTRANT.

12 CENTS.

Spartland, Ill., May 8.—Down here the local grocers pay only 12 cents for nice, clean, fresh eggs and 20 cents per pound for good sweet butter, and cream is 23 cents per pound for butterfat. However, everything that the farmer has to buy from the grocer is still as high as ever.
A FARMER'S WIFE.

THE COST OF LIVING.

Chicago, May 9.—Relative to your articles on falling living costs: The Business Week states in its issue for April 15: "Living costs have declined about 13 per cent since October, 1929; average earnings of labor have dropped 20 per cent, according to the national industrial conference board." R. H. T.

POLICE IN HASTE.

Chicago, May 9.—This afternoon a flivver squad, with siren shrieking, tore through heavy traffic and a stop signal at 75th street and Yates avenue going at least 50 miles an hour. A half hour later a large police car followed by another flivver squad screamed through the same intersection at 55 to 60 miles per hour, narrowly missing a sedan which was trying to get out of the way. Thinking in each case that at least a murder was being committed to account for the reckless speed with which the cars were driven, I followed both. In the first case a small traffic accident had occurred, nothing was hurt but a couple of fenders, and one of the parties wanted the other arrested. In the second case the police were hastening to pick up an abandoned car which had been standing for hours at the corner of 72d street and Phillips avenue, and would still have been there had they walked from the station. That would have been great consolation for the owners of several cars who barely escaped with their lives trying to get out of the way of the mad rush. Fire trucks out for exercise please copy.

THE CHAMBER OF HORRORS.

Chicago, May 9.—Since the surface lines have built a model of an old State street cable grip car for the new Rosenwald museum, it seems to me it would add a great deal to the transportation exhibit in the museum to have one of the old 1400 type suburban engines of the Illinois Central along with one of the old suburban cars placed there. It certainly would be interesting to many south siders who rode on those small coaches.

The other day I saw engine 1427 in the yards and there used to be lots of the old suburban coaches out at Burnside, so it should be easy to obtain one of each for the museum. J. B.

CRAWFORD AVENUE.

Chicago, May 7.—Funds were appropriated by the county board over a year ago for paving Crawford avenue south of the drainage canal. At the time Mr. Faherty was blamed for delaying this paving. Now Mr. Faherty is out, what is the alibi for not going ahead? I and hundreds of owners holding this vacant for years in this vicinity are willing to improve our vacant as soon as the pavement is put in. I am sure this will start a building boom in this vicinity. WM. MARCUS.

BROTHERS IN PROHIBITION.

Miller, Ind., May 9.—I wonder if the knights and ladies of prohibition realize that the only two countries to have prohibition are the United States and Afghanistan?

PEER THREATENS TO SUE; BUELOW'S BOOK IS HELD UP

Lord Lonsdale Calls It "Pure Imagination."

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 11.—Upon receipt of a threat of legal action by Lord Lonsdale, 74 years old, Messrs. Putnam, London publishers, today announced the suspension of publication of the first volume of Prince Von Buelow's memoirs. The book contains considerable adverse criticism of Lord Lonsdale.

LORD LONSDALE.

The peer insists the charges are "purely imaginative." He suggested that Von Buelow, a former German chancellor, fore a grudge against him because he refused to act as unofficial diplomat on his visits to the former kaiser. Lord Lonsdale, who was a close friend of the former kaiser before the war, said the real trouble maker in Europe was Prince Christian of Denmark and not himself.

Suspension Is Temporary.

The publishers emphasized that the suspension of publication is merely temporary and that the final decision concerning release of the volume is being reserved.

The former German chancellor, in his book, which already has been published in Germany, records that King Edward VII. described Lord Lonsdale as "the greatest liar in England."

Lord Lonsdale admits that he was "a close friend of the former kaiser," but says he never talked politics with him, and as for Premier Von Buelow, the British peer thinks he "must have had a stroke" before writing what is "pure imagination."

This more particularly, according to Lord Lonsdale, refers to Prince Von Buelow's charge that he "constantly stirred up trouble between the former kaiser and his English uncle, King Edward."

Ex-Kaiser Is Questioned.

A London reported was sent to Doorn to see what the former kaiser had to say about it. The reporter discovered that the book "aroused severe controversy and feeling in Doorn castle, especially among supporters of the former kaiser, who himself read it in the original."

The reporter was further informed that the former kaiser reads English books and newspapers extensively and is "particularly fond of Shaw, despite the fact he is a Socialist and makes fun of kings."

GRAVELY ILL

BARBARA BENNETT.

New York, May 11.—[Special.]—Barbara Bennett, wife of Morton Downey, tenor, is dangerously ill in Fifth Avenue hospital. So serious is the condition of the second daughter of Richard Bennett, temperamental actor, that a priest was called to her bedside last Saturday. Miss Bennett, considered by many as more beautiful than her famous sisters, Constance and Joan, was stricken early last week. On Thursday she underwent an operation for a serious internal trouble.

UNCLE SAM TO TRIM HIS HUGE PAY ROLL DOWN

Cut to the Limit, Is Order of Hoover.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 11.—[Special.]—Reduction of government overhead through a slash of civilian personnel employed in the army, navy, and other executive departments and the application of other economies wherever possible has been directed by President Hoover in communication to members of his cabinet.

It is possible certain surplus army posts and shore stations now taking an annual toll from the national budget will be ordered abandoned and sold by the president, following conferences with Secretary of War Hurley and Secretary of the Navy Adams. Surveys indicating how savings could be effected through the sale of old Indian posts, coast artillery fortifications, navy shore stations, and yards and other navy shore properties no longer necessary to national defense have been made in recent weeks.

Economy Is Watchword.

In orders to his cabinet members the President has directed that constant efforts be made to reduce the size of the huge civilian establishment that has grown up during and since world war days. Promotions for civilians are to be slowed up, vacancies in civilian forces left unfilled and employés who can be spared in one department transferred to another.

Just how much of a saving could be effected through gradual reduction of civilian personnel cannot be stated accurately. It is known, however, that the civilian labor cost the navy department $79,000,000 last year. Some official investigators have estimated the navy department personnel at Washington could be cut as much as 40 per cent without impairing efficiency.

All cabinet officers have been directed to watch their step in spending government funds during the remainder of the current year and the next fiscal year, beginning July 1. Whenever possible appropriations are to be saved and returned to the treasury.

Budget Estimates Pruned.

In preparing budgets for the 1932 fiscal year cabinet members, at the direction of the President, are holding down their estimates to the figures approved by congress for their expenditure during the 1932 fiscal year. Cabinet officers have been asked to reduce their 1932 budget estimates below 1932 figures wherever possible, so as to make it possible to balance the budget during that fiscal year and reduce national expenditures below the four billion dollar mark, if possible.

President Hoover's move to cut down expenses in government operation is prompted by a prospective billion dollar deficit on July 1 and the fear that unless the budget can be balanced in future years an increase in taxes will be faced.

Congressmen May Fight.

Secretary of War Hurley said today that it is the desire of the administration to take army posts out of the "pork barrel" class and retain only those which are valuable for national defense purposes. Among forts considered ripe for abandonment are Fort Lincoln, N. D.; Fort Meade, S. D., and Fort Missoula, Mont. Others of little military value which might be dropped include numerous coast artillery posts and Mexican border posts. Some air flying fields also are under scrutiny.

No definite announcement has been made whether President Hoover and his army and navy cabinet heads actually will brave the political wrath of local congressmen by attempting to cut off the stream of appropriations to surplus stations and obsolete army posts and depots.

Previous moves during this and other administrations to close politically protected shore properties and army posts have been frustrated. Any drastic cut in surplus national defense property would come as a surprise to veteran army and navy officers.

WIFE DIVORCES CONVERSE, HEIR TO STEEL RICHES

New York, May 11.—(AP)—Mrs. Marion Converse, wife of Converse M. Converse, grandson of the late Edward C. Converse, a founder of the United States Steel corporation and the Bankers' Trust company, today was granted a separation by Supreme Court Justice John Ford. Converse did not contest the action.

Mrs. Converse charged abandonment and offered as proof documents relating to a Reno divorce which her husband obtained in April, 1930. She charged the Reno action was void in this state because she was not served properly with notice it was pending.

Mrs. Converse last week told Justice Ford she had agreed out of court with her husband's counsel, to accept $8,500 a year permanent alimony.

CERMAK ISSUES CALL FOR YOUTH WEEK IN CITY

Mayor Cermak yesterday issued a proclamation setting aside May 17-23 as the official observance of Youth week in Chicago. "For eleven years Chicago has celebrated Boys' week, leading all cities of America in honoring its growing lads," said the proclamation. "Likewise it had at different times a Girls' week. Now the civic and industrial and educational leaders of Chicago have seen fit to unite the two and stage a demonstration on behalf of its 1,000,000 boys and girls.

"In this worthy and far visioned undertaking Chicago again demonstrates its faculty for leadership, its willingness to enter new fields for human welfare, its affection for its youth, and its intense humanness in spite of the rush of every day life."

George W. Dixon is president of the Chicago Youth Week federation, and William J. Bogan, superintendent of schools, is chairman of the federation executive committee.

BLAMES HARD TIMES TO WOMEN'S NEGLECT OF COTTON AND WHEAT

New York, May 11.—[Special.]—The whims of American women were blamed for "much of the present distress of American agriculture" by Henry Stude of Chicago, president of the American Bakers' association, speaking at the convention of the New York retail bakers.

"Their foibles are costing our farmers at least $500,000,000 a year," said Mr. Stude. "A very large part of the surplus we now have, both of cotton and wheat, is due to the whims of our women folk. They won't wear cotton and they won't eat wheat. Cotton is the cheapest clothing, and wheat is the cheapest food."

Something might be done to remedy the situation, he added, if President Hoover appointed a woman to the farm board.

"Mr. Hoover's appeal to the women of America helped save wheat and cotton in time of war," he said. "An appeal by President Hoover to women might help relieve our serious surpluses of those products today."

Woman Killed by Electric Heater That Fell in Bath

Virginia, Minn., May 11.—(AP)—Mrs. Grace McGiver, 23, wife of Don J. McGiver, news editor of the Virginia Daily Enterprise, was electrocuted today while attempting to recover an electric heater which had fallen into a bathtub filled with water.

SEIZE BEER TRUCK AFTER CHASE IN STREETS OF LOOP

Two special prohibition agents early yesterday seized a truck carrying eleven barrels of beer to the loop and arrested the driver's helper, after a chase through side streets and alleys from Wabash avenue and 22d street to Madison and Wells streets.

Two men in an automobile acting as convoy for the beer truck attempted several times to force the agents' car into the curb by swerving sharply in front of them. As the truck drove into an alley between Wells and La Streets, north of Madison, the agents drove past the convoy car and the two occupants of the truck jumped out. The helper, Frank Uva, 3510 Princeton avenue, was seized, but the driver leaped on the running board of the convoy car and escaped.

Eliot Ness, assistant in charge of the special agents, said the truck bore the name of the Acme Seamless Tube company, a fictitious concern.

HEAD ACHE

When you feel a headache coming on, it's time to take Bayer Aspirin. Two tablets will head it off, and you can finish your shopping in comfort.

Any over-exertion is apt to bring pain in some form. Head pains from crowds or noise. Limbs that ache from sheer weariness. Joints sore from the beginnings of a cold. Systemic pain. The remedy is rest. But immediate relief is yours for the taking; a pocket tin of Bayer Aspirin is protection from pain wherever you go.

You never know when these tablets may save the day, avoid breaking an engagement, spare you from a miserable evening or sleepless night.

Get real aspirin. Look for Bayer on the box. Read the proven directions found inside every genuine Bayer package. They cover headaches, colds, sore throat, toothache, neuralgia, neuritis, sciatica, lumbago, rheumatism, muscular pains—and other suffering which need not be endured.

Bayer-Tablets of Aspirin — Genuine

These tablets do not depress the heart. Nor do they upset the stomach. They do nothing but stop the pain. Every druggist has Bayer Aspirin in the pocket size, and in bottles. If you wish to save money, buy the genuine tablets by the hundred. It doesn't pay to experiment with imitations at any price!

Mrs. Joe W. Wescott

Blessed with a warm-hearted smile . . . slender beauty . . . eager life and vitality, Mrs. Joe W. Wescott of 492 Woodlawn Avenue, Glencoe, wife of the Evanston Chevrolet dealer, is much admired. Her home, furnished with rare antiques, reflects her charming taste . . . and makes a delightful setting for three-year-old Jane—a bundle of life any mother would adore! "Jane plays so hard," says Mrs. Wescott, "that during play hours she needs a healthful food to restore her energy. Welch's is just the thing. This pure fruit juice gives her the minerals and body builders she needs. And she loves Welch's so, that I keep it in the refrigerator all year around . . . Ready whenever she wants it! Ready, too, when guests drop in, for this delicious drink is wonderfully refreshing."

WITH increasing force the fact is being brought home that the Union Station is Chicago's most convenient station.

"The new boulevard system of this city," writes one of Chicago's busiest executives, "tends to make the Union Station the most accessible in Chicago. Some months ago this fact was brought home very forcefully to me. On a particular day when I was leaving for New York, I was detained until the last moment at Tribune Tower. If it had been necessary for me to travel through the congested traffic of the Loop, I would have missed the train. However, the easy access to the Union Station gave me plenty of time to get aboard the Broadway Limited. This same situation must occur times without number to other travelers to New York."

The Union Station is the Chicago home of all Pennsylvania trains to the East. Seventeen swift trains leave for New York each day led by four luxurious 20-hour flyers. You choose your own hour of departure, your hour of arrival. You will find a Pennsylvania train that fits your plans.

There are thirteen trains daily from Union Station to Washington and Baltimore.

Please bear in mind that every book listed on this page is a popular copyright. We have distributed millions of classical reprints, but until June 30 we offer the public a great library of popular copyrights. Every book listed on this page is exclusive. You cannot get them in any other form. Considering that these are POPULAR COPYRIGHTS, the price of 20 books for $1 is an unbelievable bargain! All printed in type that is easily read. After midnight June 30 we shall abandon printing popular copyrights and return to our old policy of reprints of non-copyright classics.

POPULAR COPYRIGHTS

Listed on this page at the rate of 20 Books for $1, but after June 30 these Popular Copyrights will not be available. Your final chance! A new list of Classical Reprints will be issued after June 30.

Until June 30 we guarantee to supply every Popular Copyright listed on this page at 5c per book, if you select at least 20 books, as many more as you choose. These Popular Copyrights cannot be purchased elsewhere and after June 30 they will not be available anywhere! By returning to the policy of reprints of the classics we will save enormous fees to authors and their estates. This is necessary in order to save the idea of Little Blue Books at 5c each.

20 BOOKS FOR $1

This is our one and only advertisement! This chance will never be repeated. You must act now or never! Mail your order before midnight of June 30, the absolute time limit. The postmark will tell. ## EXCLUSIVE

Until June 30, we offer copyrights not available elsewhere

As you examine this list bear in mind that each book listed had to be written especially for us on a royalty basis, or we had to buy the right to publish. This involved an enormous financial outlay which we cannot hear after June 30. Copyrights at the rate of 20 books for $1 will surprise you, but here we are with our real bargain offer, if order is mailed before the closing out sale—June 30.

We Planned Bigger Than Cold Business Practice Would Permit

We hoped to be able to issue a great library of Popular Copyrights, but we must be blunt and admit the bitter truth—the royalties and fees were too gigantic, considering that we were getting only 5c per book. Under our old plan we reprinted the classics—such as Shakespeare, Emerson, Poe, Keats, Byron, Shelley, etc., etc., and these works entailed only a mechanical expense. Then we issued the enormous list of books on this page—all Popular Copyrights—and they became great sellers immediately, but the royalties ate up every penny of profit. So now we must clean our shelves of these Popular Copyrights. Every one must be sold in order to make room for our great list of Classical Reprints.

We Are Coming to the Public With a LAST CALL ANNOUNCEMENT

This short, swift sale will be sufficient to dispose of our entire stock of Popular Copyrights. We guarantee to fill your order if it is mailed before June 30, but cannot hold this guarantee open a single day longer.

NEW CITY RISES ON STEPPES OF RUSSIAN UKRAINE

Work 21 Hours a Day on Huge Tractor Factory.

BY HENRY WALES.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

KHARKOV, U. S. S. R., April 19.—[By mail.]—"Tractorstrol" is the new city and plant constructed eight miles south of here to produce 50,000 tractors per year. Ground was broken last spring and production is scheduled to commence July 1 next year.

It was my first view of the steppe as we motored south along a good road, vast, treeless expanse of prairie, the black earth for which the Ukraine is famed, rolling gently, and with very little water, dotted with aged, decrepit windmills here and there for wells and for grinding grain.

Recent snow made the steppe a bog wherever traffic touched it, like the front in France during the war—black, sticky slime, worse than the chalky mud of Champagne.

Work All Winter.

Concrete was poured, heated, all winter, to get up the huge frames of the shops at Tractorstrol, and now there are a dozen giant buildings rearing their heads in the steppe, where last year grain was being sown.

Sixteen thousand persons, men and women, are engaged in the construction work and the completed plant will give work to 11,000, it is estimated. All parts for tractors will be manufactured. An electric power plant at Ezsar, two and one-half miles from here, will supply the power.

All foreign machinery is being installed. Upward of 100 Americans are employed at Tractorstrol, although many are now out on leave, having completed the first year of their contract. There are many Russian Americans here, men who lived in America and returned here. Their numbers have strong Red tendencies. It is also announced that an additional 150 Americans will be recruited in the United States and sent to Stalingrad.

Beside the plant a number of 6 story apartment houses have already been completed, and more are under construction, to house the workers. There will be clubs, hospitals, two movies, a theater, sports stadium, swimming pool, and an electric tram service to Kharkov.

Work 21 Hours a Day.

Construction is proceeding in three seven hour shifts a day. Shops and coöperative stores are already open for the workers. No liquor is sold and cigarets are only doled out on union cards, at an average less than a package of 20 a day per man.

Gasoline and benzine will be shipped from Grosny, 1,800 miles away, in steel drums and tank cars, pending the construction of the projected pipe line via Rostov. Steel and coal will come from the Don basin, adjacent to the works.

All the 1,100 odd parts in a tractor, except the magnetos, will be made here. The magnetos will come from Ericsson, Sweden, and the Ericsson plant at Leningrad.

The assembling building is already up, but not floored, and measures 1,500 feet in length by 230 feet in width. Some machinery is already set up in this unit on concrete blocks in the mud. Eventually cement flooring will be set down. The machine repair shop measures 375 by 110 feet and contains 230 machines already installed, chiefly of American and German make.

Girls and boys, 16 to 18 years of age, work as apprentices beside the hands, learning the machine trade.

I saw scores of different American made machines either in place or in big packing cases, lying outside in the mud awaiting installation. They were from the Federal Machine company, Warren, O.; Wickes Brothers, Saginaw, Mich.; Acme Machine company, Cleveland, and dozens of Morris cranes.

Wilfred Fregolle of Detroit is chief layout engineer, and Leon Swajian of Detroit, who is here with his family, is chief superintendent of buildings. There is also an engineer, George Ogger of Detroit, Alphonse Delmore of Seattle, Ray Baugh of Detroit, electrical welder, Elmer Walden of Seattle, Carl Lund of Seattle, and E. Friedman of Seattle.

The Americans are housed in temporary log buildings, fitted as apartments, with kerosene stoves if they wish to do their own cooking. Or they may eat at the company mess hall, where cheap meals of soup, bortsch, kasha, and stewed fruit are served.

Mud and Slime Everywhere.

Everywhere there is a morass of mud, and one sinks to the knees in the slippery slime if he falls off the duck boards or is forced to cross a patch of ground with no wooden plank bridges.

Shortage of steel for reinforcing the concrete, and the transport crisis, delaying the arrival of material, will probably retard the completion of the plant, although the superintendent insisted that production will begin July 1 next.

No one would estimate how many millions of dollars have been expended in construction of the plant and purchase of machinery, nor could I obtain any figures as to production costs envisaged nor sales prices of completed articles.

RUSSIA BOOSTS ALL PRICES 50 PER CENT TO DEFLATE MONEY

MOSCOW, May 14.—(AP)—Millions of soviet citizens learned to their dismay today that the government has quietly raised the prices 50 per cent on food, liquor, and practically all basic commodities.

This step was interpreted in many quarters as part of the government's program to deflate the currency, the outstanding total of which is at a huge figure. Commissar of Finance Grinko said some time ago that there would be no further issuance of currency in 1931, indicating that the authorities apparently had awakened to the appalling inflation and intended taking steps for stabilization.

With all prices up 50 per cent and probably going higher, outstanding paper is expected to be decreased rapidly and deflation accomplished more or less painlessly. The government is reported to have large quantities of food and other commodities which it intends to release slowly at higher prices until the balance of currency is in favor of the treasury, after which prices will be stabilized accordingly.

PLAN MEMORIAL FOR LINCOLN BY RESTORING SITES

Springfield, Ill., May 11.—[Special.]—Preservation and restoration of buildings and places in Illinois intimately connected with the life of Abraham Lincoln, in lieu of the construction of a memorial building, will be recommended to the Illinois general assembly this week.

Eventually acquisition by the state of the Sangamon county courthouse, the former statehouse, is included in the program. If the report is approved by the assembly, a more detailed outline of plans will be offered in 1933.

1. Acquisition of the Macon county farm where Lincoln's family first lived.
2. Acquisition of the Coles county farm where Thomas Lincoln died.
3. Restoration of New Salem.
4. Make Vandalia statehouse fireproof and refurnish it as it stood when Lincoln sat in its halls.
5. Acquire the Sangamon county courthouse, formerly the statehouse, with which the tomb and Lincoln's home would be a part of the program.
6. Preserve Metamora courthouse, Woodford county.
7. Uniform marking with bronze tablets in base relief of the sites on which Lincoln camped while in the Black Hawk war, the marking of the sites of the Lincoln-Douglas debates and places where Lincoln spoke or practiced law.

What'll You Take?

REMEMBER your boyhood days when swapping was a common custom? Money was the last thing you considered. Kites were traded for skates—marbles for a jack knife—and a live turtle could bring you the best broken alarm clock in the neighborhood!

Exchanging articles is still common practice with many persons. Furniture, articles of clothing, and other commodities are "traded even" for household appliances, diamonds, rugs, rent, personal services, automobiles, etc.

What have you to trade for something else more useful to you? Check the articles you have stored away in closets, trunks and elsewhere! # 1,700 MEASURES STILL ON SLATE AT LEGISLATURE

Flood of Bills Breaks All Records.

BY PERCY WOOD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield Ill., May 11.—[Special.]—Having set an all time record by introducing 1,761 bills since Jan. 6, the Illinois general assembly returns to work this week with but 65 of these measures acted upon either by passage in the two houses or approval by the governor.

Less than two months remain for the life of this, the 57th session of the legislature. It has already been necessary to hold two meetings of the house on working days and night sessions may be resorted to before the end of this month. The number of bills entered thus far has eclipsed records in the past, the largest previous number coming in 1917, during the Lowden administration, when 1,653 were introduced.

Comparative Figures Given.

Dewitt Billman, secretary of the legislative reference bureau, today prepared a table showing the bills introduced each session for the last fourteen years. It follows:

| | Senate. | House. | Total. |
|---|---|---|---|
| 1917 | 612 | 1,041 | 1,653 |
| 1921 | 535 | 868 | 1,403 |
| 1923 | 556 | 848 | 1,404 |
| 1925 | 532 | 683 | 1,215 |
| 1927 | 614 | 758 | 1,372 |
| 1929 | 547 | 819 | 1,366 |

*Record.

Of the sixty-five measures disposed of, 42 have been enacted into law and signed by Gov. Emmerson and the remaining twenty-three have been passed, but have not yet been signed. The one bill vetoed was the O'Grady-McDermott state prohibition law repealer.

This week action is expected in the senate on house bills 269 and 270, which would give the state the right to construct and maintain roads in cities. These had trouble in the house, at passage time, Chicago members protesting that the authority they would grant would allow the state to interfere with matters which relate purely to municipalities.

Raise Issue of Parking.

Much the same argument was made in the senate highway committee last week, Senator Thomas J. Courtney [Dem., Chicago], the minority leader, fighting for an amendment to allow the cities concurrent jurisdiction in the matter of parking on streets which would be selected for the state roads. He lost in committee but is expected to battle for his point on the floor of the senate.

11 FATHERS CHOSEN ON KIRKLAND JURY; PICK 12TH MAN TODAY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Valparaiso, Ind., May 11.—[Special.]—With eleven jurors selected to try Virgil Kirkland, 20 years old, for the rape and murder of 18 year old Arlene Draves, Judge Grant Crumpacker this afternoon ordered a night session of court in an endeavor to complete the jury.

The eleven are all fathers. Nine are farmers, one a plumber, and one a factory worker.

The panel of veniremen was exhausted, however, in the overtime session and court was adjourned. Selection of the twelfth juror will be effected within an hour tomorrow morning, attorneys predicted.

A full jury had been completed today when Charles S. Cobb Jr., a farmer, asked to be excused. He pleaded that he had been unable to find a man to tend his 160 acre farm during his absence on jury duty and the court allowed him to go.

Thirty-six men and four women had been rounded up in a search of Valparaiso streets by Sheriff Burney Maxwell when court opened. The entire forty were willing to serve and the examination of jurors was speedy in contrast to the tedious delays in finding jurors which have characterized this second trial of the case. At a former trial, Kirkland was found guilty and ordered to serve a life sentence, but the judge ordered a new hearing.

Girl Robbed of $5,500 in Gems Near Night Club

Gems valued at $5,500 were taken from Miss Thelma Tucker, 4246 Sheridan road, in front of the Frolics cafe, 18 East 22d street, early yesterday morning by two gunmen.

3 GANG MURDERS, OTHER GUNFIRE IN NEW YORK DAY

Additional Body Found in River, Hand Missing.

New York, May 11.—[Special.]—Handy gunmen of New York's gangland went about evening up their scores again today and when the roar of the last gat had died away tonight the police had three new murders to work on in addition to a half dozen other shootings of more or less serious import.

One of the victims, later identified as John Liquori, 31, a truck driver of Brooklyn, was found shot to death in the rear of his own truck with a burlap bag tied tightly about the head; another, John Justig, of unknown occupation, was "put on the spot" in the hallway of an east side tenement house, and the third, Walter Fowler, a foreman lather, was killed on the steps of a 34 avenue tenement house, in a row, the police believe, over a job.

Body in River, Hand Gone.

In addition, the body of a man with one hand cut off was found in the North river and a reputed racketeer was shot and seriously wounded in Newark, N. J.

Still other casualties of the outbreak which began last night included two policemen who were severely hurt when an automobile crashed into an elevated pillar.

The body of the slain truckman was found by a street cleaner when he mounted the driver's seat to move what he thought was an abandoned truck.

Killed Hunting Job.

Fowler the lather left home, his wife told the police, with four men who called to see him about a job he had promised to secure for one of them, and the theory was that he was shot to death in the argument over his failure to fulfill his promise. Justig was identified by his fingerprints. Apparently he had put up a savage fight, for several bullet holes were found in the walls of the hall.

The Newark victim was Charles Schiffman, former prohibition agent who is out on $7,500 bail in connection with the holdup of lottery racket headquarters in Long Branch last September.

'LEGS' AND GIRL INDICTED

Catskill, N. Y., May 11.—[Special.]—The Greene county grand jury returned nine new indictments today, naming Jack [Legs] Diamond, Marion Roberts, his fugitive showgirl friend, and two strong-arm men of his gang, John Scaccio and Paul Quatrucchi. Most of the counts deal with the alleged kidnaping of Grover Parks, the applejack truckman, who says he was subsequently tortured, and Harry Duncan, his helper.

Miss Roberts is accused of second degree assault. Parks said she was with Diamond and the others when they abducted and tortured him. Diamond is accused of violating the Sullivan law and of coercion.

Diamond, shortly after the Parks incident, was fired upon in a roadhouse, and is in a hospital in Albany.

EIGHTEEN SENT TO PRISON.

Wheeling, W. Va., May 11.—(AP)—Eighteen men and boys who were charged with being members of a huge automobile theft ring operating in Ohio, West Virginia, and Pennsylvania were sentenced in Federal court today. The sentences, 14 months to ten years each, aggregated 80 years and 6 months.

NAME N. Y. MAN AS WHITE HOUSE EXECUTIVE CLERK

Washington, D. C., May 11.—[Special.]—President Hoover today appointed George Hastings of New York to succeed French Strother as a member of the White House secretarial staff.

Mr. Hastings will have the title of executive clerk instead of that of administrative assistant, as Mr. Strother was known. He will handle the President's outside social welfare interests, including his contacts with the quasi-official White House conference on child health and protection.

The new official will come to the White House about June 1 from a fifteen years tenure in social welfare work in New York City.

Your Message in a million homes

Good Newspapers Will Sell More Merchandise in 1931

100% COVERAGE

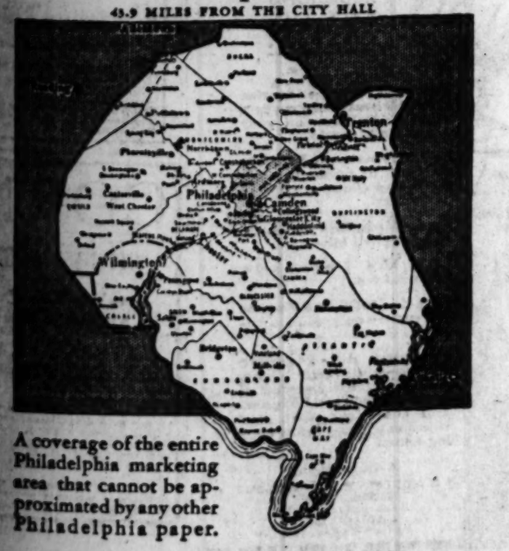
43.9 MILES FROM THE CITY HALL



A coverage of the entire Philadelphia marketing area that cannot be approximated by any other Philadelphia paper.

Homes. Homes. Homes!

But your sales message must reach enough homes to stimulate buying on a volume basis.

Only the great city newspaper can do that for you. It is the only means of intimately reaching enough homes at one time—and in one market—to make advertising pay.

A true measure of the importance of any market is gauged by the homes it contains. You have a direct entré to those homes only thru the regular newspaper.

The reason the Philadelphia market is different from many other major markets is that it is essentially a home market.

The city itself is a city of homes—not apartment houses or apartment hotels.

Here, in A. B. C. Philadelphia and its rich, compact suburban area, are 3,709,000 people. Think of it.

A population greater than Los Angeles, Boston, Baltimore and New Orleans combined. More people than live in 80% of the individual States in our 48 States. A market with an annual cash income of more than two and a half billion dollars. A market composed of over a million homes.

But they can all be reached by the Curtis-Martin newspapers. Complete coverage is obtained with the Morning, Evening and Sunday Public Ledger and the morning and Sunday Inquirer.

The cost of using these newspapers as a group is surprisingly low—no market anywhere can be completely covered so economically as Philadelphia!

Unquestionably, you can sell this market.

The way is open—the means are at your command. This is action time—let us bring the whole story of this responsive market to your conference table.

Kidney Sufferers

Make This Amazing Test!

Doctors say that when body poisons accumulate in the systems any one of 29 serious common chronic ailments is likely to follow. These poisons are actually in the blood. Millions try to drive them out with cathartics and laxatives—without success.

The only right way to get the dangerous acid body wastes out of the system is through the kidneys. These organs purify the blood. But when the kidneys grow lazy and do not filter out the wastes, the first beginnings of disease are laid. The victim feels sluggish—lazy—headachy—always tired and weak.

Now an amazing new discovery is showing thousands the way to wake up lazy kidneys and eliminate the poisonous accumulations from the blood in a short time. Sufferers from kidney troubles say that this wonderful "kidney laxative," known as Sleepy Water, not only gently activates these organs but soothes them.

Doctors everywhere prescribe this pleasant-tasting mineral water to purify the blood, and drive out dangerous poisons quickly. Healthy people by the thousands drink Sleepy Water to keep their health. Sick people—sufferers from 29 serious diseases—have drunk Sleepy Water to regain health.

Find out today about Sleepy Water and the amazing 30-minute test which will demonstrate to you in your own home how Sleepy Water acts to drive body poisons from the system. Address Chewaukla Mineral Springs Co., Dept. EA-10, 3330 Jackson Blvd. Tel. Kedzie 1228. Chicago.

X-RAY PICTURES TAKEN BETWEEN BEATS OF HEART

New Device Is Perfected by Scientists.

Syracuse, N. Y., May 11.—(AP)—A mechanism for use in taking unblurred X-ray pictures of the chest between heart beats, just as a machine gun fires between the blades of a combat airplane's propeller, was announced today at a meeting of the American Sanitarium association.

Charles Weyl of the Moore School of Electrical Engineering of the University of Pennsylvania made the announcement for a group of scientists including himself as technical adviser, Dr. F. Maurice McPhedran of the Henry Phipps institute of the University of Pennsylvania as medical adviser, and S. Reid Warren Jr. and C. Justus Garrahan, who assisted in experiments.

Negatives Are Clear.

The device alternates several short exposures between the beats of the heart so as to produce a clear, composite negative, thus avoiding the obscurities, or blurs, according to its designers, that have been noticeable heretofore as a result of the slight jarring caused by the heart's action.

Another instrument, the comparator densitometer, announced by the same group after several years' experimentation, is designed to establish a standard that the operator can use so he will know in advance of taking an X-ray picture that a certain density in the "shot" will be obtained.

Basis Made Uniform.

This, said Prof. Weyl, enables physicians in different parts of the country to work with X-rays upon a uniform basis, as well as to reduce the variations that have stood in the way of accurate judgment. Heretofore, it was explained, differences in lighting and mechanical action of apparatus have made the accurate reading of negatives depend upon allowances for peculiarities known to exist in the operation of the individual machine.

SIAMESE PRINCESS ASKS HUGHES WHAT HE HAS ON THE HIP

Washington, D. C., May 11.—[Special.]—What Princess Svasti, the sprightly mother of the queen of Siam, had learned of prohibition, American style, before reaching Washington was disclosed at the White House dinner to the royal party according to an anecdote going the rounds of the capital.

Princess Svasti was escorted to the dining room by the chief justice of the Supreme court, Charles Evans Hughes. As she took her seat she observed beside her plate a goblet filled with water and also an empty glass.

"No, your highness," smiled Mr. Hughes, "only mineral water. No wine will be served."

TROOPS KILL 7,000 CHINESE BANDITS; 800 CAPTURED

NANKING, China, May 11.—(AP)—The Nationalist government, which announced tonight its troops had killed 7,000 bandits in central provinces, apparently was preparing to send an army against an incipient rebellion in south China. The bandits were killed in the last two weeks by troops operating over a 200 square mile area along the borders of Honan, Hupeh and Anhwei provinces. Eight hundred of them were captured, the number including 100 women. The statement said the government lost 1,000 soldiers.

The situation in Kwangtung and Kwangsi provinces of south China admittedly is giving the government grave concern, although officials have been guarded in statements concerning their intentions in dealing with the demands of Chen Chi-Tang, military governor of Kwangtung, and other leaders that Chiang Kai-Shek retire from the presidency of the central government here.

The government is planning to dispatch troops into northern Kwangtung to campaign against Gov. Chen, who recently was reported assembling 50,000 Kwangtung soldiers to force Chiang's retirement. A stern message sent by Minister of War Ho Ying-Ching to Gov. Chen ordered him and his associates to remain loyal to Nanking under penalty of having their rebellion crushed as was the uprising in December, 1927, when 2,000 persons were killed and much of Canton was burned.

ROBBED IN ICE CREAM PARLOR.

QUOTES HOOVER AS CALLING TRADE SLUMP MENTAL

New York, May 11.—(AP)—Ald. Edwin Thompson, lord mayor of Liverpool, England, spoke before the British Luncheon club here today.

"Last Friday I was received by President Hoover in Washington," said Lord Mayor Thompson. "President Hoover said he felt that a great deal of the difficulties of the present commercial situation were due to the mental condition of business."

Uncover Plot to Overthrow Government of Mexico

MEXICO CITY, May 11.—(AP)—Gen. Mijares Palencia, chief of the federal district, tonight announced that a plot to overthrow the Ortiz Rubio government had been discovered, and that Luis Cabrera, former minister of finance, had been arrested and deported as the chief conspirator.

DIRECTORS VOTE TO CLOSE BANK IN INDIANAPOLIS

Indianapolis, Ind., May 11.—(AP)—Directors of the Meyer-Kiser bank of Indianapolis tonight announced the institution will not open for business tomorrow morning. The institution, a state bank organized thirty-five years ago, has a capital and surplus of $600,000 and deposits of $2,240,000. Sol Meyer is president.

The closing of the bank was attributed by directors to the general depressed condition of stocks, bonds, and real estate. They said deposits in the institution had been reduced by $4,500,000 within the last three or four years.

A statement issued by the directors said that in their opinion "their assets exceed their liabilities to depositors and creditors."

Enrico Caruso Jr., Singer, Rallies After Operation

Los Angeles, Cal., May 11.—[Special.]—Enrico Caruso Jr., son of the late tenor, tonight was pronounced recovering from an operation for appendicitis. Young Caruso, a tenor, is a singing pupil of Adolfo de la Huerta, former provisional president of Mexico and now a teacher of singing here.

EDISON SERVICE

What it is . . .
What it does

Foundation of Edison Service

The electricity supply of Chicago is a dependable resource of the world's fourth largest city. It is a resource that has aided substantially in the growth of the city to its present commanding position. It is universal knowledge that Chicago is the center of the world's greatest pool of power.

The electricity supply of Chicago is EDISON SERVICE. Should that service fail, Chicago's 3,375,000 people would become virtually idle. Homes would be dark. Housekeepers would have to do by hand the work that electric power now does for them. Factories would shut down. Transportation would stop. Skyscrapers would be untenanted. Shops and stores would lack light to show goods, salespeople to sell goods, or customers to buy. Theaters would be closed. All of which because this is the Electrical Age.

Invested in EDISON SERVICE is the sum of more than $300,000,000—to keep homes lighted, factories operating, transportation lines running, office buildings habitable, and to make barter and sale possible. This money is represented by power stations, transmission lines and the other equipment required to serve the more than 800,000 homes, 100,000 shops and stores, and 25,000 factories, plus the offices and places of amusement, which make up Chicago.

The men and women who own the institution known as EDISON SERVICE are mostly Chicagoans. More than seventy-six per cent. of those who own the stock of this institution live in Chicago. More than eighty-seven per cent. of such stockholders live in Illinois, of which Chicago is the metropolis.

These stockholders are the foundation of EDISON SERVICE.

These Flashes from Morocco Reveal Cinders

Oriental Glamour Has Cold Basis.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"BEHIND Moroccan Walls" [Macmillan], published today, is a series of literary pictures and tales of a Moroccan village, chosen from two books by Isabelle Celarié and translated and adapted by Constance Lily Morris. The translator is Mrs. Ira Nelson Morris of Chicago.

MOUNTAIN GIRL. (Boris Artzybasheff.)

The foreword says: "They are sketches more than short stories attempting to 'show' without preamble cross sections of native Moroccan women's lives, as told to and observed by the alertly interested wife of a French officer living for a time in that country. Such as they are, each story, the author states, is scrupulously true; only the names have been changed. . . . This is Morocco, exotic, fatal, potential."

The foreword probably was written by the translator, not by the author of the sketches, for interesting as a book is in its record, it certainly doesn't show a Morocco either fluid or potential. Morocco as static it does exist.

A purely pictorial of the existing "behind Moroccan walls," not at all concerned with the future of the country or its inhabitants either politically or socially. The two books from which Mrs. Morris has assembled the sketches were published in Paris in 1927, so that they are records of Moroccan life.

There are many things in "Behind Moroccan Walls" which will be a surprise to those who have met ladies of fashion only in the more romantic novels. For instance: "For those who have never been to Morocco I must add that Leila Toma and her friends, Leila Zeineb, are not reclining odalisques in filmy scarfs to reveal each movement of the body. If such visions exist in the mind it is the fault of various painters and romancers. The reality is quite another thing. In spite of the sun, Morocco is a cold country; there are no fireplaces in native houses, and a bizarre custom decrees that a woman of rank may not warm herself. That would be 'shameful.' So then can she keep warm except by adding more garments and making them of cloth and velvet?"

There are various tales of the kidnaping of little girls and their being sold as slaves, some of them from families of women who had been themselves kidnaped and sold. The picture of the slave is not unbearable, it seems, for one of the natives says: "Slaves are not mishandled in Morocco. When it turns out that they are ill nourished, badly clothed or overworked, they have the right to demand to be sold."

The author inquired how that was possible if the master did not want to sell the slave. The slave giggled and there were two ways, to become clever and destructive that the master put her out, or to run away to the roads and apply to the authorities.

There is one tale, however, of a girl slave driven into a tree and left there to starve who was rescued by Frenchwomen and helped to escape. But being a slave isn't in all cases bad at all times. They are sometimes married by their masters, however, which rewards such a union. And there isn't a great deal of difference in many cases between being a slave and being a wife so far as freedom of movement is concerned. As a matter of fact, the slaves are often given the best of freedom. There is an ironic tale of poisoning in which the heroine had an inexplicable death after having poisoned her husband with her lover's aid and having refused to pay the latter blackmail her when she found that he wanted the money to buy another.

Presents always are chosen for young girls, and a sum of money given by the bridegroom to the parents of the girl, not purchase money, they are eager to explain to the author, but a repayment for the large expenditures which the parents must make in preparing their daughter for marriage. A woman whose husband dies may be again affianced through her family or she may choose her own husband. Husbands may at any moment divorce their wives by merely telling them to get out, but on the other hand many of the stories deal with the rather henpecked husband whose wife is obviously the master in the household.

The Moroccans may have four wives if they wish—according to their religious code, although a great many of them have only one wife, or at most, co-wives. The number of concubines which the household shelters is entirely a matter of choice and economics on the part of the head of the house. All children, whether born to the legal wives or to the concubines, and of whatever color, are legitimate.

"The betrothal is binding among Moslems," the author says, "constituting a formal contract. It equals the marriage itself; the rights which it confers on the young girl are such that, if the fiancé dies, she inherits from him."

There is little complaining among the women in Mme. Celarié's books about their prison like lives. They envy European women their freedom to go unveiled and to travel, but either the author did not talk with the ardent feminists of the town in which she lived or there weren't any to talk to.

Since the French occupation, every one told the author, "we feel safer. Before that no one would have dared leave his house after ten o'clock; at present we know we have nothing to be afraid of. Our wives and daughters can go about their business without fear of being kidnaped."

"Behind Moroccan Walls" would be a much pleasanter book to read and one's interest could be continuous if one were not every sentence or two assailed with some Moroccan word. There is a glossary in the back, but reading the pages is like translating a school edition of some foreign classic in which you know most of the words, but have to interrupt your enjoyment of what you do know by having to dig into a vocabulary to find out about the ones you don't know.

The book is a handsome one, far more impressive than its French author ever dreamed it might be, probably. In the translation it is a luxurious volume with twenty full page drawings by Boris Artzybasheff, who went to Morocco to do them.

PAY FOR BABY BY INSTALLMENTS, IS THE LATEST METHOD

Paying for a baby on the installment plan with the same ease one puts away Christmas savings in the bank will be the policy adopted by the Presbyterian hospital. It will be started today in celebration of National Hospital day. The total hospital cost of a baby under this plan, hospital authorities announced yesterday, is forty-five dollars.

Installment plan babies will arrive with all their expenses paid through the simple use of a pass book similar to a savings bank book, according to Asa S. Bacon, superintendent of the hospital. In the book is provision for record of payments and rules and information of value to prospective mothers.

With the exception of the new Chicago Lying-in hospital, which will be closed to the public today for the sterilization of equipment, most of the hospitals in the city will hold open house in celebration of National Hospital day today. Hospital heads will be present for tea or special programs of interest to the public, and visitors will be shown through the hospitals by guides, who will point out the progress in methods of hospital care.

Two hospitals will hold formal opening or dedicatory services. The North Chicago hospital, 2561 North Clark street, will hold formal opening services. On the Midway the Nancy Adele McElwee Memorial hospital for crippled children will be dedicated. The $300,000 structure, the gift of Mrs. Elizabeth McElwee of Lake Forest to the Home for Destitute Crippled Children, will be presented on her behalf by the Rev. Herbert W. Prince, pastor of the Church of the Holy Spirit, Lake Forest.

The Augustana hospital in observing Hospital day will hold a reception and musical program this afternoon Refreshments will be served and visitors will be shown throughout the hospital. The program is under the direction of E. I. Erickson, superintendent.

Good morning!

Here is another one of those pictures possessed of that elusive thing called charm.

"Daybreak" is from the gifted pen of Arthur Schnitzler [he wrote "The Affairs of Anatol"] and tells an interesting story. It is a swift-running story with an undercurrent of tragedy and a sparkling foam of humor.

Ramon Novarro is happily cast as a carefree lieutenant of the Austrian Imperial guard. He gives a distinguished and pepful performance and is vurr' handsome in his regimentals and brand new mustache. He is easy, spontaneous, likable and always extremely natural. As Willi he is a rogue and a darling and, it develops, a really fine and worthwhile person. Real love brings this last fact out when it knocks at the door of his gay heart.

Helen Chandler, one of the most spirituelle of the younger screen actresses, gives an artistic portrayal of the wistful little music teacher who is the heroine. She doesn't seem exactly the type to bowl over a debonair and sophisticated soldier—but there!—Aren't we always saying things like that! You know—"I don't know what [he, she] ever saw in [her-him]!" She has a windflower exquisiteness of face, form and movement and is a finished and intuitive actress. The two have an excellent supporting cast.

Obey that impulse! See "Daybreak!"

Grownups Only at Toy Fair Opening; View Latest Devices

There was a toy fair that opened yesterday in the Stevens hotel and it was attended only by grown men and women. They didn't seem to mind very much the absence of children, because without having to explain this and that to Mary and Johnnie they could enjoy the mechanisms of the very latest gadgets themselves.

It was the yearly fair of the Toy Manufacturers of America, and included the newest in toydom offered by 150 makers all over the United States. At the end of the day Secretary F. B. Dodge declared that the association had had one of its biggest openings in its history and attributed the success of their first toy fair in Chicago to the Chicago Jubilee spirit.

The men buyers seemed to be particularly interested in toys a boy would buy. For instance, a snappy model roadster which boasted real radio, adjustable steering wheel, electric lights, and horn. Others recalled their boyhood days when they attempted to make their own lead soldiers, as they watched the casting, in an electrically heated machine, of whole armies of soldiers, including the cavalry. The revival of lead soldier collections is predicted for the boy who is something of a mechanic.

There are any number of construction toys for a boy to make himself, including a steamship that appears to be substantial, regardless of whether it might stay atop a miniature ocean. The mother who fears her small son will make off any moment with the family clock just to see what makes the wheels go round will find the clock a boy can make himself, a useful toy to have around. All the parts are ready to put together, and when it is completed the clock looks something like a grandfather's clock—and really runs.

Animals seem to increase in popularity, especially mohair bears, mother dogs and whole litters of puppies, cinnamon plush bears, elephants, camels with big humps, monkeys with wise expressions, leopards, lions, and plush kittens. There is even a multi-colored plush parrot that jabbers as one gives him a cuff as he sits on his perch.

Ethel Borden and Lady Viola Tree Join Ziegfeld Follies

New York, May 11.—(AP)—Lady Viola Tree and Miss Ethel Borden were signed today to appear in the new edition of Ziegfeld's "Follies." They will be seen in dramatic sketches which they have been playing at private parties given by Mrs. Vincent Astor and other members of New York society. Lady Viola, daughter of Sir Hubert Beerbohm Tree, came here from the London stage several months ago to play with Billie Burke in "The Truth Game." The "Follies" will be Miss Borden's first appearance on the stage.

New Loyalty Seen in Stress of These Times

Gov. Emmerson Declares People Benefit.

Greater sense of responsibility to other persons and to government is growing out of the riot of unrest, the indifference to government, and the selfishness which followed on the heels of the quick tempo of living in the last few years, climaxed by the economic depression.

At least so Gov. Louis L. Emmerson declared yesterday in the principal address at the benefit luncheon given by the Chicago Philanthropic club in the Blackstone hotel. Guests of honor were Gov. Emmerson, President Robert Maynard Hutchins of the University of Chicago, David E. Shanahan, speaker of the house of representatives; Dr. Gerson B. Levi, Dr. Abraham Hirschberg, and Dr. Louis L. Mann, Chicago rabbis; Col. Robert Isham Randolph, Samuel Goldsmith, and Dr. Franklin McLean of the University of Chicago.

"The economic situation is the foremost problem today," Gov. Emmerson declared. "I have no patience with the man who, like an ostrich hiding his head in the sand, refuses to see it. Nor with the man who, seeing, tries to lull the minds of others with empty platitudes. But more reprehensible than either of these is he who magnifies conditions.

"Conditions, however, are definitely on the upgrade at present. They will be reclaimed only when the average person returns to normal saving and normal spending."

The birth of a new attitude of personal responsibility was illustrated by Gov. Emmerson in the citation of the raising of funds for the unemployed.

"We in America have been called jazz crazy and pleasure mad," he said, "yet when this emergency arose people recognized their responsibility. In Cook county, 56 per cent of the funds raised came from the wage earners of the county, who pledged a certain amount to be paid a little at a time. Almost without exception every pledge has been kept."

"United States has been an indifferent nation in many ways," Gov. Emmerson said. "Quick to friendship, quick to rush to the aid of those struck by disaster in far corners of the earth, we were blind to our own problems. We ignored preparedness and paid the price when we rushed green troops to France.

"We were indifferent to crime. We rubbed shoulders with gangsters in night clubs, fostering their existence actually.

"A change has come about," he said. "There has arisen a new sense of personal responsibility. It is echoed in the press in its determined war on gangland. The people are beginning to demand honest officials. A new respect for government is in the process of making."

President Hutchins congratulated the club, which formerly was the Baron Hirsch Women's club, on its long and useful life, and commented on its having made possibde the cardiac clinic of the university.

Proceeds of the luncheon went to the cardiac clinic and the Jewish Home Finding society. Dr. Abram Hirschberg, rabbi of Temple Sholum, presided.

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

THE sort of show that Chicago playgoers have been praying for these last few months—a gay, glittering and abundantly comic musical frolic—has come to the Erlanger theater, bearing a title that describes it neatly: "Fine and Dandy." Here is a perfectly safe bet if you are in search of song-and-dance entertainment — a generous revel, handsomely staged and alertly performed. By way of surprise, one might add, it is clean as well as clever.

The unique comedian named Joe Cook is master of ceremonies and chief clown of this gratifying production, which means that "Fine and Dandy" is full of sly tricks, fantastic contraptions, and all sorts of mechanical drollery. Hanky-pank inventions are his specialty, and the mad devices with which he has embellished this amusement would make a caricaturist's fortune.

If you have never seen this quaint little mummer, you have missed something. He is unlike all the other stellar buffons of the lyric stage; and his physical versatility is amazing. He can do everything, one suspects, except sing a song like Al Jolson and lisp a joke like Ed Wynn. He is veritably a one man circus, and he slides through his elaborate repertory of pranks in an effortless manner that is altogether charming.

"Fine and Dandy" makes Mr. Cook the cut up of a vast manufacturing plant—an appropriate environment for a comedian who specializes in nightmarish gadgets. He is first seen in the overalls of labor, but he is swiftly transformed, through the favor of the matron who owns the factory, into the general manager, and then modern industrialism goes on a rampage of humor.

A score of spirited musical numbers, including some picturesque ballets, are included in the program. When Mr. Cook isn't demonstrating one of his comic strip thingamagigs, the others in the well populated company are singing and dancing and telling the story in a decidedly animated manner. In all departments, "Fine and Dandy" is musical comedy on its best behavior.

An angelic child named Nell O'Day figures vividly in the performance as a toy ingénue. She renews my enthusiasm for the girls who carry the love interest of musical show libretti. When half a dozen dancing men began to toss our Nell around and about and up into the air, in an episode of rapturous gayety, I felt the way I did the first time I saw Julia Sanderson. Alice Boulden is another mentionable, as the girl who does the most serious singing; and a slender, bob haired hoyden named Eleanor Powell gives the first act one of its applauded moments to going into an ecstasy of modern dancing rhythms.

"Fine and Dandy," in short, is exactly that.

Brazil Retaliates Against Germans for Movie Display

PRUSSIAN STATE AND CHURCH SEPARATED BY NEW AGREEMENT

BERLIN, May 11.—(AP)—Representatives of the Prussian state and the Protestant church in Prussia today signed the concordat which has been in preparation for many months. Its most important feature is definite separation of church and state. The agreement must be ratified by the state council. Agitation for this concordat began nearly two years ago when Prussia, which is two-thirds Protestant, concluded a concordat with the Vatican and there arose complaints that the interests of the Protestant majority were being sacrificed for political purposes.

The state subsidy to the Protestant church was fixed at 4,950,000 marks [about $1,188,000] anually, compared with 2,800,000 marks to the Catholic church.

Chicago Stands as City of Art During Jubilee

Displays Its Paintings and Sculptures.

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

THE Chicago Artists' exhibition, in connection with Jubilee week, is being held on the fourth floor of the Palmer house and is a great and glorious occasion. As you walk those long aisles lined with paintings and studded with sculpture you can feel your heart swell to bursting with the knowledge that Chicago artists and Chicago students have done this work which is so good. The exhibition is rich in every and all kinds of painting, except that which is grossly sensual or grossly incompetent. There is clever work here, thoughtful work, beautiful work. It is true that infrequently you will run across a picture not quite up to the standard of what you consider good, but these interruptions are few and perhaps serve to bring out the strength and excellence of neighboring conceptions.

For the first time in the history of Chicago exhibitions, Chicago schools of painting and sculpture are liberally interpreted. Students are found in some of the ablest work on view. The schools include the Hull House art school, the National Academy of Art, the Chicago School of Sculpture, the Art institute art school, the American Academy of Art, the Evanston Academy of Fine Arts, the South Shore Art school, and the Studio School of Art. The Business Men's Art club has a fine showing with "Still Life," by Leo Ruckle, "Spring Chore," by Benjamin F. Olson, and "Mexican Yellowhead," by F. E. Lechler among the best.

Chicago artists, neither students nor amateurs, are broadly represented. Names familiar and names less familiar fill the catalogue. Portraits, landscape, still life, decorative abstractions, nearly every kind of picture may be found. Modernism in agreeable phases rubs shoulders with conservative paintings. The division of sculpture is unusually interesting and complete. All in all, this is a unique exhibition and one well worth seeing. There is an admission fee of fifty cents, not, however demanded of artists or students, and this money will go to help defray the costs of the show.

Among the painters and sculptors who add brilliance to the exhibit are Edward W. Matthews with his "Thunder," Walter Krawiec with "Milk Wagon," Peggie Lovell with "Burlesque," Mary C. Peterson with "The Ginger Jar," Helen Knudson Pearce with "Sketch of John," Pauline Palmer with "The Green Gown," Eve Watson Schutze with "Portrait, Takashi Ohta," James Shields with "Clear Day," George Neville Smith with "Mother Elephant," and John Doctoroff with "Matilda." This is but a scant list of the names that stand for worthwhile work. Lack of space forbids a longer list, but those who see the exhibit will understand the enthusiasm that approves the enterprise and urges all of Chicago to see what art in Chicago is doing.

The exhibit will continue to May 20.

Art Masterpieces on Sale by Soviets in Berlin Today.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, May 11.—One of the world's great art collections, that of Count Alexander Sergejevitch Stroganoff will be sold at auction in Berlin by the soviet government tomorrow and the next day. This collection is by far and wide the finest yet placed on sale by the soviets, and promises to be the most interesting art event of the year. International art dealers and art fans from all parts of the world are expected to attend.

Count Stroganoff lived in the 18th century and was art adviser of Catherine II., the Great, of Russia. His priceless collection was one of the few remaining tokens of the old régime.

Among the pictures to be placed on the auction block are four Van Dycks, one depicting Mayor Rokox of Antwerp, the other is a portrait of a noble Dutch lary with her child. The latter is one of the few larger existing Van Dycks painted on wood.

Rembrandt is represented by a canvas depicting Christ at the well. Other prominent Flemish painters of the 17th century included in the collection are Jacob van Reusdael, Van Goyen, Adrian van de Velde, all represented by landscapes of the very finest quality. Canvasses by Claude of Lorrain and Poussin, leading French painters of the 17th century, owing to their exquisite quality, are expected here to fetch high prices.

Among the 18th century painters' works are some by George Romney, Vigee Lebrun, Greuze, Boucher, and Charles Natoire. The Romney depicting Countess Woronzow and her daughter is considered one of the finest portraits by that English master.

Houdon, 18th century French master sculptor, who made heads of famous Americans, too, leads the list of those included in the collection. Two of his incomparable busts, one of Denis Diderot, encyclopedist, and the other of Voltaire, both friends of Benjamin Franklin, of whom Houdon also made a bust, will be placed on sale. The busts are the most striking likenesses of these great men ever to be admired by art colectors. Works by Falconet, Foucou, and Clodion follow.

New Tactics Are Needed to Keep the Boy Friend Eager

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"I've been going with a certain young man for a long time. I notice that he is getting tired of me more and more, every day. I like him awfully, but it seems that I don't hold the same place with him I used to. He knows I like him and I guess that's what's the matter. I stay home almost every night because he is attending night school, which I would not mind if he only made up for it Saturdays or Sundays.—MAE."

When you have good reason to suspect that your company is not so desirable as it used to be, you've got to figure two things out. Whether it would not be better to be the one to make the break, or whether your company hasn't become dull and if a change of style and attitude might not be more advantageous. That is, whether it is good business to keep on sitting home, night after night, and brooding over the calls that don't come. That makes Jill a dull girl to a man who has grown used to her conversation and general outlook over a period of years. It may be that you need to inject some new life into this girl, who has become more or less of a habit, just by way of inspiring interest.

When a girl sits down, evening after evening, and broods over the wrong treatment she's getting, or thinks she's getting, she's bound to become a cheerless companion to the cause of all this brooding. She may, indeed, become that worst of all menaces to herself—a nagger, one who's always asking, "Why don't you call me up?" "Why don't you come to see me?" etc. And that's the fatal note to introduce into a long time companionship.

My advice, "Mae," would be to take yourself in hand and do something to make a new Mae to attract the boy again. It may be necessary to court other men's interest. Anyway, court some kind of interest to keep your mind engrossed and yourself active.

It may just be that laziness is back of your clinging to this particular boy. Or, habit, with you, too. But whatever you do, keep yourself free from attacks of "he-ain't-doing-right-by-me-blues." That gets a girl nowhere.

DORIS BLAKE ANSWERS

Unemployment Problem.

Dear Miss Blake: I like a girl but at present I am unemployed. Do you think it would be all right to ask her out now? JIMMIE."

It's rather unwise to deplete the "reserve fund," don't you think? Why not wait until you find employment, or explain the situation and defer entertainment until you are working again.

He Wouldn't Hesitate.

"Dear Miss Blake: The fellow I like was a few steps away from me. Should I have walked over to him or should he have walked over to me? ANN."

If he saw you and wanted to talk to you, he wouldn't hesitate to walk over to where you were standing, dear.

Parents Urged to Take a Sensible View of College

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

To many fathers, sons, mothers, and daughters, "Shall college come next?" or "Which college shall it be?" is the burning question as the high school or preparatory school year draws to a close.

There are many, many sides to this question of college and whether it is to be or not to be for our children. If we are to be wise we must take from the bridge of our parental nose not only the rose colored glasses that glorify a college education and its special contacts and athletics, but also the be-littlin' specs that minimize the value of a college education.

Once having made the decision for or against it, we must not feel even then that it is a life sentence for our son or daughter. Because one year at college may make a person realize that it is not what he or she wants. This has been the case with many a person who has found happiness and success after leaving college at the end of his freshman or sophomore or even junior year. Some of the these students have been the highly gifted, or the geniuses—some have not. But we want to keep in mind that these decisions are not irrevocable for four years — college isn't like a judge's sentence.

The same fact holds true if the decision is made against college. A year out in the world after high or prep school does not make it impossible for a young man or woman to change his or her mind and go to college the following year. I know several boys and one or two girls who have put through their college work and secured their degrees with several lapses of time in the process.

New Wool Suits Use Eyelet Embroidery

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—One of the prettiest tricks invented by the Paris mode is the use of eyelet embroidery on wool costumes. It gives a lightness and gayety to the wool suit that makes it at least 100 per cent more becoming, without, however, making it fussy or too dressy in effect.

There are lots of girls who definitely do not look their best in a tailored suit, and yet a suit is just about a fashionable necessity this spring. For such the eyelet embroidered suit seems tout indiqué, as the French say, which in free translation means just the thing.

One of them is sketched herewith. It's made of a soft, rather shaggy surfaced woolen in her dark slate blue. The hip length jacket is cut kimono and flares a bit from the armpits. It makes no effort to meet in front. Its girlish Buster Brown collar is scalloped round the edge and embroidered with eyelet daisies, and so are the cuffs. It is embroidered with the eyelet daisies from its scalloped edge almost to the waist line.

FARM AND GARDEN BY PAUL POTTER

HERBS IN THE GARDEN.

With specialization becoming popular in the home garden, many amateurs have set aside portions of their yards for types such as rock gardens, water pools, formal settings and rose gardens. One of the newest suggestions for modernism is to cultivate a portion of the back or side yard in a herb garden, old-fashioned enough to be new.

Attractiveness as well as utility can be obtained with herbs. They can be protected by hedges, if it is desired to have them set apart from other more floral portions of the yard.

Selection of plants can aid the housewife in her culinary arts. The herbs falling into the seasoning class include the annuals—anise, sweet basil, borage, caraway, coriander, cumin, dill, safron, sorrel, peppergrass and thyme. Among the perennials are the sweet fennel, mints, rue, sage, summer and winter savory, sweet marjoram and parsley.

Then there are the medicinal herbs which can be used to add to stores in the kitchen cupboard. Pennyroyal, camomile, horehound, peppermint, wormwood, tansy and catnip are in this class.

A spot near the kitchen door or near the vegetable garden is recommended. The soil should be quite rich and well prepared, raked fine before any seed is planted. Seeds can be planted as one would vegetables, covered lightly and sprinkled with a fine spray. Covering with glass to prevent rapid evaporation of the moisture often hastens growth and results in a more uniform germination of the seed.

Beware of Blues, in Color Chart, if You're a Pale Blond

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Yesterday we talked about the danger of dead, hard white close to the skin, eyes and hair, as worn in a hat or dress. Now, blue is having a wide fun this spring, too. And for a great number of women blue proves a most flattering color. But this year there are blues that are not becoming to lots of us. They're becoming to the women that were in mind when the particular shade was produced. I'm thinking of some of the very bright, dark blues.

When I was young and guileless there was a shade known as royal blue. As well as I can recall, I see the strain of heredity in some of these new blues. They're the startling blues that hit you almost squarely in the eye and make you think. Then, when you get to looking at the lady surrounded by this particular blue sea you feel that she's been almost faded out by all the blue-ing.

Those brilliant blues of which I speak, kin to the old royal blues, are grand on a vital, colorful person—one with enough of her own to withstand any competition. But on a dullish blond with dyes not too warm in tone, they're positively deadly, unless one's ambition is to blot herself out and let the suit, dress and hat do the talking.

It's curious, the effect of some of these blues on the skin. The blues with an intense bleu in them or a purplish tone will intensify the fioridity of a slightly fiorid skin. They'll put red [not the wanted kind] into a skin that is not florid. On the other hand, the blues with an ever so slight grayish cast in them will intensify the blueness of a blue or grayish blue eye and do flattering things to the skin, as a rule.

Then, there are some of the pastel blues that are inducted into summery things, not the spring clothes blues I've been just talking about. They're like whits in that they need a warm personality to carry them; that is, one with definite toned hair and eyes, and a live, young quality to hair and eyes and skin. Otherwise, they may be "graying" in effect.

King and Queen Cheered at Theater; Chaplin Sends Check

LONDON, May 11.—(AP)—King George and Queen Mary were given an ovation tonight when they attended the annual royal command performance at the Palladium theater for the benefit of the Variety Artists' Benevolent institution.

The entertainment was the one in which Charlie Chaplin had been invited—or "commanded"—to participate. He declined, but sent a check. The film comedian later said he had received no command from the king, but merely a request from a music hall manager to appear at a charity show.

The king made his first public appearance tonight since recovering from his recent attack of bronchitis. Fine weather made it possible for him to go to the theater.

He wore an opera cloak over evening clothes. The queen wore a long coat of gold colored material, trimmed with fur.

BOYS' CLUB BENEFIT CONCERT GETS HAND AT ORCHESTRA HALL

Most of the possible patrons were on the street, but enough were diverted into Orchestra hall to make a very respectable audience for the Chicago Boys' club benefit concert last night. Considering all circumstances it was surprising that either participants or audience were able to put in an appearance, but a large band and a large chorus arrived on time, and if some of the patrons were delayed, they finally got there.

The music makers were a boys' band and a chorus, both sponsored by the Lyon & Healy division for the advancement of music. Advancement of music, however, took a secondary place, for the principal object of the concert was to turn over some money to bring to the underprivileged boys of the city some of the musical and educational advantages that they might not otherwise receive.

Wherefore the band, under the direction of Alfred Van Voorst, blew its lustiest, and the chorus, directed by Harry T. Carlso, sang first the "Song of the Marching Men," from Henry Hadley's "The New Earth," and later a concert version of part of "Faust." The assisting artists were Mina Hager, mezzo-soprano of great gifts, and Joseph Rosenstein, a highly talented young violinist, both of whom appeared in solo groups. For the "Faust" performance the soloists were Ruth Lyon, Lillian Knowles, Edwin Kemp, and Mark Love. E. M.

Body of Michelson Will Be Buried in Grave at Altadena

Pasadena, Cal., May 11.—(AP)—The body of Dr. Albert A. Michelson, who died here Saturday, will be buried at Mountain View cemetery, Altadena, late Tuesday or Wednesday under plans subject to change after arrival of two daughters who are en route here.

The daughters are Mrs. Philip Mather of Chicago and Mrs. Festus Foster of Dahlgreen, Va.

Services attended only by members of the family and possibly a few friends will be held at the modest residence where the famed physicist practically completed work supplementing his prior computation of the speed of light.

Services will be in charge of Dr. Theodore G. Soares, pastor of the Union Liberal [Neighborhood] church. At the residence today it was said that "no press notices of Dr. Michelson's funeral are desired."

Reports that the body might be cremated could not be confirmed. Definite decision had been made, however, that the body would not be taken to Chicago, where Dr. Michelson formerly was head of the physics department of the University of Chicago.

Food Talk.

Mrs. A. S. writes: "Won't you please discuss the making of jelly roll some time. I have an excellent recipe, my cake bakes nicely, but I have trouble in getting it out of the pan."

Jelly roll is made from a sponge cake dough, but it is not baked like a sponge cake. In the first place the dough is spread out in a thin layer and it must be baked in such a way that the cake can be removed from the pan while it is warm, and rolled up while it is still pliable. For this reason it is necessary to bake the cake in a greased pan. The greased pan may be dusted over lightly with a mixture of an equal quantity of sugar and flour, or it may be left a plain buttered surface. The flour-sugar lining of the pan gives a rougher crust which is attractive in appearance. Where the batter is spread out thinly on a baking sheet the weight of the cake is not great enough to need the support of the rough surfaced sides of the pan. A smooth textured crust that is produced in an oiled pan is nice on which to spread the jelly.

I like to bake jelly roll on a shallow biscuit sheet. The dough should not be spread too near the open side of the sheet or it will run off the edge. Spread the batter on quickly, then place in the oven. An oven a little hotter than that required for loaf sponge cake is essential. A jelly cake needs a browner crust than a loaf sponge cake to be most appetizing. And the higher temperature prevents the thin sheet from drying out too much. The cake needs to be moist to roll up best. It requires about 18 to 20 minutes of baking in a moderate oven [350 degrees F.]. Just as soon as the roll is done remove it from the oven, but leave it in the pan in a warm corner near the stove for two or three minutes to shrink, after which it should slip from the pan easily.

Turn the roll out on to a clean cloth and quickly trim off the crisp outer edges evenly. Have the jelly or filling all ready to spread on. Spread quite generously but evenly over the bottom surface of the cake and roll up as tightly as you can while the cake is still warm. Wrap the cloth around the roll to hold the shape, and when the roll becomes cool remove the cloth and place the roll in a cake box.

Many types of jellies may be used to make the roll. A tart red jelly is a favorite, and there is none better than red currant, red plum, or rose colored apple. However, a lemon or orange jelly filling is always welcomed.

LEMON BUTTER FILLING.

2 eggs — Juice of 2 small lemons
1 cup sugar
2 tbsp. butter

Beat the eggs and sugar together. Add butter, then the grated rind and juice of the lemons. Bring to the boiling point and cook until thick, stirring constantly. Cook in a double boiler. Cool before spreading.

STUFFED TOMATO.

6 ripe tomatoes — 1 tbsp. vinegar
1 lb. tuna fish — 1 cup chopped celery
2 tbsp. oil — Mayonnaise

Peel and remove a thin slice from the top of each tomato. Take out the seeds and some of the pulp. Sprinkle inside with salt. Invert and let stand 30 minutes. Remove any bones that may be in the fish and pick into flakes. Turn over in the oil mixed with vinegar and set away in a cold place. When about to serve, chop the celery and add to the fish. Fill the salad into the scooped out tomatoes and put a spoonful of mayonnaise on the top of each.

Hoover Is Invited for Y.M.C.A.'s National Session

Washington, D. C., May 11.—(AP)—John R. Mott, president of the world congress of the Young Men's Christian association, today invited President Hoover to attend the meeting at Cleveland, O., in August.

CONSIDER WHAT HAPPENS'

BEHIND YOUR FACE!

Faces are not the only things being relentlessly exposed by the abbreviated new hats. The back of the neck has come into full view. As high winter collars and furs gave way to spring neck lines this became only too apparent. Indeed there is more than one way of risking your precious neck this season!

Don't do it. Put yourself at once in the hands of Elizabeth Arden who will see to it that every added inch of exposed throat or neck is added loveliness. Miss Arden can transform even backs-of-necks (usually so awkward) into something quite special and nice.

Neck and shoulder exercises, massage, bleaching and softening treatments, will work wonders... provided they are accomplished under the expert guidance of Miss Arden's trained assistants.

Don't wait for the summer season to surprise and embarrass you. Start now to have the simple care that will prepare you for the most revealing of hats, or frocks.

Visit Miss Arden's Salon and be advised by one of her Personal Assistants as to the special care your own skin and throat should have. For an appointment at the hour you prefer, please telephone Superior 6952.

Montana Woman Lost 17 Pounds Weight In 4 Weeks

Here's a letter written October 21, 1929, by Mrs. Fred Barringer of Lewistown, Montana, that ought to be read by every overweight woman in America.

When stout women can lose fat and at the same time gain in energy and vigor.

Gain in charm and vivaciousness.

Gain a healthy complexion and have eyes that sparkle with buoyant health.

And at insignificant cost—isn't it time to use common sense?

Please read this letter carefully:

"Gentlemen: I started taking Kruschen every morning as directed as I was very much overweight and wanted to reduce.

"I had tried going on a diet but would get so hungry that my diet would not last long, so I decided to give 'Kruschen Salts' a fair trial. The day I started to take them I weighed 256 lbs. and at present, which has been just four weeks, I weigh 239 lbs. And I must say, I feel better in every way, besides looking much better.

"May all large people, both men and women, who want to reduce in an easy way, give Kruschen Salts a fair trial. Just try one bottle and by following directions, I am sure it will convince any one. I bought my second bottle today."

A bottle of Kruschen Salts that lasts four weeks costs but 85c at any drugstore in America.

For Health's Sake Use Kleenex

Each tissue is destroyed after one use... germs are never carried back to your face

USE Kleenex instead of handkerchiefs. That's the advice of medical science today. Take no chances with dangerous self-infection. Use a handkerchief you can destroy.

Kleenex is a soft, absorbent tissue. The size of a handkerchief. So inexpensive it is used just once, then destroyed. With it go countless germs. The germs that cause self-infection when carried back to the nose and mouth. The germs that may lead to serious diseases.

By using Kleenex instead of handkerchiefs you avoid this danger. Each time you select a new tissue—exquisitely clean and fresh. Softer than the oldest linen.

Costs less than laundering

The use of Kleenex does away with the unpleasant job of washing handkerchiefs. Surprisingly inexpensive, too. Kleenex actually costs less than commercial laundering of handkerchiefs.

Soothing Kleenex tissues are ideal for children. Office workers find it handy to keep a box in the desk. For use during colds and hay fever. Try Kleenex just once, and the old-time handkerchief will seem impossible.

To remove cold cream

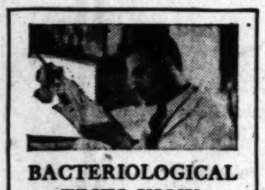
Beauty experts advise Kleenex for removing cold cream and cosmetics. So absorbent, it makes rubbing and stretching of the skin unnecessary. Many women also find Kleenex invaluable for manicuring, for use in the nursery, for dusting, applying medicines, etc.

Kleenex comes in a smart, modern, dust-proof box that automatically hands out the tissues, as you need them. Buy a package today at your drug, dry goods or department store. 25 cents, 50 cents and $1.



BACTERIOLOGICAL TESTS SHOW:

1. That handkerchiefs used by persons having colds may contain as many as 4,170,000 germs per handkerchief. The types of organisms in the enumeration are those known to be associated with colds.
2. That organisms representative of those associated with colds, when rinsed in boiling water and/or soap water, were found not to be killed or appreciably inhibited from growing.

By Alice Campbell

SYNOPSIS.

Clare, fifteen year old daughter of Iris de Bertincourt, disappears mysteriously. She and her mother lived in a remote section of Paris. Clare attended a school play one evening and was brought home by friends. Her mother heard the car stop in front of the house and Clare's friends bidding her good night, but when she opened the door Clare had vanished.

Iris has been separated for years from her husband, Marcel de Bertincourt, a man of great charm, but no moral sense. They are cousins and the possible heirs of their Aunt Victoire, the Comtesse de Castelmaurou, who has ruled Iris' life until recently, when Iris found employment with Helen Roderick, an American woman.

Iris planned to divorce her husband and marry Maj. Alan Charnwood. Charnwood was about to depart on an eight months' trip to Africa when Clare disappeared, and he has postponed his trip to help Iris.

When the comtesse learns of her niece's disappearance she insists that Iris come to her home to stay until Clare is found. Iris learns when she arrives at her aunt's that her husband is already domiciled there. He seems to have changed in character, and has taken charge of the search for Clare. He has been seeing Clare, unknown to her mother, for some time past, and knows more about the child's life and her friends than Iris. The comtesse is bent on reconciling the estranged couple.

Alan calls on Helen Roderick and learns that she and Marcel are friends, unknown to Iris. When Alan calls on Iris the comtesse refuses to allow him to see her. As he leaves the house a servant approaches him and directs him to enter a door to his left. Iris had seen him and sent for him. She tells him that her aunt is doing all in her power to help her and that she must not offend her.

INSTALLMENT XX.

A SURPRISING RECOGNITION.

Charnwood studied her closely, scenting in her manner a real, if secondary distress. A twinge of jealousy shot through him.

"How did you feel when you saw him?" he asked.

"Feel?" Iris sounded vague. "I have no feelings of any kind apart from unhappiness. It was a shock, of course. I had come to think of him as so wholly separate from Clare and me . . . Only now I ask myself if having made one's life, one has the choice of remaking it—if it affects others, that is. O, I don't know what I mean!"

"Iris, my child! Please, please!"

He could not question her further. He saw that her love for him was in a state of suspended animation, like something embedded in a block of ice. Still this cropping up of de Bertincourt struck him as an ill omen. Disturbing fancies thronged his head as he soothed her, pressing his lips on her forehead.

Like this they remained for an interval. The candles flickered in the darkening room, the ticking of a clock measured the passing minutes.

All at once a slight sound came from the neighboring room. Iris's quick ears caught it first. She shrank from his touch as though it scorched her, springing up with a finger to her lips.

"Who was that?"

She shook her head, enjoining silence. His glance following hers to the doorway was in time to see the curtain sway as though stirred by an unseen hand. Faint tip-toeing steps receded, a door in the distance was heard to close.

"But I shall see you soon? You'll send me word through Helen?."

They exchanged looks of question.

"I couldn't see," she whispered nervously. "But I'm sure some one looked in on us. Probably a servant. You'd better go, now. Not that way. Look, I'll show you."

She pushed him hurriedly into a passage which led to a paneled lobby opposite the logs. Even here, with no chance of being overlooked, she half drew back when he stooped to kiss her.

"No, no, I daren't! You see what it's like, that I have no privacy whatever."

"But I shall see you soon? You'll send me word through Helen?"

"Yes, I promise. Only don't come here again. It can only make trouble."

So saying, she shut the door on him. He found himself in the court close to the gates, with the dusk about him and street lights twinkling palely. He let himself out, but just as he was congratulating himself that the concierge had not seen him, the corner of a blind was drawn aside and the man's wife peered through.

Spied on!

That was the long and short of it. At the moment he would not have trusted one sole appendage to the comtesse's establishment, and glad as he was at having spoken to Iris, held her in his arms, it galled him inexpressibly to see her reduced to a state of supervision, even bondage. He was just beginning to appreciate the sort of life she had escaped and that she had been forced to revert, even for a short time, to the old conditions made him fume with anger.

Bad as this was, it was worse still to contemplate her renewed association with the husband she wished to cast off. Or rather, what was now causing him consternation was the feeling that perhaps, after all this, she would not be so anxious to cast him off. Suppose he made overtures? Helen Roderick had declared him to be full of remorse for his conduct. Already Iris showed signs of tolerance, a readiness to make excuses, her heart touched by his fondness for Clare. Would her forgiveness go further?

Bitterly he reflected that the one event calculated to bring about an amnesty had befallen them; out of her bag of tricks, Fate had chosen the very scurviest.

As he quitted the narrow street and swung along the Boulevard Raspail towards the river, the longing to talk this over with some one grew strong upon him. But who was there in whom he could confide? His one close friend, a journalist—Thomas Burke Rostetter by name—was at this moment in Portugal collecting copy for a grand coup. Charnwood had called at his flat on Monday and learned of his absence. The other people he knew in Paris were comparative strangers. One couldn't go noising intimate matters about to them.

Of course, there was Helen Roderick. She was a good sort, and moreover, in touch with the situation. He decided to drop in on the chance of finding her alone, 7 o'clock being a likely time.

However, when he was shown into the big room overlooking the Quai Voltaire he was disappointed to see that Miss Roderick had a visitor. She was standing before the fireplace in earnest conversation with a man whose back was towards the door. The glow from the red coals lit up her strong features and the iron gray hair sweeping off her forehead in firm moulded waves. Two empty cocktail glasses rested on the mantlepiece, a trail of cigaret smoke hung suspended in mid air.

"Monsieur Shairnwood," announced the bonne.

Miss Roderick jumped as though shot. Charnwood saw her prominent eyes widen, her chin drop. Then, with a little astonished laugh, she threw her cigaret into the fire and came to greet him, her companion meanwhile moving quietly over to the distant table to pick up his hat and gloves.

"You!" she cried in brisk welcome. "How nice of you to turn up! You're in good time for a cocktail. Martini, or sidecar?"

Her hard handshake did its best to hide her embarrassment. He was at a loss to understand why she looked at him so strangely, or why she should cast a fleeting glance in the other man's direction. However, in an instant all was made clear.

"Maj. Charnwood," she said with an air of frankly facing a trying moment, "allow me to introduce a very dear friend of mine, Monsieur Marcel de Bertincourt."

So that was it!

Charnwood had an impression of an upright, immaculately attired figure, slightly under his own height, a skin pale but unlined, good features, and a pair of arresting eyes, round, with thick, dark lashes turned out and upward. The unlit room obscured all this a little, but the low voice chained Charnwood's attention. Not wishing to stare, he stood aside while the other made his adieux.

"Au revoir, dear Helen, and many thanks for your sympathy. If anything develops I shall let you know immediately." He touched her hand with a gesture of restrained comradeship.

At the door he turned to bow again and then in the full glare of the hall light his eyes met Charnwood's, and something surprising took place. Neither man moved a muscle or gave the least start of astonishment, yet in a flash Charnwood knew that he had seen de Bertincourt before and that the recognition was mutual.

"Good God!" was his inner comment as the door quietly closed. "So that is Iris's husband——"

Aloud Charnwood uttered the same thought, slapping his thigh softly. "So that's de Bertincourt!" he exclaimed. "How amazingly odd!"

Whites, Dashes of Color, Mark Summer Style

New York, May 11.—(AP)—A white summer is the prediction of the fashion experts. White is the basic note of the season and will be worn alone or with splashes of gay color.

One of the most acceptable outfits of the summer showings offered by Fifth avenue shops is the street and sports suit of white linen, corduroy, piquet, and flannel.

White jersey bathing suits, their severity relieved by triangular inserts of pin tucked material, are the newest notes in beach wear. Green yellow, blue and red bathing slippers, caps and bags are bright accessories which add chic.

A golfing outfit consists of a white corduroy skirt, fitted tightly around the hips and flared below the knees, a tailored blouse of soft white cotton mesh and a string turban of chalky white. One piece tennis frocks of cotton or silk worn with colored belts, French print kerchiefs tied triangularly over one shoulder and soft scarfs wound Lenglen fashion about the head are also popular.

White duck or jersey sailing pants worn with short sleeved jumper shirts of blue and white, red and white, or black and white striped jersey will be one of the picturesque costumes of the swanky yachting party.

White is still the prima donna of the evening. Suave gowns of lustrous satin and sheer chiffon molded closely to the figure, but emphasizing a graceful, flowing fullness below the hips, are important features of the formal summer attire. Red in a variety of exciting shades, lime and pistachio greens, lemon yellow and a number of berry and brown shades are used to enliven the ensemble.

The use of color generally is effected in the addition of two color sashes, with romantic bows and ends trailing to the hem, or in narrow patent leather belts and tailored patent leather flowers. One black chiffon evening gown displays a gardenia white patent belt and white flowers.

Shoulder jacquets, brief eccentricities of color in taffeta, satin, and chiffon velvet are vivid compliments to the ensemble blanc. The hip length jacket of linen and flannel in red, green, and French horizon blue also will provide the necessary color note on the play courts of the country.

Strangely enough the traditional white of the wedding gown is giving way to color.

Fifth avenue trousseau salons are coming forth with bridal outfits in palest blue, the most delicate pink, even soft biege. The idea, as most style ideas do, originated at a famous Parisian wedding recently. The veil, the long elbow length kid gloves, the slippers, hosiery and all, were of tinted stuffs.

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

Steno's Contrast in Color.

One day I found myself alone in the office and started applying lipstick to my lips. The phone rang and, as there was no one else to answer it in that room but myself, I picked up the receiver. At that moment my employer walked in and sat down at his desk opposite me.

When I finished talking I noticed the boss had a wicked smirk on his face. Then it dawned on me that I hadn't finished applying my lipstick, and when I looked in the mirror I saw one-half of my mouth a vivid red in comparison with the dull side and found myself in an unexplainable situation. D. M.

ASK FUNDS TO SURVEY NEEDS OF MEDIC CENTER

The county board was asked yesterday to appropriate $25,000 to finance a technical survey as a preliminary to the establishment of the proposed medical center in the vicinity of the county hospital. The matter was referred to the finance committee.

The appropriation was recommended by the citizens' survey commission appointed by Mayor Cermak in 1928 while he was president of the county board. The group is headed by Col. A. A. Sprague, commissioner of public works.

The commission suggests that the survey, which would include a study of the lands and buildings needed for the medical center and the methods of acquiring the land, be made by the Chicago Plan commission. The acquisition of land presents a problem in as much as condemnation proceedings are not permissible, as most of the property will be used by private corporations.

BEGIN TO BUILD FIRST SEADROME IN TWO WEEKS

Boston, Mass., May 11.—[Special.]—Construction of the first trans-Atlantic seadrome, which will make Boston the principal aviation point in the whole system of eight seadromes spanning the ocean between the United States and Europe, will be begun in two weeks, it was announced here today by Edward R. Armstrong, president of the Armstrong Seadrome Development company and inventor of the Armstrong seadrome.

The first drome, which will be called Langley, will be built in Delaware bay and towed to permanent location, about 200 miles south of Nantucket, next spring. Its location, which has already been surveyed and approved by navy officials, will be fifty miles nearer Boston than New York.

Mr. Armstrong said that if the air port at Boston is completed when the trans-Atlantic system is inaugurated in 1933, this city will be the principal link in the chain.

The seadromes will cost the company $4,000,000 each, the whole system costing less than the average first rate steamship now afloat.

TEN HURT, HOMES DAMAGED BY QUAKE IN ITALY

MELFI, Italy, May 11.—(AP)—Ten persons were injured and hundreds of houses damaged here yesterday as the result of an earthquake which was felt over a wide area corresponding roughly to the district devastated in the same manner last summer.

Another shock was felt this afternoon, but aside from adding to the panic of the populace it caused no damage. Yesterday's shocks were also felt at Varile, Rapolla, Svonoso, Aelia, Escopano, Sangervasio, and Pinazola.

The famous chapel of Melfi, built by Emperor Frederick II., in the 13th century and partly wrecked in last year's quake, was not harmed. Shockproof buildings constructed by the government after the catastrophe also were unscathed. The injuries were caused by a crowd of worshipers attempting to flee from the church at the time of the shocks. Inasmuch as the main door has been closed since last summer they crowded through a small temporary exit and some were trampled.

AMERICAN, FRENCH BOXERS READY FOR BATTLE

EASTERN TURF STARS REACH DERBY SCENE

Twenty Grand Keeps Place as Favorite.

BY FRENCH LANE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Louisville, Ky., May 11.—The big Derby train wheeled in from the east today after noon today and when Mr. Twenty Grand, Equipoise, Ladas, Sir Board and Anchors Aweigh stood off the cars they had the ear in the early Derby throng popped.

Kentuckians never believed the day would come when a shipment of thoroughbred horseflesh into this state could cause any unusual excitement, but the Kentuckians, as well as everybody else at Churchill Downs, displayed considerable flurry when this mighty Derby threat came to town last Saturday.

It must have been a happy jaunt for the easterners. Each colt dropped off the cars looking fresh and ready to run. The eastern trainers who came along declared horses never stepped better anywhere than did these colts, which threaten to make a clean sweep of the prizes offered in the final renewal of the Derby on Saturday afternoon.

Bred in Kentucky.

The only solace Kentuckians could get out of such an invasion was the thought that most of the star eastern three year olds were bred and foaled in old Kentucky.

While the eastern horses were passing proudly off their cars and parading to the stalls prepared hours in advance the hopeful, yet dubious, native owners were entering a half dozen colts for the Derby trial at a mile and a sixteenth which is to be run tomorrow's fifth race.

But the trial may not prove anything for two of the leading western Derby candidates were not named for the race. These missing are Inscoda and Jim Dandy. A half dozen expected to start in the trial are Sweep All, Gusty Play, Major Lanphier, Prince Grason, The Mongol, and Pittsmaster.

Hale's Trainer Confident.

The happiest member of the eastern party was naturally Jim Healy, the trainer of Hale. "We beat 'em all in the Preakness and I can see no reason why we can't do it in the Derby," Healy said. "Hale will be better in the Derby than he was in the Preakness and we fear no man's horse."

James Rowe Jr., while of the opinion Twenty Grand took the worst of the racing luck in the Preakness was visibly worried over the Derby outcome and gave out the word soon after he arrived that all three of the Mrs. Payne Whitney Derby charges will be at the post.

Jim Dandy scored Earl Steffan, conditioner for the John Hertz stable, a ride Archer's Aweigh. Kurtsinger will have the leg up on Twenty Grand and Percy McAtee will ride Surf Board. But to fill his Derby engagement McAtee will have to make the trip from New York to Churchill Downs by airplane, as he will ride in a stake race in New York on Friday afternoon.

Says Equipoise Sulked.

Trainer Fred Hopkins, who trains Equipoise, was none too certain of a Derby victory, although he believed Equipoise will run a better race in

Cubs Take Another Rest and Ponder Those Missing Hits

BY EDWARD BURNS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 11.—Temperature of 52 degrees and the fact that it was Monday, poorest turnstile day of the week under any condition, caused the New York Giants' management to postpone today's schedule contest with the Cubs, despite many indications that playing would mean another victory for the Gotham lads.

Though the sun was shining, it failed to warm either the atmosphere or the hearts of the disconsolate Cubs. Moreover, the postponement gave the boys a chance to reflect on the sad status of their batting averages, to say nothing of the team's plunk into fourth place in the National league standings.

HACK WILSON.

Wild Rumors Fly.

The monotony of the eighth day off of the season was broken somewhat by a game of button, button, who's got the button relative to the reported benching of Hack Wilson, Gabby Hartnett and others of the Cub staff, in which Manager Hornsby was given a merry half day by interviewers. It seems that some of the interviewers understood Rog to say that Hack and Gabby were to be removed from the panorama and might be cast in irons. Then other interviewers came along and heard Rogers say that Hack would not leave the lineup but might go to left field because Johnny Moore likes to play center field better than left, and that Gabby was pretty tired but could keep on catching if he felt like it.

Before dusk the whole plot was a jumble of talk about left handed and right handed enemy pitchers, strategy, a statement by Hack in which he said he thinks Rog is a swell fellow, a few mystery telephone calls from Chicago and a run by the fire department right past the Cub hotel.

The net of the whole frenzied afternoon was that tomorrow afternoon Hack Wilson will play center field, Riggs Stephenson will play left field, Hartnett will catch, Hornsby will return to second base, if physically able, and Bill Jurges will play the position if Rog isn't able. And with Bob Smith pitching the entire personnel is looking for a win by the Cubs and hoping for a loss by Boston to Cincinnati, which will put the Cubs back in third place.

Four Hits in Two Games.

Four hits in each of two games against the Giants did not serve to give the Cubs a moment of happiness and the rumors of widespread personnel shakeups brought fear and trembling to several prima donnas.

That you may see how helpless these so-called regulars have been against the first class curve ball pitching offered by St. Louis and New York to date the following table is presented:

| | AB. | H. | B. Avg. |
|---|---|---|---|
| Cuyler | 29 | 7 | .250 |
| English | 31 | 8 | .259 |
| Hornsby | 26 | 6 | .192 |
| Wilson | 32 | 9 | .281 |
| Stephenson | 25 | 3 | .120 |
| Hartnett | 29 | 5 | .172 |
| Bell | 30 | 7 | .233 |
| Grimm | 26 | 7 | .269 |

The Cubs on Wednesday will move over to Brooklyn for three games and the park there has a short right field fence that always has been a great inspiration to Hack.

After the Brooklyn series the Cubs go to Philadelphia, where the right field fence is a delight to all fellows who can hit in that direction—a fence that is 40 feet, six inches closer to the home plate than the screen at Wrigley field.

RAIN HALTS SOX, YANKS IN FINAL; A'S HERE TODAY

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

The White Sox are likely to play a ball game any day now. They've been idle three afternoons out of the last four, but haven't abandoned hope that the weather man, sooner or later, is going to get over the idea that the town needs rainfall above all else.

If conditions are favorable, the Pale Hose will be ready to go to work this afternoon, but they won't have the Yanks for company. The latter, more or less disgusted over being able to meet the Sox only once while crippled, moved out of the city yesterday as soon as the Comiskey park officials discovered the field was too heavy for the bric-a-brac athletes. In the Yanks' place will be the world's champion Athletics, who are reported to be quite confident of conquering the jinx that is supposed to bar the path to anybody seeking three pennants in a row.

While in St. Louis the A's encountered weather entanglements similar to those which kept the Sox and Yanks indoors, so Mr. Mack, the Philadelphia dictator, should be well fixed for pitchers during his three days here.

Pat Caraway, whose funny way of delivering the ball, causes hostile hitters much annoyance, is going to serve for the Pale Hose cause in the opener. Pat is the only one of Bush's hurlers who has been good enough to start in all except one series to date and the only reason he missed the one was that rain washed away his opportunity. Moreover, he owns the choicest record of any member of the staff. He has won three and lost one, the latter being one of those games tossed away last week when the Sox were in the midst of their memorable but losing fight against popups.

Before the Athletics get out of town they probably will be given a chance to pass judgment on the skill of Tommy Thomas, who in his better days could bump off the Macks as easily as any other team. Thomas has made six starts this season and in five of these was blown off the rubber in a hurry. In the other he hurled a shutout which was accepted as a positive return to form, but he followed it up with removals Nos. 4 and 5. But if he can stop the Mack sluggers, it will be a pretty fair sign that he will get going in earnest before many more days.

Golden Gloves Bouts Prove Sportsmanship No Mere Word

BY ARCH WARD.

The largest crowd that ever has seen an amateur boxing match will be banked around the ring at Soldiers' field tonight to watch the national amateur champions of France match fistic skill with the Golden Gloves winners of America.

Nobody on this side of the Atlantic had heard of Laudrin, Elyas or the other boys who will wear the tri-color of France tonight until THE TRIBUNE arranged to bring them to America. Probably not more than a few hundred could tell you the names of the members of the American team.

Still these comparatively unknown boys will draw the largest boxing throng Chicago has had since the night Tunney beat Dempsey.

Sixteen Champions Battle.

Why? Because the fans know they will see 16 courageous young men—eight Americans and eight Frenchmen—battle their hearts out to uphold the fistic prestige of their country. Whether there are 30,000 or 100,000 in the stands makes no difference. The work of Golden Glove fighters doesn't fluctuate with the size of the gate. None of them receives a penny for his services. They are in the tournament for the fun they can get out of it.

The idea of playing games just for fun has taken vigorous root in the United States. The notion was born and nurtured in the schools and colleges of England, France and other European countries not so many hundred years ago. The Greeks, of course, had their ancient athletic competitions, but their games would mean little to moderns had not later European sport traditions prepared men for the Olympic revival. During the middle ages people forgot how to play. They said it with lances when steel or brass trousers and vests were in style.

Boys who take part in Golden Gloves tournaments and in other amateur sports competition learn to accept defeat without humiliation or victory without gloating. In a word, they find out the meaning of sportsmanship. That is why THE TRIBUNE believes it is well worth while to bring a group of boys across the ocean to meet another group in friendly competition. If Golden Gloves sportsmanship is good for Chicago, New York, and America, it is good for Paris, France, and Europe.

Sportsmanship Is a Philosophy.

Sportsmanship is more than a word to be bandied about by college cheer leaders and after dinner speakers. It is a philosophy of living, a corollary of the Golden Rule. You want to play your best; hence you take no advantage that will prevent the other fellow from doing the same. You respect him as you want him to respect you. You give and take on a 50-50 basis. You play the game, and when it is over there are no excuses.

The Golden Gloves tournament has brought out some striking incidents of sportsmanship. Last March, when the champions of fifteen out of town centers came to Chicago to meet the survivors of the metropolitan district elimination rounds, a Chicago featherweight named Joey Klekо had to enter the semi-final bout with a deep cut over his eye. A less courageous athlete would have refused to carry on. A hard wallop on the sore spot would end his chance of winning a championship then and there. His opponent was Don Gonzales of Cleveland, who will be America's representative in the 126 pound division tonight.

Before leaving the dressing room to enter the ring Gonzales remarked to his trainer: "I understand Klego has a cut over his eye. Which eye is it?"

"The right eye," he was told.

Didn't Touch Eye.

Did Gonzales take advantage of his opponent's handicap? Not on your life. He hit him almost everywhere on the face and body except on that cut over the right eye. The wound was never touched.

That is sportsmanship.

And so it goes. Wherever men get together in athletic competition you will find similar examples. Who can

SUPPLY OF GUM ONLY WORRY OF FRENCH BOXERS

BY HEROL EGAN.

They have come to the end of a 4,000 mile trail, these French amateur boxers who, on April 29, assembled at the Gare St. Lazare in Paris from all parts of France for the greatest and most glamorous journey of their young lives.

That trail will end tonight in Soldiers' field where, before the greatest crowd that ever witnessed a series of amateur boxing contests, they will defend the colors of France against the American Golden Gloves winners.

Yesterday afternoon, after lunch, the boys gathered in Coach Cuny's room at the Medinah Athletic club. They joked and laughed among themselves just like members of an American college football team. All were chewing gum, and seemed to enjoy it immensely.

"What do you think of your team now, Elyas?" I asked him.

Captain Says Team Is Ready.

The French captain—who, by the way, bears a remarkable resemblance to Georges Carpentier, and talks a bit like him—is the most temperamental member of the team. Like Calus Cassius, he "thinks too much." He seemed a trifle nervous when he replied:

"All the boys are in good form. The morale is fine, and we all are confident of winning. We are acclimated now. Our food has been prepared just as in France. We will have no alibis to offer if we are beaten."

M. Cuny, team coach, said about the same thing, but in another way:

"Chicago has given us perfect facilities for training," he said. "The discipline of the team is fine. We want to show the Americans how France has taken to boxing, and to justify the confidence of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE. You can count on them to produce good sport—win or lose."

Chews Gum, Refuses to Worry.

Good natured Fernand Laudrin, the heavyweight, reputed to be the best man on the team, isn't worrying about the fight. He didn't seem to have a nerve in his huge, well muscled body as he lounged on the bed, working hard and conscientiously on his chewing gum.

"Don't bother about me. I never give out interviews, anyway. But I

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Champions of France and Golden Gloves champions of America meet tonight in the ring at Soldiers' field. Thousands—how many thousands no one may say—will watch this first international amateur boxing tournament sponsored by THE TRIBUNE. These thousands will form the largest throng ever to see amateur boxing contests.

But 100,000 more may see these fights. The long reaches of the concrete stands of Soldiers' field provide excellent locations. These go to the first purchasers of the 50 cent seats. The gates to Soldiers' field will be opened at 4 o'clock. Twenty ticket booths will be used, in addition to those located on Michigan avenue at 11th street and Van Buren street.

Golden Gloves Champions Ready.

Chicago's Golden Gloves champions, six of them winners in the intercity competition with New York on April 2, and the others New York boys who defeated their Chicago rivals, are prepared to defend America's boxing reputation. These lads finished their drills yesterday afternoon at the Illinois Athletic club.

Under the surveillance of Johnny Behr, Jabber Young and Benny Yanger, the coaches, the boys unlimbered, shadow boxed and pulled the weights. For a last time they trooped to the showers and then to the rubbing tables. Their job of preparation was finished.

They are in condition. Their team spirit is superb. Some of them may lose, but to a boy all are pulling for a victory over the French national champions. And those who have

GOLD STEP TAKES JUBILEE PARADE PURSE IN MUD

Beats Watch On Length and Half at Aurora.

The Jubilee Parade purse, feature of yesterday's race card at Exposition park, Aurora, was every bit of that for Gold Step, C. W. Moore's 4 year old Sweep On colt and his pilot, Jockey A. Pendergrass. It also was a jubilee parade to the payoff window for most of the Ladies' day crowd of 5,000. Gold Step was an odds on choice and made a parade of the five and a half furlong dash from barrier to wire. The winner paid $3.54 for a $2 investment.

This colt, with the same lad up, beat Stuyvesant Peabody's T. S. Jordan in the Inaugural handicap on opening day, but was disqualified for cutting across the field. Pendergrass took no chances yesterday. Going to the top of the five horse field at the start, he stayed there, at one time enjoying a lead of four lengths. The margin of victory over Watch On, second choice in the betting, was a length and a half, but it could have been more had Pendergrass desired. Bud Groom, third choice, finished in that position.

Great Day for Mudlarks.

With pools of water scattered all over the track and the portions that showed being mud several inches deep, it was a gala day for the mudlarks. Despite these conditions, limit fields went to the Bahr gate in three of the seven races, while the five that raced in the feature represented the smallest field of the afternoon.

J. J. Greeley's Transcendent in the third, which paid the neat price of $24.58, was the medium of a fairly heavy play by a group of Chicagoans and there was much jubilation when the Transmute filly won handily.

With mud flying thick and fast it behooved these horses and jockeys who wanted to keep clean to get off in front and stay there. Those who ran back in the ruck looked like something dipped in a barrel of chocolate paint.

Take Off Wins Opener.

Take Off came home all spic and span in the opening number after defeating the favorite, Hogan's Dance, while Jockey Fischer on My Sweets had no need to send his silks to the laundry after the second race.

Old Bill, installed favorite in the mutuels in the fifth number, romped home in easy fashion with Jack Alexander and True Boy picking up his mud. Jockey A. Fischer made his second clean journey of the afternoon on Prickly Heat in the sixth and paid off his backers at the handsome rate of $19.66 for $2. Alto was second, while Forebec, the favorite, was third.

This afternoon's feature will be the Golden Gloves, named after THE TRIBUNE'S international boxing bouts. It is a claiming handicap with a half dozen smart ones named in the overnight entries. The claiming price is $3,500, and such as Bob Rogers, Lieut. Russell, Playfellow's Dream, Bud Charlton, Dark Ayr, and Celtic Prince will go.

BUCK EASTERLING STOPS JUDKINS IN 4TH ROUND

Art Laskey and Marion Matuzak, Chicago heavyweights, fought a six round draw in the semi-windup. Joe Bonak and Young Dempsey also drew in one of the six round preliminaries. Other results:

Luther McCoy and Bob Marrell drew [4].

DERBY CANDIDATES

BY FRENCH LANE

MATE.

Louisville, Ky., May 11.—[Special.]—The Preakness winner surely looked like a champion when he arrived at Churchill Downs today and many wise horsemen who took a look at him quickly changed their opinion that he will be an easy victim of Twenty Grand and Equipoise in Saturday's Derby.

Mate is no stranger to Kentucky for he invaded these parts and won rather handily the Breeder's Futurity of the century old Lexington track last fall. Later he passed up the Kentucky Jockey Club stakes which found Twenty Grand beating Equipoise by a nose.

After his Breeder's Futurity victory Mate tried for the Pimlico Futurity but didn't get any place. He came right back a few days later and won the Walden handicap in Maryland, beating some of the best of his age. His campaign last season was almost as strenuous as the one in which Equipoise took part.

Mate is a peculiar horse when it comes to training, but Jim Healey seems to know what is best for him. Mate doesn't require much work and the longest drill he engaged in before the Preakness was a gallop at a mile. He may not even be asked to travel a mile and a quarter before Derby day. This is a striking contrast to some great horses of the past. For instance, Reigh Count worked nine times at the full Derby distance of a mile and a quarter before he won the Derby back in 1928. He also had plenty of two mile gallops under his belt before he went to the post.

Mate is a nervous fellow and thrives on rest more than on work. Despite his rather easy training he looks as fit as skilled hands can make him. He's a nicely made chestnut. He is possibly the best son of Prince Pal which for the last few seasons has been expected to send a great son or daughter to the races. Rhinock, Irish Prince, and High Foot are some of good sons of Prince Pal which have been developed in other years.

Mate has speed and apparently can go under heavy weight. The horse that beats him will win the Derby.

Missouri Governor Vetoes Bill Against Race Bets

Jefferson City, Mo., May 11.—(AP)—Gov. Henry S. Caulfield late today vetoed a bill passed by the legislature to reduce the offense of making bets on horse and other races from a felony to a misdemeanor. He said the "evil of betting on horse races is widespread, becoming more flagrant all the time," and stated "more stringent steps should be taken against it, rather than liberalizing the present law."

| Name. | Class. | France. |
|---|---|---|
| ...ne Bolek | 112 pounds. | Andre Perrier |
| ...ck Sebelin | 118 pounds. | Henri Bruyere |
| ...ne Guenther | 126 pounds. | Gabriel Lerat |
| ...ney Sylvane | 135 pounds. | Marcel Esnault |
| ...ul Dardell | 147 pounds. | Jac. Delahaye |
| ...ul Gorrie | 160 pounds. | Jean Zigan |
| ...ul Ross | 175 pounds. | Alex. Elyas |
| ...ulie Sirutis | Heavyweight. | Fern. Laudris |

Sirutis and Dardell of the Americ...n team are New Yorkers, the only two boxers from that metropolis who were good enough to win places on the collegiate team when the annual intercity showdown was held in Chicago on April 2. Sirutis, a student at New York university, is a 212 pounder, with an advantage of about 25 pounds over the stocky, rugged French army aviator, Fernand Laudris. Dardell is a student at New Utrecht high school, New York.

The net profits of the evening will be divided between the disabled war veterans of the United States and France. Trustees of the French share have decided to apply most of their portion to the cause of the little colony of "Broken Mugs," those fighters whose faces were so badly mutilated that they have preferred to remain in seclusion in a hospital ever since.

When French Rallied Forces.

The French boxers gathered in Paris for their getaway to the United States on April 29, to the cheers of a great throng of French and American fans who jammed the station of the Gare St. Lazare. Representatives of the United States embassy and the French government ministry of sport were present, and just before the train pulled out for Le Havre the entire gathering came to silent attention as a band of Paris gendarmes, largely composed of ex-soldiers, with a preliminary martial flourish of gleaming trumpets, played the national anthems of both countries.

The French have assumed the handicap of traveling, always recognized as a disadvantage to an athletic team, and has been a trace of overconfidence in the manner of the American fans, which seems to invite reverses. Amateur boxing is organized nowhere else in the world as efficiently as in Chicago and New York, where THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE and the New York Daily News for five years have been conducting annual tournaments of steadily increasing magnitude.

French Boys Rugged.

The French amateur tournaments are more popular than the American amateur championship were prior to the organization of the Golden Gloves tournaments, and the team we are waiting for the hour of tonight's bouts represents the pick of a much larger field than turned out for the Golden Gloves. Still, the French are by no means novices, and the whole team is composed of boys accustomed to hard physical work, even to Alex Elyas, the light heavyweight captain, who, though a university student and the son of a wealthy man, has served his term of military service in the famous French army.

Most spend their vacations inspecting the hickory preserves maintained as a source of raw material by his father, who is proprietor of one of the most prosperous wooden leg factories in a section of the world where, thanks to the periodic disputes of nations, the wooden leg industry seldom lacks customers. Andre Perrier, the bantam, is a cabinet maker, Delahaye is a barber and the others are all mechanics or plumbers.

French Boys Awed.

After their receptions in New York on Wednesday and in Chicago Thursday, exceptions that woke the echoes and left the simple French kids a bit awed, they have been training in luxury undreamed of by any of them at the Medinah Athletic club.

The French fight under the so-called international or Olympic rules with limit amateur bouts to three rounds, whereas the American rules allow for draws in three rounds and require in such cases a fourth round to decide the issue. The Americans make this difference and the bouts will not exceed three rounds.

Why It's Worth While.

It is the hope of the men sponsoring the international match between France and America that it will perfect and increase the spirit of the Golden Gloves. The most encouraging sign on the horizon is the development of the spirit of fair play among young men. The movement is growing.

That is why the match between 16 sturdy, courageous boys of France and the United States is worth while.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

GOLDEN GLOVES BOUTS.

WHATEVER the result of the international Golden Gloves bouts at Soldiers' field tonight between French and American amateur boxers, interest will center largely in learning just how good are the French, what style of boxing their representatives have learned, and what are their ring tactics and strategy.

Majority opinion would suffer a rude surprise if the French achieve a one-sided victory. It would still be a surprise if they won as a team. That opinion, no doubt, is influenced in part by national and city partisanship. The fact that the visitors have taken a long trip, with more or less interruption to their training régime, also enters into the calculation. Finally, boxing to the French, in reality is an adopted sport. Its greatest development has been since the world war.

France has produced several good professional boxers. Georges Carpentier was one. He was fast, but he was too light in weight for the slugging Dempsey and he possessed a chin which was a good target for a heavy puncher. Carpentier once staggered Dempsey with his right, his most effective weapon. Despite all the ballyhoo for that match, however, Georges really was overmatched in meeting the Manassa Mauler.

Eugene Criqui, gallant little fellow and world war veteran, won the world featherweight title in 1923 when he stopped Johnny Kilbane in six rounds. Kilbane possibly was on the wane at that time. Criqui, after winning the title, showed his sportsmanship by defending his honors two months later because he had promised to do so, instead of assuming the prerogative of champions by taking a rest and requiring the next contest to be held in his own country. It was sportsmanship but not good business, for he was outpointed by Johnny Dundee in 15 rounds and thus held the title for less than two months.

How far the French have progressed in their development of amateur boxing will be shown tonight. If they have advanced enough to defeat an experienced, hard hitting American team, more credit to them. If not, surely this experience will prove of value.

would like to meet this man M. Wrigley, who makes the chewing gum. They say he lives close to here. I want to take a supply of gum back with me."

Jean Zigan, middleweight hope, lives in the little town of Audincourt, near Belfort. He hasn't been married very long.

Barber Says He'll Trim Foe.

"I still love my wife," he said. "In spite of all the so handsome American girls I have seen. She is a fine cook and so helpful around the house. I am going to win tomorrow night so that she will be happy and glad."

As for Jacques Delahayes, the blond barber, he summed up his impressions in terms of his trade.

"I shall give my opponent a careful face massage, and then a good trimming. It will be a close shave if he is not knocked out."

Tombstone Esnault, marble worker, said that he hoped to "carve out" a name for himself. Gaby Lerat is anxious to stop his man quickly, so as to get back to Normandy where he can drink a good "pinard" (wine), and the marvelous Calvados liqueur that they make in that province.

Ride Elevators for Fun.

Andre Perrier and Henri Bruyere were not in the room, and Coach Cuny became slightly uneasy. After half an hour's search they were located in the lobby. Just getting out of an elevator. They had been riding up and down for three quarters of an hour, and getting a big kick out of it.

"It's more fun than a roller coaster, and it doesn't cost anything," Henri explained.

"See that rooster? That is the Fighting Cock of France. Oui, monsieur, and that bird surely can fight."

Dr. Charles Sebenq, the courteous, white haired delegate of the French Boxing federation, called the boys around him and made a brief speech, in which he said:

"I have just had a talk with Mr. Avery Brundage, president of the National Amateur Athletic union, and Gen. John V. Clinnin of the Illinois athletic commission, and we have agreed on the interpretation of all the rules. You will have nothing to worry about as far as a fair deal is concerned.

"Tomorrow afternoon, after the weighing in, there will be a demonstration by two boxers which will show you what you can do, and what you cannot do.

"You are representing France in a far country. You will live up to the highest principles of amateurism and of fair play. Then we all shall be proud of you, no matter what the outcome of the fights may be."

Here Are Traffic Plans for Golden Gloves Program

The Rapid Transit lines will unload passengers at Roosevelt road and the surface lines at 11th street and Roosevelt road. The 11th street bridge will be reserved exclusively for pedestrian traffic.

Motor coaches will enter Grant park by way of 7th street and proceed to the south end of the stadium to unload passengers. After the bouts are over coaches will be parked in the Court of Honor between the Field museum and the north end of the stadium, taking on passengers at the southern curb.

Taxicabs and motor coaches coming from the north must hug the east curb of the west drive and unload at the west and south sides of the stadium. After the fights a number of cabs will be stationed in the Court of Honor at the north end of the stadium, another line on the west side, and two or three lines on 16th street.

Motorists may park their cars in the special area south of the stadium. All private cars are instructed to keep in the outer line of traffic. Traffic will not be allowed to enter the 23d, Monroe, Jackson, Van Buren, Harrison, and 7th street bridges at the break of the show.

GOLDEN GLOVES FOES MEET AT TRIBUNE DINNER

Members of the French and American Golden Gloves teams were guests of THE TRIBUNE at a banquet last night at the Drake hotel. Alexandre Elyas, captain of the French squad, introduced his comrades, and Fred Caserio, leader of the American boys, did likewise.

Northwestern U. Tennis Team Swamps Iowa, 8-1

Northwestern university's tennis team swamped Iowa, 8 to 1, at Evanston yesterday. The Wildcats won five out of six single matches and all three doubles. Thies of Iowa beat Nelson of Northwestern for the only Hawkeye win.

watched the boys in training since the first day of May are certain they will win a majority of their fights.

The boxers of France are positive victory will follow the tri-color. Prof. Fernand Cuny, who has had charge of their preparations since the day they left Paris, said last night his boys were in the best of condition.

All of the boys are expected to make weight easily at 2 o'clock this afternoon when both teams gather in the gymnasium of the Medinah Athletic club to be examined by the physicians and to be weighed by representatives of the Central Amateur Athletic union. Several have fought excess poundage, but all will be within the limit which permits a pound more than the weight division requirements.

Their instructions will be given at weighing time. The referees and judges will attend this afternoon. The change in place of instruction, which customarily is in the ring prior to the bout, was occasioned because of the inability of the French boys to understand English.

Ends Golden Gloves' Parade.

With this international tournament the Golden Gloves of 1931 comes to an end. Since Feb. 16, when the sectional trials opened in Chicago at the Ashland Boulevard auditorium, the amateurs of the central states have passed in review.

While Chicago was selecting its team, 3,000 amateurs in New York and New Jersey, fought for the right to represent the east in the fourth annual intercity championships.

On April 7, again before 23,000 at the Chicago Stadium, the intercity battles were decided. Chicago won its second successive victory by a score of 13 bouts to 3.

Championship gold belts will be given the international winners tonight. The winners' belts are set with a diamond, while the same belt, without the diamond, goes to the runnerup in each bout.

Six Preliminaries.

Six preliminary bouts between Golden Gloves squad members and other boys who have competed in the Chicago tournaments, open the show tonight. These boys are evenly matched. The fights may be equal to those which follow, except, of course, that international championships are not at stake.

The introductory card follows:

INTRODUCTORY BOUTS.

118 pounds—Oscar O'Hanlon vs. Joe Marguria.

126 pounds—Ernest Kratchovil vs. Paul Stegerda.

135 pounds—George Holden vs. Buddy Moore.

147 pounds—George Keenan vs. Frank Knauer.

175 pounds—Tony Sutton vs. Peter Smagatz.

Heavyweight—Adam Smith vs. Rudy Sterbens.

To night's show opens at 7 o'clock with a band concert. At 7:45 fireworks, aerial bombs and displays, will precede the first introductory bout. These boys will enter the ring at 8 o'clock. Probably around 9 o'clock the first international boxers will take the ring.

Lewis-Judson Mat Bout Tops Coliseum Card

Ed [Strangler] Lewis, Frank Judson, former Harvard instructor; Joe Savoldi, former Notre Dame football star; Hank Bruder, Northwestern grid player of the last three seasons; Lloyd Burdick, former University of Illinois football and mat star, and five more grapplers will put in their final training grind today preparatory to the big Jubilee week wrestling show at the Coliseum tomorrow night.

In addition to the training grind, Lewis was to appear before the Illinois athletic commission in an effort to get decisive action on the ruling by the commission two weeks ago that Jim Londos, rival title claimant, must meet him or quit wrestling in Illinois as champion.

Londos was given ten days' time to answer that order of the commission, but has made no move to comply. Disqualification of Lewis by the Montreal boxing commission in a bout with Henri Deglane, sturdy Frenchman, last week muddled the heavyweight wrestling situation somewhat more, but the Montreal commissioners evidently have decided they were a bit hasty, and a reversal of their verdict is expected. Promoters Joe Coffey and Jim Mullen, sponsors of tomorrow night's Jubilee show at the Coliseum, have offered a purse of $20,000 for Deglane to meet the winner of the Lewis-Judson bout tomorrow night here on May 25.

Lewis' $10,000 diamond belt and his title claims will be at stake in his bout with Judson, and if Judson is the victor, he is expected to be generally recognized as champ.

International Ring Rules Are to Govern Battles

International boxing rules, which govern Olympic competition, will be used tonight to determine the results of the bouts at Soldiers' field between the national champions of France and the American Golden Gloves team.

Dr. Charles Sebenq, vice president of the French Boxing federation; Avery Brundage, president of the National Amateur Athletic union; Gen. John V. Clinnin, chairman of the Illinois athletic commission, and the judges and referees who will work tonight's bouts discussed the rules yesterday at noon at a luncheon at the Medinah Athletic club.

While the rules in the main are the same as those which are used in amateur competition in America, some are different. The important rules follow:

Each bout must be decided in three rounds. No fourth round is permitted as in the United States. The judges and referee may declare the bout a draw if in their opinion the boys are equal after three rounds of boxing.

Blows below the belt, of course, constitute a foul, and holding and hitting with the free hand also is a foul. Boxers must be disqualified for fouls.

Soft bandages, 1½ inches wide and 6½ feet long, are used to wrap the hands. No tape is permitted.

In case of a knockdown, the referee will count the seconds about as is customary in the United States. In the International rules the referee counts silently.

The French team also has conceded the rule which requires that each boxer wear trunks and a jersey. The boys will wear trunks, as is customary in the United States.

Eight ounce gloves will be used in all weight divisions. In American amateur fights six ounce gloves are used except in the middleweight, light heavyweight, and heavyweight divisions. These weights use the heavier glove.

The boys are allowed one pound in making weight. For example, in the flyweight division, for which the limit is 112 pounds, the boys may weight 112 pounds.

The referees and judges will score each round, giving a maximum of 5 points to each boy, and a minimum of 1 point to indicate their relative performance for that round.

The cards will be collected and turned over to Gen. Clinnin, who will audit them, notifying the announcer of the decision.

All French and American boxers will weigh in at 2 o'clock this afternoon at the Medinah Athletic club. They will be examined by physicians at the same time. The introductory boxers tonight will fight under American rules. They will weigh in at the I. A. C. at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

ZAHARIAS MEETS BRONOWICZ ON MAT THURSDAY

The two extremes in wrestling—a youngster and a cool, skillful veteran—will clash Thursday night when George Zaharias will try to rush his way to victory over Frank Bronowicz.

Have Patience; Good Fishing Time Nears

BY BOB BECKER.

The trout fisherman who wants fairly warm weather and more ideal conditions for fly fishing is more likely to find this setup toward the end of May rather than early in the month because winter has a habit of taking a fling at the north country early in May. Although there is no way of doping the weather or good days for trout fishing, our experience has been that the last week in May usually is a delightful time to be on a stream.

For the trout fisherman who likes a pretty good sized stream, one which gives plenty of excitement if waded or taken in a canoe, we recommend the Wolf, east of Antigo, Wis. This stream has both rainbow and brook trout. There are parts of it which should be covered in a canoe. Other sections of the stream can be waded.

Good Place for Base.

The little town of Lily is a good place to make your base for fishing excursions on the Wolf. The Lily, a tributary of the Wolf, also has some nice trout in it. If the angler wants a guide to show him some of the best spots one can usually be found in that section.

Our experience in wading the Wolf is that a fellow needs good legs and a full sized pair of waders. There are some deep holes in the river which lure a fellow out of bounds before he knows it. On two different occasions when we fished this stream our fishing partner saved us from a quick swim by sticking out his rod and gently easing us out of deep water which was ready to pour over the top of our waders. By hanging on to the rod we were able to buck the current and pull our heavy, shoe encased feet to safe ground.

Where Canoe Is Needed.

A good trout fishing "float" by canoe can be had on the Presque Isle river beginning near the little town of Marenisco in the upper peninsula of Michigan. Above Marenisco the river tumbles over rapids like a mountain stream. Here it has to be negotiated by canoe with an experienced pusher in the stern. We fished that section last spring. Lots of good holes. But we prefer the water below Marenisco, where there are many deep pools.

Senators Pile Up 14-4 Win Over Tigers

Detroit, Mich., May 11.—[Special.]—Washington Senators today won the final game of the series from the Tigers, 14 to 4. Washington bats beat a tattoo on four Detroit pitchers, while Dale Alexander added to the discord with three errors. Bridges, who started pitching for the Tigers, lasted one-third of an inning, just long enough for the Senators to accumulate a cluster of six runs.

CLEVELAND PLAN FOR MAX-STRIB BOUT COMPLETED

Cleveland, O., May 11.—(AP)—Staging of the heavyweight championship boxing match between Max Schmeling and W. L. [Young] Stribling, in the new Cleveland stadium on July 3, was assured tonight with signing of a contract between city officials and the Madison Square Garden corporation of Ohio, promoter.

Before the signature formalities, city council adopted a resolution waiving the boxing commission's usual 6 per cent cut in receipts of boxing matches, in favor of a flat guarantee of $5,000. The promoters will pay $20,000 for use of the stadium and split even with the city on concession receipts, in addition to building 20,000 or more field seats, to revert to the city after the match.

ANNOUNCE FIRST UNIT IN CHAIN OF MOTOR INNS

Autohaven Co. Plans 100 for This Area.

BY AL CHASE.

Ground is to be broken about June 1st for the first of a chain of 100 Autohavens, or automobile inns, told about last year in this section. According to A. J. Williams, general manager of the National Autohaven company, each Autohaven will represent approximately $85,000 in land, building and equipment, so the total investment in the 100 planned for the area within an approximate radius of 100 miles from the loop, will be $8,500,000.

The initial unit in the contemplated national chain will be on the Dixie highway, south of Crete, and is expected to be open for guests before the racing season starts at Lincoln Fields.

Contracts have been signed with Marshall Field & Co., to completely furnish these 100 Autohavens in old English period furniture and decorations. Even the dishes will carry out the idea of an old English inn. A contract has been signed with the Standard Oil Company of Indiana to handle the gas and oil concessions. Swift & Co. will supply the meats. Other contracts for supplies have been signed.

Prices to Be Moderate.

Each Autohaven will be a three story building, designed in old English style of architecture, of fireproof construction, with twenty-one bedrooms, eight of them with private baths. Free shower baths will be available for others. The prices will range from $1.50 per room for one person, without private bath, to $3.50 per room for two persons with private bath included. All rooms will have hot and cold water. Tipping throughout will be taboo.

There'll be a lobby, with a fireplace, a counter for the sale of drugs, papers, candies, etc., and a Western Union station, a contract having been signed with the Western Union for such service. Then, there'll be a dining room for forty-two and a light lunch room with soda fountain, with chairs for fifteen.

"Three separate managers will be employed in each Autohaven," said Mr. Williams. "One will handle the hotel, another the auto service station and the third the restaurant. They'll be selected, wherever possible, from the residents of the town in which the Autohaven is situated.

"We originally had intended to award a general contract for the entire hundred Autohavens in Chicagoland to one of the nationally known construction companies. Recently, however, we decided to give the work to contractors who operate in or near the towns where the Autohavens will be located, so they in turn may purchase materials from their local concerns and use resident labor as well.

"We plan to erect 1,000 Autohavens throughout the United States and Canada and have then in operation by Jan. 1, 1933. The first 100 in Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, and Wisconsin will be completed in the early fall of this year.

"As soon as they are under construction the company proposes to launch immediately similar projects of 100 Autohavens in like zones radiating out of Detroit, St. Louis, and Cincinnati, to be followed as rapidly as possible in other eastern and southern cities."

Construction Contract Awards Are $27,904,799

Washington, D. C., May 11.—(AP)—Contract awards for public and semi-public construction amounting to $27,904,799 were reported last week to the President's emergency committee for employment. The figures represented a drop from those of the preceding week when contract awards reported amounted to $57,042,515.

WORLD'S GRAIN MARKET NEWS

Wheat traders said at the close it was a most uneventful day in the way of striking news to influence trading. There is uncertainty regarding rains and the general moisture situation in the northwest. The light export business also is a factor, while the reduction in the visible supply is not enough to inspire good buying. The trade would like to have wheat prices move up but they are not getting enough encouragement from outside buyers.

Corn lacks support from the outside and from leading interests who were active buyers all last week. Lack of selling pressure at times gives the market strength whenever there is a little show of buying. A belief that storage room for corn will be limited, owing to absorption of the bulk of the storage room by wheat, it is feared will restrict operations by corn specialists. At the same time there is said to be sufficient holdings by local interests to make a strong market that would result in sharply higher prices, should shorts try to cover.

The Uhlmann Grain company express the belief that Europe has recently overbought its supply of wheat and says that the world cannot absorb almost 20,000,000 bu of wheat a week, the amount of world shipments for the week, while last year they got along with 12,000,000 bu. The visible supply is 194,000,000 bu, or 68,000,000 bu more than last year. The eastern and gulf ports did not decrease their stocks very much last week, only 529,000 bu, and they still have more than 15,000,000 bu to dispose of to make room for the new crop.

"About one-fourth of the corn planting is done," says H. I. Baldwin of Decatur, Ill., "but there are no indications yet as to whether or not the early plantings will be successful. The rain of last week, while favorable for growing wheat, oats, and pastures, was not so favorable for planted fields of corn."

11,885 FACTORIES IN CHICAGO AREA TURN OUT 5½ BILLIONS IN '29

A total of 11,885 factories in the Chicago metropolitan area manufactured products valued at $5,500,000,000 during 1929, according to an article by George W. Rossetter, chairman of the business research committee of the Chicago Association of Commerce, in the current issue of Commerce, the association's magazine.

Figures based on the latest available reports of the bureau of the census show that the metropolitan district's 11,885 factories amounts to an increase of 1,250 plants since 1925. Cook county is credited with having 10,871 factories while 10,200 are listed as being within the city limits of Chicago. Since 1925 the Chicago district has accounted for 13 per cent of the national increase in production volume.

A total of 551,000 wage earners, with an annual pay roll of $890,000,000, compose the working force of the Chicago manufacturing district. This figure represents more than 6 per cent of the total number of industrial wage earners in the nation.

LOOKING AHEAD WITH BUSINESS

Shipments of wheels in April exceeded those of any month in the history of the Budd Wheel company, totaling 357,701 wheels and exceeding by more than 60,000 wheels the best previous month, April, 1929, when 292,876 wheels were shipped. Shipments for the first four months of this year totaled 1,082,438, as against a total of 1,961,945 for the whole of 1930.

Colby M. Chester, president of General Foods corporation, said sales and earnings in April showed an improvement over April of last year.

Charles Earl, president of Mother Lode Coalition Mines, said at the annual meeting that no new ore has been discovered, but the company has developed a supply of ore which probably will keep the company operating approximately three years. The company has curtailed production of copper because of the low price of the metal, he said, and the cost of production is still below the present selling price for copper.

The Lockheed Aircraft company, subsidiary of Detroit Aircraft, is operating its Burbank, Cal., plant at 90 per cent of capacity, with a production rate of eight to ten ships a months. Unfilled orders are reported to have reached a point where new orders are subject to deliveries dated 60 days ahead. The factory is operating day and night turns, with 150 employés.

Domestic fabricators and Consumers appear to be marking time until the appearance of the April copper statistics, as buying continues small both on domestic and foreign account. One report in trade circles said there were indications that stocks of copper increased over 20,000,000 pounds last month. Prices remain unchanged at 9 cents a pound, delivered, in the domestic market, and 9.775 cents for export.

Magma Copper company, plans to cease operations June 12 for a six week summer vacation period, compared with a four week suspension last year. United Verde Copper company plans to discontinue the production of copper at Jerome and Clarkdale, Ariz., for an indefinite period.

Blaw-Knox company reports unfilled orders on May 1 totaled $5,467,478, against $5,976,096 on May 1, 1930.

ANNUAL DIVIDEND REDUCED TO $2.50 BY PARAMOUNT

New York, May 11.—(AP)—Directors of Paramount-Publix corporation today reduced the annual dividend rate on the common stock to $2.50 from $4 by declaring a quarterly dividend of 62½ cents, compared with $1 previously paid. The $4 annual rate was established in March, 1930, when it was increased from $3.

The dividend declared today is the fiftieth consecutive quarterly cash disbursement paid by the company.

Adolph Zukor, president, said in a statement that the directors believed their action "prudent and in the best interests of the stockholders," in view of general business conditions.

Bronner Asks Deposit of Pan-American Pet. Bonds

In view of the recent default of interest and sinking fund due May 1, 1931, on the outstanding 6 per cent first mortgage and collateral trust bonds of Richfield Oil Company of California, Harry Bronner, chairman of the bondholders protective committee representing the first mortgage 15 year convertible 6 per cent sinking fund gold bonds of Pan-American Petroleum Company of California, announced that all of the Pan-American bonds should be deposited with the committee on or before June 1.

UTLIITIES SHOW ABILITY TO RIDE OUT DEPRESSION

Capital Invested Rises Over 1¼ Billions in 1930.

In both good and bad times the growth of the American public utility industry goes steadily on. And the largest factors in the field have proved themselves to be almost depression proof by their ability to attract capital and increase earnings.

In the face of declining general business during 1930 capital invested in the public utility companies of the United States, exclusive of steam railroads, increased by $1,275,000,000 to nearly $28,000,000,000, it is estimated in the annual public utility survey made by Bonbright & Co.

Has Largest Investment.

The largest investment in any one branch of the public utility industry is in the electric light and power field, where total invested capital amounts to approximately $11,800,000,000, an increase of $700,000,000 over the preceding year. This compares with about $5,285,000,000 in electric railways, $4,950,000,000 in telephone and telegraph companies, five billion dollars in the manufactured and natural gas industry, and an amount estimated at nine hundred million dollars in privately owned water supply facilities. Capital invested in electric railways continued to decline during the year.

In the last fifteen years customers of electric power and light companies in the United States have purchased more than twenty-two million shares of stock of the companies that serve them. Such sales to customers amounted to about 2,030,000 shares in 1930 alone, the average sale being 9⅛ shares.

Future Development.

The field for future development of the electric power and light business is so great, according to the survey, that in each of the next five years the industry may be expected to add 8,300,000,000 kilowatt hours to its output, one hundred twenty-five million dollars to its gross revenues, and seven hundred million dollars to its annual expenditures for extension of services.

"In each year since its inception in 1882 revenues of the electric power and light industry have shown an increase over those of the preceding year," it is pointed out. "Gross income of all of the electric power and light companies in the country in 1902 aggregated approximately $85,700,000. In 1930 they amounted to more than 25 times as much. The gain in 1930 alone, as compared with 1929, was over 3 per cent, in spite of a small decrease in the number of kilowatt hours sold.

Domestic Use Increases.

"During recent years the gain has been proportionately larger in the more stable part of the demand for electric power—namely: that from the home and office. In 1921 approximately one-third of the total kilowatt hours of electric energy were consumed by domestic and commercial customers. In 1930, a comparable year as respects the condition of business in general, the ratio had risen to 42 per cent."

The survey estimates that on Jan. 1, 1931, the number of electric refrigerators in use was 2,625,000, about one-eighth of the total number of homes using electricity. Installations of domestic electric refrigerators set a new high record of 775,000 in 1930, more than ten times as many as were installed in 1925.

The addition of an electric refrigerator to the average household practically doubles the aggregate consumption of current and a large increase in the use of electricity is still in prospect from this source, it is stated. Another important field has been opened up through the development of interior air conditioning, including house heating and cooling.

Proration Is Seen Big Handicap.

BY O. A. MATHER.

The drastic decline of both crude oil and refined products during the first quarter of this year resulted in considerable inventory depreciation for the Pure Oil company, whose fiscal year ended March 31. This loss was approximately $5,200,000, according to the annual report made public last night by President Henry M. Dawes, who says that the depreciation would have been 40 per cent less if the company's fiscal year had corresponded with the calendar year of 1930, as is the case with most oil companies.

HENRY M. DAWES. (Eastern Photo.)

The Pure Oil company also was handicapped by the fact that it was obliged to buy a considerable portion of its crude oil supply because the output of its own wells was curtailed by various state proration commissions, although Pure Oil had wells capable of producing eight to ten times the capacity of its refineries and the competitive needs of its marketing outlets. This factor, Mr. Dawes says, reduced possible earnings by "many million dollars."

Charges Against Surplus.

Of the inventory depreciation of $5,200,000, about $2,148,000 was charged against the year's earnings and $1,652,750 was charged against surplus. After the charge against earnings the income account shows a net profit of $2,617,747, which was equivalent after preferred dividends to 18 cents a share on 1,858,270 common shares, $25 par value. However, with the charge against surplus and payment of preferred and common dividends totaling $4,335,720, the company's earned surplus declined $4,770,731, or from $17,-[illegible] to $12,861,750. Net earnings in the preceding fiscal year were 9,030,531, equivalent to $1.51 a share on the common stock. The balance sheet as of March 31, 1931, shows current assets of $27,096,098 and current liabilities of $10,834,992.

Mr. Dawes recites the difficulties due to overproduction of crude oil but expresses the belief that low prices will retard output eventually. Demand for refined products is as large as in previous years. He expects the company's earnings to increase this year and, with a slight improvement in prices, to be on a satisfactory basis.

STORE SALES IMPROVE

The most cheerful item in yesterday's business news was a report of the federal reserve board showing distinct improvement in department store sales throughout the country in the last three months. The report on volume of sales shows an increase from March to April of about 9 per cent despite the fact that on account of the early date of Easter this year most of the Easter buying came in March.

The board's index, which makes allowance for seasonal changes, including changes in the date of Easter, was 105 in April, compared with 97 in March and 98 in February. In comparison with a year ago, the aggregate value of sales in April was 9 per cent smaller but after allowance for the effect on sales of the shifting date of Easter, the decline from a year ago was only about 2 per cent in April compared with 10 per cent in March.

Installment Collections Seen Holding Up Well

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 11.—Although business activity during the first four months of 1931 showed a substantial decrease compared with the corresponding period of 1930 as a result of the intensification of the business depression during the year, the collections of installment finance companies are holding generally at the 1930 level, according to executives of the companies. The fact that the proportion of repossessions and of past due installment paper has not increased with the steady decline in trade is reported by installment executives as an indication of the stability and soundness of installment selling.

Plan Conference to Find Cure for Coal Business

BY SCRUTATOR.

Producers, distributors and users of bituminous coal are going to meet at Urbana on May 21 and 22 to see what can be done to improve the coal industry in the central states.

The bituminous coal business during the last decade has been suffering from an assortment of ills. Chief among these are the growing use of competitive fuels and the steadily increasing efficiency in the use of coal itself, making it possible to produce a given amount of heat or power with a smaller quantity of fuel.

Here is an example: Twenty-five years ago the average electric power plant had to burn 5.5 pounds of coal to produce one kilowatt hour of electric energy. By 1919 that had been cut to 3.2 pounds and in 1929 the same results could be obtained with only 1.69 pounds.

Has More Serious Problem.

If that were all the picture would not be so black, but the coal industry in Illinois has an even more serious problem to solve.

Illinois has richer coal deposits than any state east of the Missouri river and yet these deposits are left lying in the ground while vast quantities of coal are being shipped into the state from eastern fields.

The Chicago area alone last year used 21,722,451 tons of bituminous coal from eastern fields. Only 8,489,261 tons of the more than 52 million tons mined in Illinois was consumed here.

Taking the state as a whole the Illinois coal bureau estimates that the value at the mines of coal produced in Illinois in 1929 would have been $50,000,000 greater had all the coal consumed within the state been produced by its own mines. Including loss in freight revenue, wages, taxes, mine supplies and general purchases of equipment, food, shelter, etc., importations from other states are reported to have cost the people of Illinois more than $45,000,000.

Heavy Loss in Wages.

While the flood from the east was coming into the state in 1929 the production of Illinois mines dropped below normal, resulting in a loss in wages to Illinois coal miners alone of more than $20,000,000.

"The ability of these 'foreign' coals to invade the Chicago market and compete favorably with the near at hand home produced coal is due to two important factors," says J. D. Zook, president of the Illinois Coal Operators' association, in a recent issue of the Illinois Journal of Commerce.

"The first of these is the established freight rate from states to the east which, when measured in the light of rates from Illinois, is highly favorable to these outside products.

Cites Labor Costs.

"The second and possibly the greater factor which makes possible the marketing of these foreign coals in the Chicago territory are the labor costs. Generally speaking, it costs from sixty to seventy-five cents more to produce a ton of coal in Illinois than it costs in Kentucky or West Virginia."

Today coal mines in Illinois are employing only 50,000 men, against 100,000 ten years ago, and are producing only slightly more than half the annual tonnage of ten years back.

CALL MONEY RENEWAL RATE IS NOW LOWEST SINCE SEPT. 9, 1908

New York, May 11.—(AP)—For the first time since Sept. 9, 1908, call money renewed at one per cent today at the New York Stock exchange loaning desk.

The renewal rate, which is the interest charged on previously contracted brokers' borrowings, reflects conditions in the short term money market, and today's extremely low figure was an aftermath of the recent cut in the New York Federal Reserve bank's rediscount rate to 1½ per cent. With a few interruptions caused by temporary and minor stringency due to seasonal influences, the stock exchange renewal rate has been 1½ per cent for some time.

The highest call money rate since the establishment of the federal reserve system was inaugurated was 20 per cent on Nov. 12, 1919, but the record is the 125 per cent that appeared in October, 1907, during the "money panic" when bankers organized an emergency money pool.

Unusually high rates of interest on speculative borrowings appeared in the spring of 1929 when the bull market was booming toward its peak. On March 26 of that year call money soared to 20 per cent and on the following day it renewed at 15 per cent. Back in the nineties the rate got as low as half of one per cent.

Report $25,000 Wager Made U. S. Steel Will Reach Par

A wager of $25,000 is reported to have been made early in February between two Wall street market operators on the proposition whether United States Steel common will "break par" this year. Many smaller bets have been made on the same basis. Speculators for the decline have been hammering steel persistently for weeks, but there are many in the financial district who believe a desperate effort will be made by friends of the stock to keep it above $100, if for no other reason than that its movements influence the trend in other parts of the list.

Some traders have long clung to the theory that as "goes steel so goes the market." The "put and call" merchants, who calculate closely, were willing to sell "puts" on steel for thirty days at eight points below the market.

APRIL DECLINE IN UNFILLED STEEL ORDERS IS USUAL—RECENT DROP SLIGHT

MELLON INVITES BIDS FOR $100,000,000 IN NEW TREASURY BILLS

Washington, D. C., May 11.—(AP)—Secretary Mellon today invited bids for $100,000,000 in treasury bills to meet government expenditures. The amount will bring securities issued by the treasury since last March 15 to $2,610,000,000. The bills will be issued in two series, one for 60 days and the other for 91 days.

Meanwhile the belief persisted that the treasury was preparing to announce a large issue of long term bonds late this summer. No official, however, would comment. The new issue will bring the short term debt outstanding to about $3,300,000,000. It will be sold to the highest bidder on May 14 and be dated May 18.

Four days later the treasury must raise $154,000,000 to meet the maturity of treasury bills on May 18. With little more than six weeks remaining of the 1931 fiscal year, the treasury on May 8 had a deficit of $926,342,392.

Between last July 1 and May 8 the government collected from all sources $2,713,178,017 and had spent $3,649,520,410. Ordinary expenditures were $3,228,427,910, compared with $2,921,647,355 in the same period of the preceding fiscal year.

Canadian Plan a Success.

OTTAWA, May 11.—(AP)—Undertaking the greatest financial operation in its history, the Canadian government was gratified today by reports reaching the finance department from all parts of the country, indicating the $250,000,000 conversion bond issue had been well received.

Long term bonds were offered in exchange to holders of Canadian war loan and Victory bonds of issues maturing within the next three and a half years. More than $1,000,000,000 in bonds mature within that period, but the government is offering only one-quarter of that amount in long term bonds at this time.

Subscription books opened today and will be closed on or before May 23 at the discretion of the government.

GENERAL MOTORS REPORTS GAIN IN APRIL SALES

New York, May 11.—(AP)—Domestic and foreign sales of the General Motors corporation to dealers during April aggregated 154,252 automobiles, compared with 150,661 in April, 1930. The total sales for March were 119,195 cars.

Dealers in General Motors cars in the United States during April sold 155,663 cars to consumers, an increase of 24 per cent over deliveries during March, which totaled 101,239. In April last year, the dealers sold 142,904 cars to consumers, an increase of 15 per cent over the March, 1930, total of 123,781 cars.

Sales to dealers in April amounted to 132,629 automobiles, compared with 122,365 last year. The fact that sales by dealers to consumers were greater than sales by the corporation to the dealers is a reflection of the excess stocks of cars carried by dealers in the early stages of the depression. Signs of slackening tendency in purchases by consumers appeared first in May, 1929.

NORTH WESTERN SEEKS TO ISSUE $555,000 BONDS

Washington, May 11.—(AP)—Permission to issue $555,000 of general mortgage 4½ per cent gold bonds was sought today from the interstate commerce commission by the Chicago and North Western railway. Another application by the St. Louis Southwestern railroad asked authority to issue $1,116,000 of first terminal and unification mortgage bonds. These would not be sold now, but would be held in the company's treasury until further authority is obtained from the commission.

Authorization for the Pecos and Northern Texas railway to issue $490,000 of capital stock and $9,000,000 of registered general mortgage 6 per cent gold bonds was given today by the commission. The stocks and bonds are to be delivered to the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe railway in payment of advances. The stock issue will consist of 4,900 shares with a par value of $100 each.

Sen. Fletcher Attacks Rail Rate Increase Proposal

Washington, D. C., May 11.—(AP)—The proposal of 50 railway executives for an increase in freight rates that would raise $450,000,000 more in revenue drew criticism today from Senator Fletcher of Florida, ranking Democrat on the senate commerce committee.

He called for lower rates rather than higher carrying charges and said one reason why trucks were moving so much freight today was because of "high rail rates."

"I cannot see how the railroads can expect to increase their revenues by increasing rates," he said. "Some ten years ago an increase of 40 per cent was allowed the railroads and this brought the rates up to the highest point ever reached. They have been revised downward by the interstate commerce commission in 5,000 out of 6,000 cases brought.

"Today the railroads complain of a loss of business and lay a good deal of that to competition by trucks and to some extent airplanes. Undoubtedly they would increase their revenues by raising the rates provided they could carry the same amount of tonnage, but it is perfectly obvious that one reason why trucks are moving so much freight is because of the high rail rates. Consequently if these rates were increased there would be an inevitable decrease in tonnage."

Seek Reduction.

Freight rates on live stock from western points into Cleveland were attacked today by the chamber of commerce of that city in a complaint to the interstate commerce commission asking a reduction.

Naming 21 carriers, the complaint held that the present rates were prejudicial to the interest of Cleveland business generally and particularly to the meat packing and stock yards industry.

Will Appeal Orally.

Washington, D. C., May 11.—(AP)—Stockholders of the bankrupt Chicago and Alton railroad will appeal orally to the full interstate commerce commission tomorrow to subpoena further testimony dealing with the receivership sale of the road to the Baltimore and Ohio railroad.

After William G. Bierd, president of the Alton, had appeared voluntarily today, although a subpoena for him had been refused, the stockholders carried to the full commission their appeal and obtained permission to argue it before resuming the regular hearing.

Bierd, in his testimony today, said the road was worth $11,000,000 more than the commission's valuation of $75,000,000 as of 1919.

Opposes Trunk Line Plans.

Boston, Mass., May 11.—(AP)—F. L. Loree, president of the Delaware and Hudson railroad, today opposed trunk line penetration into New England territory. He appeared before the legislative committee on transportation which is investigating the New England railroad situation.

Besides disapproving proposals to allocate the New England roads to the trunk lines, Mr. Loree said he favored withdrawal of the Pennsylvania and New York Central railroads from control or ownership in New England roads.

Regarding competition from buses and private automobiles for the railroads, Loree said "people who have put their money into buses are going to lose it, just as those who invested in trolley lines."

Sargent Says Loadings Are 22% Below Year Ago

Fred W. Sargent, president of the Chicago and North Western railroad, said loadings to date in May are about 22 per cent under last year, with the greatest decline in the movement of ore, which amounted to 90 per cent, as compared with May last year. He declined to comment on what action might be taken on the dividend at tomorrow's board meeting.

BY FRED HARVEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 11.—The stock exchange had a hard time keeping up appearances as the new week got under way. Most of the day's business originated on the floor and among board room semiprofessionals and as usual when trading is such a professional affair there was considerable whipsawing of prices. The bears made sporadic thrusts at pivotal stocks and succeeded in turning the list definitely down in the earlier dealings, but recoveries were the rule in the afternoon and the close found a majority of the key issues showing slight gains, with the list at large no worse than irregular.

Volume fell off to about 1,300,000

BANK OF MONTREAL

Established 1817

Chicago Office: 27 South LaSalle Street

CHICAGO STOCK MARKET WAITS FOR TRADE SIGN

Inactive Pending Turn of Business Events.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

The inconclusive nature of the price movements and the relatively small volume of stock which turned over in the Chicago exchange furnish ample evidence of the present indecision of professional as well as amateur speculators.

With money obtainable at starvation rates and finding few employers it is apparent that the professional operators are exercising unusual caution in making commitments. Brokers continue to advocate extreme care on short term operations. The speculative community finds dullness enveloping it earlier in the year than is customary. The feeling is that the low money policy will eventually find response in business as well as the bond market and give the stock market a new footing. Few persons are willing to hazard an opinion as to when the market will benefit from the present rates.

Motors Improve.

The motor shares had the best claim to advance and on the whole they made the best showing though the demonstration was anything but spectacular. Their claim was based on the reports of current business and the prospects of General Motors, which were interpreted as a good sign for the industry as a whole.

The gains of the principal motor shares were limited to one point. Utilities were irregular with gains predominating. In all cases the recessions were narrow.

According to official sources the net earnings of the Peabody Coal company for the year ended April 30 available for preferred dividends were $921,241, as compared with $1,-130,488 in the previous year. This is just short of dividend requirements on the preferred. This was after all charges, including depreciation, depletion, interest, and federal taxes.

Regarded as Fair Showing.

The showing is regarded by the company as satisfactory in view of the mild winter, which, coupled with the depressed industrial conditions, reduced the demand for fuel. Peabody stock sold yesterday at 3, which was a fraction above its previous price. Neither the common nor the preferred has an active market.

Kollit-Sparks Industries, Inc., automotive accessory concern, yesterday announced through President Q. G. Kollitt that it has acquired the business of the Hilab Products company of Indianapolis, manufacturers of rear vision devices for automobiles. The deal was made on a cash basis, it was stated.

CUTS VALUATION.

TALLAHASSEE, Fla.—(AP)—The state tax board has reduced the assessed valuation of the Seaboard and Nashville railroad from $70,810 in 1930 to $2,561,260 for 1931.

SOUTH SELLS COTTON

The south was the best seller of cotton yesterday while the buying mainly was by trade interests. There was nothing in the general character of the weather or the trade operations to cause a decided change in prices. Sentiment leaned more to the bear side, being encouraged by reports that sales of standard cloths in April were only 61 per cent of the month's production, while the latter was at the weekly rate of 56,489,000 yards, against 54,328,000 in March when sales were 109 per cent of the output.

Weather conditions in the south were in the main favorable, although temperatures were lower. Manchester reported a poor week for trade in print cloths. Worth street did a fair business on Saturday. Closing trades were at net losses of 6@9 points on the active futures in Chicago, with other markets off 7@13 points. Spots in New York lost 10 points to 9.90c, with New Orleans off 15 points to 9.55c. Galveston was 9.80c and Houston 9.70c. Liverpool closed 13 points lower, with spot sales 5,000 bales. # FAIR WEATHER PUTS PRESSURE ON WHEAT MART

Prices Decline Slightly; Corn Less Active.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Favorable weather conditions over the American northwest, with rains fairly general over the week-end, and relative weakness in Liverpool, put sufficient pressure on the wheat market yesterday to prevent prices from getting as high as Saturday's finish at any time during the day. Buying against bids checked the break, but the finish was at net losses of ¼c; July closed at 63@63¼; September, 62⅝@62¾c, and December, 65⅞@66c. Old May was dull, but gained ½c and closed at 82⅜c.

There was no rain of consequence in the prairie provinces over the week-end and the Winnipeg wheat market in consequence showed relative firmness, closing at the same prices as on Saturday with the July, 63¼c. Liverpool was depressed by a lack of cash demand and finished ½@¾d lower with July at 67½c.

Speculative Trade Light.

Speculative interest in the wheat market has been light for a number of months, and since late in February the July delivery in Chicago has held within a range of 6⅝c, touching the lowest figure of the season on April 2 when it was 58½c, while by April 13 it was back to 65¼c, and the market has fluctuated in an erratic manner between the two extremes, running into support around 60c, and meeting with free selling above 64c.

News, apparently, has had little effect, as at the close yesterday the July wheat delivery was ¾c higher than the finish on Dec. 31, 1930, although during that period the stock market has experienced drastic liquidation and aside from the dry weather which has developed in the Canadian northwest there has been nothing in the wheat situation itself that might be construed as decidedly bullish.

The trade generally is inclined to attribute the failure of the wheat market to respond to news of any kind for more than a few days at a time to government interference with business. There was some talk during the day of too much moisture for the Nebraska wheat crop, although the official returns for the month of April showed a total for the state of only 1.53 inches, compared with a normal of 2.53 inches.

The detailed government report for Nebraska said in part the stands were generally very heavy and therefore susceptible to greater injury should a long period of dry weather prevail. On the other hand, the thick dense wheat cannot dry out well under an abnormally heavy moisture supply and this condition would be favorable for development of rust.

Export Demand Light.

A few unfavorable reports were received from parts of Kansas, but appeared to be local in character, and the general run of crop comments indicated the outlook for the new wheat crop was well maintained.

While messages from the seaboard indicated an optimistic feeling prevailed regarding the outlook for export business in wheat in the immediate future there was little interest over night, and only small sales of Manitobas were indicated during the day. World's shipments were nearly 20,000,000 bu, and there was an increase of over 6,000,000 bu in supplies on ocean passage. Stocks in Germany on April 15 are estimated at 11,000,000 bu, compared with 17,600,000 bu last year. A decrease of 1,360,000 bu was shown in the domestic visible supply during the past week, with the total now 193,831,000 bu, against 126,310,000 bu last year.

Smaller Trade in Corn.

The corn market failed to show the pronounced activity of late last week and a leading local professional was understood to have done practically nothing during the day, although continuing to talk bullish. Prices fluctuated in erratic manner within a range of around 1c, closing ⅝c higher to ⅝c lower, with May showing the strength. The latter finished at 60¼c, with July, 61¼@61⅝; September, 59⅝@59⅝c, and December, 51⅝@51¾c.

Small receipts and a decrease of 1,407,000 bu in the domestic visible supply had some effect on May corn. Total stocks at terminal markets are now placed at 16,863,000 bu, against 17,056,000 bu last year. Shipping demand was slow.

Oats held within a range of ¼@⅝c, and finished unchanged to ⅛c lower, with May, 28¼c; July, 28⅝c; September, 28⅝@28¼c, and December, 30⅝@30⅜c. Trade was largely of a local character. Crop comments were favorable.

Longs were fair sellers of rye in sympathy with the easier undertone in wheat and the close was ½c lower with July, 37c, and September, 39c. Army and cut worms were reported as doing some damage in North Dakota, according to the detailed government returns. It was claimed around 2,000,000 bu domestic and Canadian rye were sold for export late last week for shipment via Montreal.

STATE OF ILLINOIS

PROPOSALS FOR PRINTING AND BINDING WHICH MAY BE DONE AND PERFORMED ANYWHERE IN THE STATE OF ILLINOIS.

Sealed proposals will be received until 10 o'clock A. M. on Friday, June 5, 1931, at the office of the Director of Purchases and Construction, in the Capitol, Springfield, Illinois, for contracts to furnish all classes of printing paper, cover paper and other paper and envelopes, and stationery and stationery supplies for the State, and to do the lithographing, engraving, electrotyping, plate printing, and other like printing for the State, for the period of six months, one year, or two years, from July 1, 1931, as may be deemed to be for the best interests of the State in the discretion of the Director of Purchases and Construction.

The kinds, quality and quantity of such paper and the size and weight per ream are as described in Specifications on file in the office of Superintendent of Printing, at the Capitol in Springfield.

Separate bids are solicited for each class or sub-class of articles to be furnished or work to be done, and each of such class or sub-class shall be let under a separate contract.

The Governor and the Director of Purchases and Construction shall thereupon fix a time, which shall not be more than ten (10) days thereafter, when contracts will be publicly awarded, or such contracts may be publicly awarded on the same day that bids are opened and publicly read. The award of contracts will be made by the Director of Purchases and Construction, with the approval of the Governor, to the lowest and best bidders for the interests of the State of Illinois, whose bids are in conformity with the requirements of the proposals.

The Director of Purchases and Construction reserves the right, with the approval of the Governor, to reject any or all bids, or bids for separate classes or sub-classes if in his opinion such action would be to the interests of the State of Illinois.

Each bid, the total amount of which is less than twenty-five thousand dollars ($25,000), must be accompanied by a certified check of five hundred dollars ($500), and each bid the total amount of which is twenty-five thousand dollars ($25,000) or more, must be accompanied by a certified check in the sum of one thousand dollars ($1,000).

Each bid must also be accompanied by a provisional agreement, under seal, executed by the bidder, to the effect that if such bid be accepted and if he shall fail to execute a contract and execute a bond within the time and conditioned as required by law, then, and in either such case, the amount of such certified check shall become absolutely the property of the State of Illinois and may be retained by the State as for liquidated damages.

Contracts will be entered into for supplying the various quantities of work and materials above mentioned required by the State of Illinois, whether more or less than the amounts estimated for by the Director of Purchases and Construction.

Blank proposals containing the instructions, schedule and specifications may be obtained by addressing,

Henry H. Kohn, Director.
H. L. Williamson, Supt. of Printing.

GERMAN GOV'T REVERSES GRAIN IMPORT PLANS

[Copyright, 1931, By the New York Times.]

BERLIN, May 11. — The original plans of the German government to permit the importation of about 2,000,000 bushels of foreign wheat by a reduction of about fifty cents per bushel on the existing duty were revised in an emergency decree published here which sets the amount of wheat to be imported at 20 per cent of the amount imported last year between April and July, or considerably less than 500,000 tons. Moreover the duty will be reduced only about thirty cents per bushel.

It is to be expected that modification on the origin plans will meet with considerable criticism.

Estimated receipts at Chicago today: Cattle, 7,000; hogs, 19,000; sheep, 14,000.

The trend of hog prices was reversed following a slow weak opening yesterday and closing sales were 5@10c above the general selling at the close of last week. Some medium and weighty butchers showed 15@20c advance in the scramble for stock toward the finish. The extreme top and general average prices moved up 5c at $7.30 and $6.80 respectively.

An advance in the market for fresh pork loints, to the highest point since last November brought small packers and city butchers on the market with urgent orders. Some shipping orders that arrived late went over unfilled. Receipts at Chicago at 37,000 were third smallest for Monday since last October.

May Hogs Bring $7.40.

Lightweight hogs to be delivered during the first half of the present month were sold at $7.40 on the futures market yesterday. Bids for the last half of the month were down to $6.75. June lights were offered at $8.00, but no bids were made. September heavy grades were offered at $7.90 and bid $7.25 at the close. On the "to arrive" market lightweights for today's delivery were bid $7.30 and mediums averaging 210@260 lbs. were bid $6.55.

The cattle market was a two way affair yesterday, medium and heavy stock meeting slow sale at weaker prices, while light steers and yearlings sold readily and in some instances showed slight gains. No yearlings of outstanding quality were offered, although $9.00 was paid for some mixed yearling steers and heifers averaging 776 lbs. Some long fed steers averaging 1,395 lbs. reached $9.25.

Numerous sales of medium to good grades of fat cattle were made within a range of $7.00@7.75, some up to $8.00 showing good finish. Cows and heifers sold slowly, but prices showed little change.

Colorado Lambs Bring $12.00.

Spring lambs from Colorado sold at $12.00 yesterday, while California springers brought $11.25 and a few natives were sold up to $11.50. Aged wool lambs met fair demand at strong to 25c higher prices, the best selling up to $9.85.

Aged sheep scored a 25c advance, wool ewes reaching the $4.00 line again, while choice 136 lb. shorn stock went to a local packer at $3.40. Feeding and shearing lambs were scarce and unchanged. Total arrivals at Chicago yesterday at 14,000 were smallest for Monday since Jan. 19.

STANDARD OIL OF INDIANA ADDS 2 NEW DIRECTORS

The board of directors of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana was increased to thirteen yesterday with the election of Louis L. Stephens, general counsel of the company, and Robert E. Wilson, head of the development and patent department.

This action was taken following on receipt of notice that steps recently taken to reorganize the company under the modern corporation act of Indiana had been completed and the reorganization approved by state officials. While the reorganization involves no fundamental change in the company's corporate structure, the new charter allows an increase in the number of directors.

Election of Mr. Stephens and Mr. Wilson to the board, according to Edward G. Seubert, president, was in furtherance of the company's policy of having on its governing body executives who are at the head of important phases of operations.

GEN. ELECTRIC REPORTS RECORD ICEBOX SALES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 11.—Showing the forty-eight consecutive sales gain and one of the largest single monthly increases, April purchases of the General Electric refrigerator in the greater New York territory topped the 1930 period by 82 per cent, it was announced tod y by Rex Cole, Inc.

Sales records, it was said, were broken in all parts of the country. The announcement added:

"While April was one of the biggest months in our history, we expect May to be still greater. This expectation is due to the fact that dealers and utility companies will stage concerted sales campaigns as a part of the plan of the National Electric Light association to sell 1,000,000 electric refrigerators this year."

HAMMOND CLOCK YEAR EARNINGS TOTAL $507,721

Net income of the Hammond Clock company for the year ended March 31, 1931, was $507,721, after all charges including depreciation and federal income taxes, equivalent to $5.46 a share on the 93,000 shares of common stock issued and subscribed, the annual report shows. This compares with a net income of $155,937 in the year ended March 31, 1930, equivalent to $1.68 a share on the same basis.

The balance sheet as of March 31, 1931, shows current assets of $959,427, including cash of $228,366, against current liabilities of $289,773. Total assets increased during the year from $722,869 to $1,311,860, while surplus gained from $137,627 to $552,712.

The marked increase in the company's profits during the year, Laurens Hammond, president, pointed out in the report, was due to the fact that operations were extended.

Timken-Detroit Axle Co. Reports Greater Activity

Marked activity in the automobile and motor truck industry is reflected in the announcement of P. W. Hood vice president, that May schedules of the Timken-Detroit Axle company are the largest in volume since May, 1930.

"Our business is showing an encouraging upward turn since April 1," Mr. Hood said. "This is largely due to developments in the motor truck field, which is rapidly expanding its scope of freight transportation operations. We also have received an order for 1,000 six wheel through drive, worm gear units for export shipment, one-half to be delivered this month and the balance in September. This is the largest order for six wheel units on record."

THOUSANDS LINE STREET AS CHICAGO'S JUBILEE PARADE MOVES ON TO THE MUSIC OF SCORES OF BANDS AND DRUM AND BUGLE CORPS. The parade as it appeared south of Randolph street after sunset. The rear float is supposed to represent the cruiser Olympia, Dewey's flagship in the battle of Manila bay. In the background the lights of the electric signs along Michigan avenue twinkle through the darkness. (Story on page 1.)

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

GIRLS AS GREAT ATTRACTION AS ARE FLOATS. One of the groups which adorned the decorated cars which appeared in last night's Chicago Jubilee parade. (Story on page 1.)

CHICAGO AUTOMOBILE TRADE ASSOCIATION FLOAT IN PARADE. Thirty-three girls, representing the same number of makes of autos, on float carrying legend, "The World Rides in Motor Cars," which is one of seven put in the line by the dealers.

WHERE THE CROWD BROKE THROUGH LINE OF PARADE AT ONE TIME. Scene at Michigan avenue and Adams street, where the spectators encroached on the street, forcing the parade, which had previously swept along from curb to curb, to change its formation. Even after it did so the crowd at one time broke through, forcing a momentary halt. (Story on page 1.)
